Expense of Slaughtering Competition Is Regained in High Prices; Typical Instances Cited.

BY RAYMOND.

Washington, D. C., May 2.—[Special.]—In all the trust busting talk of late years there has been a suspicious amount of glittering generality as to the method of operation of these great combinations of capital. It is seldom one is able to get hold of definite details as to the methods adopted to crush out competition.

Almost all the prosecutions thus far instituted by the government have been based largely, if not entirely, upon inferences from known commercial conditions and not upon direct proof of conspiracy to restrict competition. Readers of THE TRIBUNE already have been given a good deal of information in regard to the general methods of the powder trust, which has been sandbagging the whole country, including the United States government. A prosecution of that trust is one of the things which may be confidently predicted.

Such proceedings necessarily will be limited to things which are not barred by the statutes of limitations. These matters the attorney general now is considering with a view to prosecution.

Illinois Man Government's Ally.

It so happens, in looking into the affairs of the powder trust, which has a good deal more to do with everyday life than most people would imagine, the government has been able to call to its assistance R. S. Waddell of Peoria, Ill., an independent powder manufacturer, who for twenty-five years or so was in the employ of the Dupont Powder company, and who participated in the merging of that concern with other compahies into the powder trust. He was an actual party to the early proceedings of the old dynamite and powder pool, which began operations in the way of crushing out competition as a preliminary to the creation of the trust as it now exists.

As to actual evidence which he has turned over to the attorney general, this important witness' mouth is closed, but I have secured from him as the result of a long and extremely interesting interview a detailed statement of just how trusts work, how they kill off competition, and how, with remorseless success, they drive the individual operator to the wall.

Of course the powder trust is only run on the same lines as other trusts. It probably is no better and no worse than many other great combinations. There was a time when it tried to buy out its small competitors, but when the pool was formed it was found to be cheaper and more effective to crush the life out of the little fellows, to squeeze the blood from their veins, then to buy up the carcass for a song.

Shows No Pity to Independents.

This plan, bloody and cruel as it seems to ordinary business men, was followed out by the powder people, although the trust included men like the Hazzards, Duponts, and others, who in the days of their individual existence were known as upright, high minded business men, but who, as soon as they sank themselves into a corporation, became parties to the most vicious methods.

In the early part of 1902 there was in existence an independent powder company at Birmingham, Ala. It had been started by a man by the name of Green and his partner from Cincinnati, but the capital mainly was subscribed in Birmingham. It did a profitable little business and its plant was so constructed it could make powder at a net cost at the mill of about 75 cents per keg. The powder pool in that year found it advisable to crush out the Birmingham plant, which was extending its business in a legitimate way so as to threaten the success of two powder factories in the pool located at Nashville and Chattanooga.

At that time Mr. Waddell was general sales agent of the powder pool. He knew exactly how that Birmingham factory was driven out of business, and I might as well let him tell that part of the story.

"It was really an easy matter," he explained, "when you consider the resources of the pool, which embraced all the large manufacturers of powder and dynamite in the country. It was nothing more nor less than what people in the west call a roundup. The pool had mills at Nashville and Chattanooga. The Nashville concern was selected to beat the life out of the Birmingham competitor.

How "Sandbagging" Is Done.

"The northern companies in the pool found it convenient, under one excuse or another, to decline orders from the territory tributary to Birmingham. We knew the Birmingham mill could not make powder for less than 75 cents a keg. Thereupon a salesman of the Nashville concern, acting under orders from the central pool, visited towns about Birmingham. They fixed the price, which in each case was 70 cents a keg, plus the freight rate from Birmingham to that particular town.

"This settled the Birmingham powder mill in a comparatively short time, because it could not sell a keg of powder anywhere within its own territory in any way or at any time except at a loss of 5 cents a keg."

"But of course the Nashville mill must have suffered the same loss?"

"Of course, so far as the books went. But the powder to fill these orders was supplied to the Nashville mill by northern companies. The Duponts, Hazzards, and other mills in the pool contributed pro rata. They selected the Nashville mill merely as their agent, and it cost that concern only its share in the total loss in the Birmingham district. Freight rates in the south are generally high, and within a comparatively short distance in a circle around its mill, the Birmingham company could not compete with the mills in the pool, and over all the territory to the north and east of Nashville and Chattanooga the price was kept up to the usual average of $1.20."

"Are you personally acquainted with these facts, or is this hearsay?"

Ruin, Then Buy Plant for a Song.

"I ought to know about it, because I made shipments of powder to supply these orders. I supervised the sales, and I drew upon the different companies to supply their quota.

SLAYER OF MRS. MIZE FOUND?

Owen Harris, a Negro, Under Arrest in St. Louis for Chicago Murder.

St. Louis, Mo., May 2.—On information furnished by Detective Bacon of Chicago, Owen Harris, a negro, was arrested here tonight on a charge of having killed Mrs. Minnie Mize, near the Del Prado hotel, Chicago.

Detective Bacon, connected with the Hyde Park police, has been in St. Louis for three days, presumably looking up the Harris clew. The detective bureau and the Hyde Park police did not hear from him last night. Mrs. F. E. Wilson, Mrs. Mize's companion at the time the latter was shot, has always declared the murderer was a white man.

INSURANCE RATES TO BE RAISED 25%

Fire Companies Plan to Tax Whole Nation to Recoup Their Losses in San Francisco.

TO PAY ONLY 60 PER CENT?

Scheme on Foot to Compromise with the Policy Holders in Earthquake Stricken City.

New York, May 2.—[Special.]—The fire insurance companies will levy a tax on the property of the whole country to recoup their losses in San Francisco.

A horizontal advance of 25 per cent on all fire risks will be made. The increase may go above 25 per cent.

The San Francisco disaster caused a loss to the insurance companies of at least $150,000,000—perhaps $175,000,000. With possibly a few exceptions the insurance companies of the United States and Great Britain have reserves sufficiently large to pay the losses. These reserves were accumulated out of profits already made from policy holders.

Making Plans in Secret.

In spite of this fact the insurance managers in secret session in this city are planning to increase rates to the whole country, thus making the people pay the losses for which the people already had provided a surplus.

The plans for this private taxing on all property in the United States are being laid with the utmost secrecy. A joint committee of fifteen, made up of five delegates each from the Fire Insurance Exchange, the Western Union, and the Southwestern Tariff association, met in this city today.

Hope to Evade Law.

Inasmuch as a bill is pending before the legislature at Albany making it illegal for insurance companies to unite for the purpose of increasing rates, every effort was made to keep the proceedings as quiet as possible.

The afternoon was devoted to a discussion of the losses incurred in San Francisco and of the quickest and easiest methods of recouping the losses. While the men who attended the meeting refuse to discuss what was done, or to even admit there was a meeting, it is known that the sentiment in favor of raising the rate was so unanimous that the increase of at least 25 per cent is regarded as a foregone conclusion.

Pay Only 60 Per Cent in Frisco.

Not only do the companies propose to advances rates, but they are planning to compromise their San Francisco losses on a basis of about 60 per cent of the aggregate amount. They argue that if united action by all the companies is agreed to an insurance commission can say to a committee of the policy holders in San Francisco:

"Instead of contesting claims on the ground that many buildings were damaged by earthquake before they took fire, the companies will settle all claims at 60 per cent. It would be better for both that you should accept 60 per cent and get your money in thirty days than that you should wait a year or so while the claims are being adjudicated through the slow process of litigation."

Pay No Earthquake Losses.

The extent of the loss seems to grow more serious and grave as additional information is received from the Pacific coast representatives of the companies. The discussions in New York were largely upon the question as to the attitude the adjusters of companies should be instructed to take in regard to disputed questions.

The great companies express a strong purpose to be not only just but generous in cases of doubt with the victims of the San Francisco fire; but they all evidently feel what was expressed by the president of a large American company, who said today:

"The adjusters for this company will not be allowed to waive the conditions of its policies nor the conditions and restrictions of its charter. We have no more right to pay a loss occasioned by earthquake than we have to pay a loss of life. We are not an earthquake insurance company nor a life insurance company."

With the boundaries of the burned district definitely known it is only within twenty-four hours that the companies have been able to ascertain with exactness their amounts at risk in that district.

Because of exemption from loss by earthquake damage, well informed insurance men estimated today that the companies would ultimately pay from 60 to 75 per cent of the aggregate amount at risk.

The meeting of the committee of fifteen will be continued tomorrow.

Ætna's Loss Is $2,700,000.

Hartford, Conn., May 2.—A statement has been issued by the Ætna Fire Insurance company of this city on its liabilities resulting from the San Francisco fire and the net loss of the company is estimated at $2,700,000. The total amount of insurance carried by the company in the burned city was $4,400,000.

Won't Pay Earthquake Losses.

LONDON, May 2.—A meeting of the representatives of the several British fire insurance companies interested in San Francisco was held in London today. It was unanimously agreed to send a joint dispatch to Oakland to the following effect:

"Under any circumstances the British offices will only pay the losses for which they are legally liable, since to go beyond their contracts would be illegal. They cannot recognize any liability for damage by earthquake where no fire ensued, or for damages to buildings pulled down or destroyed by order of the San Francisco authorities."

Scotch Company Loses $2,500,000.

ABERDEEN, Scotland, May 2.—At the annual meeting of the Northern Assurance company today the chairman, Sir David Stewart, announced that the company's total risk in the destroyed portion of San Francisco was a little over $2,500,000.

BETRAYS TRUST IN OLD AGE

Tiffany Thief Man of 60 Who Had Been Faithful 35 Years.

REACHES PINNACLE; FALLS.

Theft of $10,000 Admitted on Arrest; Suspected of Taking Diamonds.

New York, May 2.—[Special.]—John B. Brosseau, almost 60 years old, is the "trusted employé" who has been systematically robbing Tiffany's, and whose thefts amount to at least $10,000, and may reach a total of $35,000. He started at Tiffany's as a boy thirty-five years ago and worked his way up to a place of the highest trust.

The Tiffany people say that Brosseau's thefts in money are known to amount to $10,000. In addition to the thefts of money Brosseau is under suspicion of knowing something about the disappearance of three pear shaped diamonds valued at $35,000, for which search has been made all over the world. They were in his care.

No Employe More Trusted.

In addition to having charge of the payrolls of the shop, which employs probably most of the high priced artisans in the country, Brosseau was custodian of all the precious stones and jewelry in process of manufacture or repair from the time the materials arrived until the work upon them was completed.

He sat in a cage with a safe at his back. When the workmen finished at night they handed in to Brosseau the stuff they had been working on. He locked it up in the safe and they got it again in the morning.

The three pear shaped diamonds that were in his custody and that disappeared weighed about twelve carats apiece and had been bought to be put in a neckpiece. From what the police could find out about the disappearance of these stones—the largest diamond theft in years—the three stones were put on the window sill of the cage and disappeared from there. Brosseau insisted he had never received them that night.

Suspected of Big Diamond Theft.

He was one of the first persons the police and private detectives were inclined to suspect. But when they hinted at it it is understood the officers of the company pooh poohed the idea. Brosseau denied then, as he denies now, that he knew anything about the theft. The company offered a reward of $5,000 for the recovery of the stones and another $5,000 for the arrest and conviction of the thief.

Brosseau's system of stealing money by the manipulation of the pay rolls was extremely simple and has been worked many times before. He simply credited men with working more than they had and pocketed the difference in their wages. According to Inspector McLaughlin, his rakeoff was $60 to $75 and sometimes more a week.

Brosseau was found at his home at 41 Lenox avenue at noon. He had read the story of the thefts and was evidently expecting arrest. He came to the door with his wife and two grown children.

Is Not Surprised at Arrest.

"I know what you want," he said to Dunn, according to the latter's story. "I've been expecting this. I'm guilty."

Mrs. Brosseau, a pleasant faced woman, threw her arms around her husband's neck and began to cry, and the children cried. Brosseau kissed them good-by and said:

"Try not to worry. I hope it will come out all right in the end."

Brosseau had been preparing to move out of town. Pictures had been taken down from the walls of his home and much of the furniture packed.

About two weeks ago it was learned he came home and told his family what he had done. He said that he believed the company had begun to suspect him and that he didn't know whether to make a clean breast of it or not. They urged him to do so at once, but Brosseau finally refused. He said that he wanted time to think the matter over and apparently had the idea that he could get away.

Since making the confession to his family Brosseau has scarcely had a night's sleep. The son and daughter were active in the Sunday school of the Church of the Puritans in Harlem and are greatly respected.

Woman Cause of His Downfall?

Asked what he had done with the money, Brosseau said:

"I used it for extraordinary family expenses. I have no vices and I am not a gambler or frequenter of resorts of a bad character. For thirty-five years I have worked faithfully for Tiffany & Co. I have gone to work at 7:30 o'clock in the morning and have worked until 6 o'clock at night and have always tried to do my work thoroughly."

Although he lived most amicably with his wife and two children, it was said by old Tiffany employés that Brosseau was deeply interested in another woman. They tell of the visits this woman used to pay him at least twice a month for years.

NEW SHERMAN HOUSE SURE; COST WILL BE $1,750,000.

Joseph Beifeld Gets Ninety-nine Year Lease for Property and Is to Put Up Sixteen Story Hotel.

A new Sherman house, to cost $1,750,000, to occupy the site of the present building at the northwest corner of Clark and Randolph streets, was made a certainty yesterday by the closing of a ninety-nine years' lease of the ground.

Joseph Beifeld, who now conducts the hotel under a twenty years' lease, is also the new lessee, and the transaction marks the culmination of extended negotiations on his part with Walter H. Wilson, trustee of the Francis Sherman estate, which owns the grounds.

The lease provides for a graded annual rent as follows: $55,000 for the first two years, $60,000 for the succeeding eleven years, $63,000 for the next ten years, $66,000 for the following ten years, and $69,000 for the remaining sixty-six years of the term.

The building will have a frontage of 160 feet on Randolph street and 180 feet on Clark street, will be sixteen stories high, and of the highest type of fireproof construction. It is planned to begin the work of tearing down the present building on May 1, 1907, and it is expected to have the building completed within a year thereafter.

The property has been occupied for nearly three-quarters of a century for hotel purposes.

TEN AMERICAN FISHERMEN HELD IN MEXICAN PRISON.

Crew of Smack That Was Seized Is Denied Opportunity to Communicate with American Consul.

Galveston, Tex., May 2.—Manager Munn of the Gulf Fisheries company of this city today received dispatches from the Warren Fish company of Pensacola, Fla., stating that the firm had just received word from their fishing smack, Sallie Stein, seized by a Mexican gunboat on Thursday last, that ten men taken from the schooner were held in prison and communication with the American consul was absolutely denied them. The cargo of fish in the meantime is rotting.

Manager Munn sent a cablegram to the captain of his company's detained smack at the same time the Pensacola and Mobile boats were seized. But nothing can be learned from that office, and it is feared that his crew also has been thrown into prison.

Manager Munn communicated with Senator Culberson and requested him to ask the state department to take action in regard to the matter.

Matter Is Being Investigated.

Washington, D. C., May 2.—The action of the Mexican government in stopping American fishing vessels off the coast of Yucatan is now the subject of telegraphic correspondence between the state department and the American embassy at the City of Mexico.

CHICAGOANS LOSE IN PRIMARY PLEAS

Mayor Dunne and Others Urge in Vain Law for Direct Nominations by Plurality Vote.

ELOQUENCE FALLS FLAT.

Republican Committee at Springfield Omits Every Feature Recommended by Lobbyists.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Springfield, Ill., May 2.—[Special.]—The voice of the plain people with a plain person, Roger Sullivan, as one of its tongues was heard in the hall of the house of representatives this afternoon demanding the passage of a primary law allowing the direct nomination of candidates by plurality vote.

Although the pleas for district primaries were eloquent, they could not have been convincing, for while they were being made a committee from the republican conference was in the speaker's room drafting a bill for the convention system in pursuance to an agreement which had been reached by the majority just before the Chicago delegation was heard in arguments for direct nominations. It is in direct opposition to the demand made in the public meeting.

For the plain people appeared Mayor Dunne, Dr. Doty, Henry M. Ashton, John A. Watson, and a number of I. M. O. notables. There also appeared Plain Person Roger C. Sullivan, Plain Person Jake Hopkins, Plain Person J. J. McLaughlin, and other organization democrats of the Hopkins-Sullivan clan who are converts to the belief that the people shall and will rule.

Sullivan's Work in Words.

Violent efforts were made by members of the legislature to forget that the last time Mayor Dunne and Plain Person Roger Sullivan appeared before the legislature they came simultaneously, but not together. Then the mayor was one of the eloquent lobby asking the passage of the gas bill. Mr. Sullivan was not eloquent, but he was working—and it wasn't for the bill. This time Mr. Sullivan did not work so much, but he spoke more.

The Rev. Jenkin Lloyd Jones and the Rev. R. A. White and John Fitzpatrick, E. A. Nockels, Frank Buchanan and William M. Rossell of the Chicago Federation of Labor were present. It was a Hearst movement for which a special train had been provided. The delegation came at an auspicious moment. In the morning the democratic bill, which provides for direct primaries, had been taken up in the house and some preliminary discussion, which once reached the stage of motion to strike out its enacting clause, had been given it.

It was much desired by democrats that a vote on the bill should be taken at once. This would have killed it instantly and would have made the visit of the Chicago delegation something of the nature of a funeral service.

Mayor's Mission Political.

Why the democrats should have desired the death of the measure before the ministering efforts of Mayor Dunne, Mr. Sullivan, et al. could reach it is left unexplained. Many things are left so in the legislature.

Furthermore the visit was opportune, because Mr. Sullivan had taken a prominent and successful part yesterday in one of the conventions detested by the direct primary advocates. He came as a sinner freshly repentant and therefore doubly eloquent. Mayor Dunne, also as a victim of this convention, was doubly interested politically.

In the afternoon, when the mayor, ministers, and plain persons arrived, the republicans were in conference, having succeeded in gathering together nearly eighty members of the house. This assemblage had taken up resolutions which Speaker Shurtleff had proposed the night before and was considering them when the Chicago delegation alighted from a special train and proceeded by easy stages to the state house. There they found most of the democrats ready to listen, but there were no republicans present. It was suggested the delegation proceed to convert democrats to the principles of direct primaries, but as this suggestion carried with it intimation that the minority side of the house had been four flushing up to date, it was rejected with scorn, and the mayor, ministers, federation of labor representatives, and plain persons sat down to wait until the republican caucus finished its labors.

A small delegation went to call on the governor to ask if the republican conference had been called for this particular hour in order that the republicans might side step the public meeting.

"If this is the case," the governor was told, "we will have the special train sidetracked and stay here until midwinter."

Waits on Caucus Action.

The governor assured them he did not believe any intentional discourtesy was intended and the conference even then probably was making all haste to wind up its business and be able to give the rest of the afternoon to discussion.

With this understanding the delegation waited until 3 o'clock, when the republicans, having agreed on the basis upon which another bill is to be drawn and having appointed a committee to draw it, emerged from the conference room and took seats in the hall.

The agreement which they had reached was contained in Shurtleff's resolutions, of which the first two sections provided that it was the sense of the caucus that the primary law for the nomination of all candidates for all elective, state, and county officers, clerks of Appellate courts, representatives in congress, members of the state board of equalization, and representatives in the general assembly by all political parties should be framed substantially on these fundamental principles:

"First—Several counties of the state be divided into primary districts of not less than two nor more than seven contiguous election precincts of not more than 800 party voters; and from primary districts, delegates to be elected directly by voters to state, congressional, senatorial, and county conventions. Delegates receiving a plurality of votes to be elected to the several conventions.

Official Ballot Provided.

"Second—Further, an official ballot is to be provided upon which any candidate may secure a name placed by filing a request or petition so that said candidate may be voted for directly by his party voters in every primary district in the county or counties where such request or petition has been filed; and a party candidate for any respective office receiving the largest number of votes cast for that office in any such primary district shall be entitled to the votes of the delegates from such primary district

SCORE CARDS SPOIL PUPILS.

Boys Who Deliver Bentley-Murray Sheet Absorbed in Races.

"MAKE BOOKS" IN SCHOOL.

Inspector Davies Begins Prosecution Despite Political Pull.

Complaints that the minds of certain school children are being corrupted by racetrack "dope" led to the arrest yesterday of J. S. Murray, president of Bentley, Murray & Co., printers of sporting score cards. Twenty-five charges of the illegal employment of children are made against Mr. Murray. The prosecution was instituted by Edgar T. Davies, chief of the state bureau of factory inspection.

Interwoven with the charges of violation of the child labor law are accusations that Murray attempted to ward off prosecution by political influence. The instance is pointed to by Mr. Davies as an apt illustration of a customary means employed to thwart the enforcement of city and state laws.

Two weeks ago E. M. Connery, a truant officer, reported to the compulsory education department of the board of education that certain boys who had come under his observation showed evidence of demoralization caused by their employment to distribute race and baseball result cards. The boys, who were said to be under 14 years of age, were employed, it was found, by the Bentley-Murray concern.

The instructors of the youths in question testified that the boys were listless in their school work, that their minds were fixed only on the evening's work of distributing the racing results, and that they were absorbed in sporting topics as a direct outgrowth of their employment.

Boys Make Books on Races.

In several instances actual betting on the races and the ball games was discovered in the school precincts and traced directly to the boys employed by the score card company. Some of the boys thus employed are said to have "made books" on the races and other sporting events, in which other school children were taught to hazard their pennies.

After the close of school for the day the boys were wont to hasten directly to the headquarters of Bentley, Murray & Co., 52 Wabash avenue, where the score cards are printed late in the afternoon. About 150 boys assemble there every night to distribute the score sheets throughout the city.

The truant officer's report was forwarded to Chief Inspector Davies, who immediately detailed inspectors to investigate. The inspectors stationed themselves in the entrance of the building during distribution, and immediately got into trouble with President Murray, who, they declare, ejected them forcibly. This is denied by Mr. Murray.

The inspectors found twelve boys who, they charge, are illegally employed. Twenty-five warrants against Murray were sworn out.

Political Influence Used.

Then Murray, it is declared, got busy with his political influence. A state official of considerable prominence called on Chief Davies and interceded for leniency. The state official reminded Davies that he had indorsed him for his original appointment as factory inspector, and he merely asked a favor in return.

Davies refused to recede, and so the pressure was increased. A republican Cook county executive official sent a message to the factory inspector asking that Murray be let off from prosecution. This made Davies blink his eyes, for the republican official is a power in the Deneen organization, and Davies has not been reappointed to his position.

For reply Davies filed the suits in Justice Severson's court, and Murray, being notified, appeared and gave bond. The hearing was set for May 10. Both Davies and Murray were reticent last night when asked concerning the story of political influence.

in the convention called to nominate a candidate for the respective office; and the result of such voting for the several candidates in the primary district shall be deemed and considered by a plurality thereof to be the instruction to the delegates."

Five other sections of the resolution provide for the maintenance of the integrity of nominating conventions, for some suitable plan of obtaining an advisory vote on United States senator, for the use of regular election machinery and methods, and for incorporation in the bill of a provision for direct nomination of county candidates by plurality vote if any such provision can be made legally.

Upon the adoption of the resolutions the conference appointed a committee consisting of Trautmann, Rinaker, Shanahan, Phillips, and Gaunt to draw up a new measure, using the Trautmann bill as a basis.

Hear Chicago Delegation.

Then the conferees adjourned into the house and were in readiness to hear the Chicago delegation. As a bit of delicate sentiment it has been agreed to give the chairmanship of the meeting to Representative Dailey of Peoria, the republican insurgent who wrote his thoughts in a letter to Gov. Deneen.

Speaker Shurtleff, thus having abdicated his chair, took a seat directly under the clerk's desk, from which the Chicago delegation spoke, and remained throughout the session with an expression of intense thoughtfulness on his face while Mr. Dailey did the honors gracefully from the platform.

Mayor Dunne was presented first. He spoke briefly and merely outlined the provisions which he declared should be contained by adequate primary law. He said it was as important that voters should have a voice in the selection of committeemen as it was that they should nominate candidates for office directly. He urged that primaries be put directly under control of a county judge or of election commissioners and that all primary elections be held on the same day to prevent fraud.

"Abolish the convention so far as possible," he urged. "Retain it only for the framing of party platforms."

The Rev. Jenkin Lloyd Jones followed the mayor. He also assailed the convention, and, while his politics did not suit either republican or democratic ideas, his eloquence did, and he was heartily applauded. His ideas of what a primary should be, however, got him into trouble later with a plain person, Roger C. Sullivan, who, while believing that the plain people shall and will rule, did not believe it quite that much.

Convention Tool of Partisan.

"The convention," said Mr. Jones, "has proved itself to be the malign tool of the partisan. It is a menace to a man who is willing to serve his country if the country wants him, but prefers to remain in private life. We are opposed to any percentage plan of nomination. We want the Australian ballot. We do not want a declaration of party principles as precedent to the right to vote. We want the law to permit a man to go into a booth with a ballot and there, protected by the sanctity of the secret ballot, cast a vote without being asked for whom he votes.

"We want the right to vote for the nomination of a democratic, republican, or prohibition candidate for constable or an independent candidate for mayor if we choose to. The voter also should have the right to vote for any party committee he may think best."

William Rossell said he was present simply as the mouthpiece of the Chicago Federation of Labor, which had declared for direct plurality nominations of candidates. He read the resolution adopted urging the enactment of such a law, and referred to the referendum vote in the state on a primary law proposition and its adoption in the state by 500,000 and in Chicago by a vote of 225,000 to 19,000.

Asks Direct Primaries.

Mr. Dailey asked if Rabbi Emil G. Hirsch was present, he having been expected as a speaker and having intended to come down from Bloomington. It was found he had not arrived and the Rev. R. A. White was called on. Mr. White struck straight from the shoulder.

"The people want direct primaries," he said, "and we are down here expressing their demand. You remember that Croker said: 'I don't care who votes, so you let me make the tickets.' Voters are just awakening to the fact that all we have been permitted to do is to vote for the names that the politicians have permitted to go on the ticket. Now, you can't fool us any longer.

"Nothing in the way of a compromise will be satisfactory. I want to tell my representatives here, and I have a right to tell them, that our district voted four to one in favor of direct primaries. We are not making threats. If you do not believe the direct primaries wise and can not vote consistently for them the proper thing for you to do is to resign and allow someone else who does believe in them to take your place. You have no right to say that the people are poor, deluded creatures and did not know what they are voting for and to say you do know. We shall be satisfied with any law which gives us delegate conventions. We want the primary law of Minnesota and Wisconsin."

Roger Sullivan Replies.

Plain Person Roger Sullivan followed Mr. White, and he went after the Rev. Mr. Jones directly. He said he was for a "straight" primary, but corrected this subsequently to read "straight direct primary." In replying to Mr. Jones he said:

"I assumed we came here to talk for a primary law, but if you propose, as one speaker suggested, that the party organization be destroyed, then you don't need a primary law. I am here to say that no democrat should have the right to vote in a republican primary and no republican should have the right to say anything about the nomination of democratic candidates. I don't represent any one but myself, but I am a member of the democratic party, and I am for party organization. If the people in their wisdom decide we do not need parties then we do not need primary laws."

After this, Henry M. Ashton, Western Starr, Dr. Doty, and others spoke, and concluded the arguments on the subject. Up to this time the delegation did not know that the committee was drafting a bill in direct opposition to everything they urged. Mayor Dunne, with Mr. Jones and Mr. White, went to call on the governor and there learned that the republican conference decided on the framework of the bill.

The mayor is much opposed to this proposition, and told several Chicago members of the legislature afterward that if such a law is passed it would be made an issue against them in their districts.

Ludicrous Side to Hearing.

Arguments during the afternoon were given a slightly ludicrous color by the fact that from time to time members of the committee framing the bill would emerge from the speaker's room, listen to statements, and then return to incorporate in the measure the exact opposite of what was being demanded.

After the mayor and his party had departed for Chicago the republican conference again took up the questions with reference to the proposed conference bill, taking up smaller details which had not been covered in the Shurtleff resolution. This was done at the night meeting.

It is by no means certain that the Shurtleff measure will be successful, although it is the best compromise thus far suggested. Fifteen republicans are said to have signed an agreement not to vote for any bill not providing for plurality nominations. It also is predicted that the democratic bill is not dead yet by any means and that it has a good chance of going to third reading.

Bill Ready for House on Friday.

The committee which is framing the new measure reported tonight that it would be impossible to have the measure completed until tomorrow afternoon, and was given until 4 o'clock, when the conference will meet again to receive the bill. It is improbable that it will be ready for the house before Friday. Sixty-two republicans were present at the night meeting, but seventy-nine had been in the afternoon conference and would have been present a night if it had been necessary.

The net result of the appeal was made plain in the night meeting of the republican conference, when it was decided to kill the Daugherty democratic direct primary bill on second reading by striking out its enacting clause. It will not be allowed to go to third reading.

GREAT LABOR WAR MENACES CHICAGO

Strike of Structural Ironworkers May Be Opening of Serious Strife.

ALLIED UNIONS VOTE AID.

Employers Call Hasty Meeting and Admit a Lockout Is Contemplated.

Strike developments in Chicago yesterday assumed a character filled with promise for another summer of labor disturbances.

In the structural ironworkers' strike building men professed to see the inauguration of a serious war with the building trades unions, rivaling the memorable struggle of 1900. Several moves were made during the day which furnished a basis for such a forecast.

The sympathetic support of the allied unions was voted in the morning to the striking ironworkers. This was interpreted as the forerunner of a general building strike.

Employers arranged a hasty meeting of the building contractors' council for today to discuss what they asserted to be the most critical labor situation in the building industry in the last six years. It was admitted that lockout measures are contemplated.

Carried to their logical conclusions the action of either side, it was said, will mean a strike of large proportions, involving in the neighborhood of 35,000 workmen.

Trouble in Other Trades.

Aside from the ironworkers' walkout, restlessness appeared in other branches of the building field. Four hundred stone derrick men, following orders, went on strike during the day. The derrick men went out because of special grievances and not through sympathy with the ironworkers.

At the same time the ironmolders' trouble in the foundries, while diminished in extent, assumed a more acute phase in the big furnaces controlled by the National Foundry association.

The foundrymen met in the afternoon and decided to wage a fight to a finish with the union. They issued a statement in which they came out flatly in favor of the "open shop."

The tieup of building operations where steel construction is employed was made complete in the morning by the ironworkers' strike. About 800 men walked out with their tools, but later in the day 200 or more returned to work for independent contractors. It was estimated that the number on strike today will be not more than 600.

Unions Vote Support.

President Martin B. Madden of the Associated Building trades called a meeting of the board of business agents at noon in the headquarters. Representatives of the thirty-eight unions affiliated with the council were present and passed resolutions offering aid and support to the strikers.

The assertion was made by President Madden afterwards that not a rivet was driven within the loop district during the day.

Satisfactory arrangements were made with the Northwestern elevated road, and the iron workers were permitted to continue work on the extensions in Ravenswood. The iron workers employed by the Burlington road also returned to work.

Following a conference of the members of the Iron League of Contractors late in the day it was decided to turn the management of the employers' side of the fight over to the Building Contractors' council. As to the seriousness of the situation, President Robert Vierling of the league and William D. O'Brien, chairman of the contractors' council, agreed.

"It is too early to predict," said Mr. Vierling, "but we are not unmindful of the importance of the ironworkers' strike. Just what the extent of this trouble may be I do not know."

Mr. O'Brien referred to the strike as the most serious disturbance in years.

He would not discuss the plans of the contractors relative to the importing of non-union men. It was rumored, however, that two crews had been brought into the city during the day and were ready to begin work on the South Side Elevated road extensions. This contract is held by the American Bridge company.

Foundrymen Hold a Meeting.

The Iron league is associated with the Cook County Foundry association, which has jurisdiction over the furnaces where 1,200 iron molders are on strike. The foundrymen held their meeting in the same rooms, and many iron construction contractors participated in the conference at which the "open shop" declaration was drawn up.

CROWD ON STREET CAR BEATS A SUSPECTED PICKPOCKET.

Young Man Is Saved by Police After Being Attacked by Passengers—Fight Results in Two Other Arrests

When he was caught robbing Charles Larson, a commission man at 116 Randolph street, last night on the platform of a North Halsted street car, Thomas Lyman, 19 years old, was attacked and beaten by a crowd of passengers. Lyman, almost unconscious and bleeding, was saved from further punishment by the arrival of the patrol wagon from the North Halsted street police station. Lieut. Schlau and two policemen, by using their clubs, reached Lyman, who lay helpless in the street. Lyman was taken to the Alexian Brothers' hospital and later to the police station.

Lieut. Schlau called in twenty-five recent victims of pickpockets. They were taken before Lyman to identify him if possible.

"I am satisfied Lyman is a member of a dangerous band of pickpockets who have been operating on the north side cars," said Schlau.

Three accomplices of Lyman escaped the crowd on the car.

Anna Anderson, 26 years old, who the police think had robbed many women who have employed her as a servant, was arrested after detectives had discovered $500 worth of supposed stolen jewelry in her trunk. Three north shore women, who assert they had employed her, identified several rings and other articles. Those who appeared at the station were Mrs. Lincoln J. Carter, 2353 Sheridan road; Mrs. E. M. Fry, 1448 Edgecomb place; and Miss Emma Loesch, 1678 Kenmore avenue.

NORTH SIDE MANUFACTURER SUES WIFE FOR A DIVORCE.

Cruelty and Extravagance Are Charged in Court by George H. Forsyth, Who Asks Custody of Children.

George H. Forsyth, vice president of Forsyth Bros. company, manufacturers of railway supplies, 31 Indiana street, began divorce proceedings in the Circuit court yesterday afternoon against Mrs. Sarah B. Forsyth, charging her with extreme and repeated cruelty and extravagance. While living at 401 Oak street in 1901, the complainant asserts, his wife locked him out of their home for two hours. The weather was cold, and as a result of the exposure, he says, he became ill.

Mr. Forsyth says his wife threatened to kill him, and on March 22, 1901, he says, Mrs. Forsyth attempted to choke him. That summer the Forsyths had a summer home at Highland Park and while there trouble between the manufacturer and his wife was renewed.

After the lighted paper episode Mr. and Mrs. Forsyth separated, the latter remaining at Highland Park, while Mr. Forsyth returned to the home of his father. After the separation the domestic troubles continued, according to the bill, in which the complainant avers his wife sought to annoy him by writing threatening letters.

EXCURSION BOATS ARE HIT

STRIKE OF PILOTS AND OTHER MARINE WORKERS GROWS.

Passenger Lines Are Now Affected, While Package Freight Business Is Completely Blocked at the Chicago Docks by Refusal of Men to Work—Excursion Craft Must Have Union Mates, According to Ultimatum of the Strikers.

The big excursion boats that run during the summer months, being an important factor in the amusement of Chicago people, may be tied up indefinitely as a result of the general strike of marine men.

The strike grew beyond all expectations yesterday, when it was declared by the union men that no passenger boats which employed nonunion mates could have union employés. Two of the Graham & Morton excursion boats will be affected at once by this decision. According to representatives of the pilots' organization the Chicago and the Manhattan, owned by this company, employ nonunion mates.

J. H. Graham of the Graham & Morton lines said that as far as he knew all the mates employed by the company were union men, but that the company did not ask this question when employing help. The union scale of wages was paid, he said, and as the company is not a member of the Lake Carriers' association he did not think the strikers had any grievance against the line.

Tieup in Harbor Complete.

The tieup in the Chicago harbor was complete during the day, the decision of the union regarding passenger boats being the last link in the chain which will prevent marine business being transacted from the city. There are more than a score of these boats scheduled to begin the season within the next few days, and their idleness will cost their owners thousands of dollars, even if the strike is not of long duration.

The situation is still further complicated, as far as the passenger service is concerned, by the fight for jurisdiction between the longshoremen's union and the seamen's union. Some of the mates belong to the first named, although they are not properly considered longshoremen. For this reason it is said that the seamen would not consider that they were "strike breakers" if they took the place of a striking mate who was a member of the longshoremen's organization.

The most important of the lake industries of Chicago which are tied up completely is the package freight business, handled by several companies with offices in the city. Most of these companies, including the Erie and the Union, are operated by railroad companies.

There are thirty-five boats owned by these companies, all of which now are lying idle in the Chicago or the Calumet river. With these boats idle the freight business of many railroads will be seriously affected, considerable freight piling up in the city.

Ore Carriers Tied Up.

Seven of the big ore carriers which were lying in the harbor at South Chicago were tied up during the day after visits by business agents of the strikers. The mates on the W. E. Corey and the H. Coulby, two of the biggest boats on the lakes, and owned by the Steel corporation, refused to walk out but the oilers and firemen struck, so these boats also are compelled to remain in port. The Perkins and the Frick, owned by the steel company, are expected to join the fleet of idle barges when they arrive in port this morning.

Tugmen Await Orders.

At a meeting of the licensed tugmen, held at Lake and South Water streets in the evening, the tugmen decided to walk out as soon as orders were received from their national headquarters, probably today. The position of the tugmen is peculiar for the reason that many of them already are on strike, though on another matter. A month ago they quit work when many of the firemen employed by the Great Lakes Towing company were replaced by nonunion men.

Many Men Made Idle.

Although the number of men actually on strike is variously estimated from 15,000 to 20,000, several times that number are affected. Several railroads have been compelled to lay off yardmen because of the strike, the crews of scores of boats, who are receiving pay during the trouble, are unable to work, and many men will be thrown out of work in the event of the closing of the steel mills at South Chicago, as probably will result if ore is not shipped into the city by rail, instead of by boat as has been the custom.

At Cleveland it was supported that aside from the Irishtown and Seneca street docks of the Pittsburg Coal company, which are being operated by the office force of the company, not a wheel was turned during the day on any of the docks at Lake Erie ports where union men were employed. Between twenty and thirty vessels loaded with ore, including the big steamers James Wallace and B. F. Jones, are held there.

Not a vessel has left Buffalo since midnight on Monday and all arriving there are promptly tied up by the quitting of the firemen and oilers. Officials of the Mates' union there claimed they had all but five of the mates off of the forty-six steamers now in that harbor.

Both Sides Confident.

"The strike situation is satisfactory beyond our expectations," said President D. J. Keefe of the Longshoremen's association, who is in Detroit. "A certified report from President Joyce of the Grain Scoopers' union at Buffalo, who is in charge for us at that port, gives a list of thirty-nine vessels there and nearly seventy mates on these boats have quit work. Our representative at Cleveland states that everything is favorable. Mates on many of the boats there have not had an opportunity to go ashore yet. An official report from Erie states that the mates are stepping off boats as fast as they make port. Detailed reports from Conneaut and Ashtabula are expected in the morning. What I hear from those ports is encouraging."

MUENTER INQUEST DATE SET.

Cambridge, Mass., Authorities to Conduct Investigation Tomorrow—Fear Relatives' Attitude.

An inquest will be held at Cambridge, Mass., tomorrow morning to determine the cause of the death of Mrs. Leone K. Muenter, for the alleged murder of whom her husband, Prof. Erich Muenter, is being sought. This course was decided upon yesterday by the Boston authorities, since the police have found it impossible to obtain the information they wish from persons who they believe could throw light upon the family affairs of Muenter.

When Miss Bertha Muenter, a sister, left Cambridge for Chicago Tuesday, after assuring the police that she would remain in the east to await the return of her fugitive brother, they decided that friends of Muenter had rallied to his support and that it was necessary to compel them to testify in order to get anything from them.

Miss Muenter passed through Detroit on the Michigan Central railroad last night and will reach Chicago this morning.

DIRECT VOTE IS DENOUNCED.

Judge Carter in Address to Y. M. C. A. Advocates Careful Selection of Candidates.

The initiative and referendum in elections as a cure for all the ills of the body politic was denounced by Judge O. N. Carter in a speech before the Civic club of the Y. M. C. A. last night. This growing tendency to refer questions of policy and law to the people he declared was a mistake and suggested that it might undermine the principle of and greatly injure a representative form of government. After declaring that his address, which was on "The Chicago System of Elections," had no political significance, he said:

"In a great city like this it is not possible for the people to settle for the officials all the questions which will come up. It makes too many elections and people grow tired. Nor can we elect all of the city officials for the same reason. It would be too much to expect the voters to find out the qualifications of all the policemen, firemen, and school teachers.

"When people are asked to decide questions of law in connection with regular elections I have noted that frequently less than 50 and seldom over 75 per cent of the voters take advantage of the opportunity. Let us be sane and reasonable. I am just as strong an advocate of popular government as any one here, but I want it to be on sensible grounds."

MAN IS AMBUSHED BY ROBBERS.

Silversmith Robbed of $100 and Diamond by Three Armed Men Near Home.

Findley M. Drummond, 443 Dearborn avenue, a silversmith, with offices at 44 Madison street, was robbed by three armed holdup men shortly after midnight in front of his home. The thieves took $100, a watch and chain, and a diamond stick pin. After warning Drummond not to make an outcry the men ran to Division street and escaped. Drummond declares the men were in hiding near his home and knew that he would return late at night.

Striking Exhibit at the Art Institute.

"A GIRL WITH ROSES"
WATER COLOR BY RHODA HOLMES NICHOLLS

The annual exhibition of water colors, pastels, and miniatures began at the Art Institute yesterday with an unusually large attendance of visitors. Many new and beautiful exhibits were displayed. Among the more striking pictures was a water color painting, "A Girl With Roses," by Rhoda Holmes Nichols. This offering attracted special attention on account of the delicacy of its shading and the character of its subject. Many other works added to the excellence of the exhibit.

SEE A HARD COAL STRIKE.

PENNSYLVANIA MINERS FIRM ON EVE OF CONVENTION.

Tri-District Gathering at Scranton Is Not Likely to Be Backward in Its Action—Mysterious Conference Between President Mitchell and Labor Commissioner Neill — Discuss Situation in Private — Latter May Report Conditions to Roosevelt.

Scranton, Pa., May 2.—That the tri-district convention of the United Mineworkers, which opens in this city tomorrow morning, will declare a strike throughout the hard coal fields is the opinion here tonight of every one in touch with the situation. It seems that there is no way out of a strike unless the mineworkers back down, and all of the delegates who are pouring into town tonight are far from favoring anything closely approaching a backdown.

President John Mitchell arrived here this morning and met the members of the joint scale committee, and presented for their consideration a copy of the committee report which he had been preparing. The report was approved in its entirety. At the conclusion of the meeting Mr. Mitchell said that the report would contain no recommendations.

Mystery in Conference.

President Mitchell had a mysterious conference here today with Dr. Charles P. Neill of Washington, United States labor commissioner and sliding scale commissioner. Mr. Mitchell went into conference with Dr. Neill at 1 o'clock and was with him until after 5 o'clock. Dr. Neill immediately thereafter went to Wilksbarre, and said that he would go to Washington tomorrow morning. He would not say what the object of his visit was, except that he came in the interest of peace. He said he had been sent by no one. Asked if he was an envoy of President Roosevelt, he said he had not seen the president for six weeks. Mr. Mitchell said that Dr. Neill's visit was "of no great importance."

It seemed to be the general belief here tonight that Dr. Neill will report to President Roosevelt upon the situation. It is believed that his conference was the result of an attempt on the part of the Civic federation to "feel" its way into the situation.

The members of the joint scale committee are outspoken tonight in favoring a strike. They say that there is no other course left open to the organization now that the operators have given their ultimatum. They report a marked change of sentiment throughout the entire region during the last few days and particularly since the clash between the state constabulary and the mine workers at Mount Carmel on Monday. Strike talk is in the air on all sides.

Denies Roosevelt Action.

Philadelphia, Pa., May 2.—Dr. Charles P. Neill, United States commissioner of labor, arrived here tonight from Scranton and was surprised that President Roosevelt's name should be connected with his visit today to President Mitchell of the miners' union.

"I did not go to see President Mitchell at the instance of President Roosevelt," said Mr. Neill. "So far as I know the president is not aware of the fact that I was in the anthracite coal regions."

Commissioner Neill, when pressed for a reason for visiting the miners' chief, declined to have anything further to say for publication.

Anthracite Owners State Attitude.

New York, May 2.—The anthracite coal operators have issued a statement outlining their view of the negotiations in the anthracite field up to date. It declares that one industry has been played against another. Mr. Mitchell went to Indianapolis, and with the suggestion that a strike might be called in the anthracite fields demanded a large wage increase from the bituminous operators. The statement says the situation is a serious one for the people. The operators say their attitude is in accord with the spirit of the award made by the Roosevelt arbitration board.

Warns as to Strike Violence.

Harrisburg, Pa., May 2.—Gov. Pennypacker, in a proclamation today, said: "The laboring man has the sympathy of all disinterested people in his lawful struggles to secure a large proportion of the profit which results from his labor. What he earns belongs to him, and if he invests his earnings the law protects his property just as the rights of property of all men must be protected."

SILENT ON COURT'S CRITIC

COMMITTEE REFUSES TO REPORT IN MECARTNEY CASE.

Executive Body Must Decide Question of Comments on Judge Lockwood Honore Made by Lawyer—Two Hour Session Fails to Be Productive of Results—Matter Is Now in the Hands of the Bar Association.

For the fifth time since it undertook to settle the merits of Attorney H. S. Mecartney's criticisms of Judge Lockwood Honoré the grievance committee of the Chicago Bar association fanned the air last night with the announcement that it had "no report to make."

The news will probably come as a disappointment to the board of managers, the members of which have been hoping that the committee would succeed in framing a report instead of throwing the burden of what is at best a delicate task upon the executive body. Chairman Charles E. Vroman would not state last night whether the grievance committee had really given up or not.

"No Report to Make."

"All I have to say is that we have no report to make," said Mr. Vroman. "We have all agreed not to discuss it."

The committee was in session from 7:30 to 9:30 o'clock, with the following members present: Charles E. Vroman, Rush C. Butler, Harry D. Irwin, Samuel Adams, and Amos C. Miller.

The trouble arose from Attorney Mecartney's slashing attack on Judge Honoré for the latter's decision awarding Attorney Francis Riddle $20,000 for legal services to the west park board. The judge declined to hale the lawyer up for contempt, but asked the bar association instead to make a full investigation of the matter.

The grievance committee is said to have sailed into the task serenely, only to have its report returned with the comment that Judge Honoré had asked for a complete investigation and they had merely scratched the surface.

Questions Are Unanswered.

No outsiders know what has happened since except that the committee has got apparently more and more involved in trying to determine the following questions:

"What did Mecartney mean?"

"Did he have any right to say it?"

"How far should a lawyer go in expressing his private opinion of a judge's conduct?"

The three questions have fairly stumped the committee, all the members of which are in more or less contact with the judges and not willing to make offensively radical recommendations. Attorney Mecartney has volunteered to appear before the committee and give his side of the matter, but has not been asked to.

IROQUOIS CO. A BANKRUPT; DAMAGE SUITS STILL STAND?

Corporation Is Adjudicated Insolvent in New Jersey, but Condefendants May Have to Defend Claims.

Although the Iroquois Theater company has been adjudicated a bankrupt in Jersey City, N. J., Chicago attorneys last night declared the hundreds of damage and personal injury suits which have been filed against the corporation jointly with other defendants still will stand. The company itself probably will escape from the litigation, but Klaw & Erlanger, Will J. Davis, and other persons named as defendants in the bills probably will have to take the responsibility of the cases, the total amount asked being $2,000,000.

The company was declared a bankrupt by involuntary proceedings on April 11. A trustee for the concern is to be appointed on May 11. The company confessed no assets, with liabilities aggregating $2,038,279.59. B. H. Marshall of Marshall & Fox, architects, was one of the petitioners who asked that the company be declared a bankrupt.

Levy Mayer, attorney for the company, speaking of the matter, said: "Almost all merchandise liability has been paid, and a few remaining claims also will be paid. Almost the total liability is to damage creditors. When the property was sold to the Metropolitan company the money was used to pay creditors. Now there are no assets left. The company was organized in New Jersey in 1902."

Nixon & Zimmerman were among the stockholders of the company. It is claimed that Klaw & Erlanger own the theater building, which is called the Colonial.

DOWIE TO PREACH DESPITE ILLNESS.

'Apostle,' Unable to Leave Bed, Announces He Will Hold Services Tonight.

ZION IS IN A TURMOIL.

Voliva Says Former Leader Should Die; Deacon Peters Threatened with Rail Ride.

John Alexander Dowie is sinking slowly. Yesterday his condition was such that he was unable to leave his bed. He apparently was much weaker than on the day before, but despite his serious condition he announced with evident asperity that he would hold a public meeting in Shiloh tabernacle tonight.

Overseer Wilbur Glenn Voliva held away over the tabernacle last night and talked to 3,000 people. From the attitude of the audience it was apparent that all Zion is in a worse state of ferment than at the beginning of the trouble in the city. Voliva declared the best thing for Dowie to do was "to die and die quickly." The statement was greeted with applause and with a round of "amens."

General confusion was started when the overseer followed this announcement with a statement that a movement was on foot among church leaders to ride Deacon J. F. Peters, one of the "First Apostle's" followers, out of town on a rail. Many in the audience got up as if to carry out the plan, but order was restored.

Insanity to Be His Salvation.

Voliva farther on in his talk said that Dowie would be saved from prison only through the discovery of his insanity.

"The reason we have not sent our charges to Dowie before this," said the overseer, "is because I was piteously and abjectly importuned on the ground that Dowie was insane. This claim has been made by one of his most intimate friends and advisers. I told Deacon Lewis if he could convince me Dowie was insane I would withhold the charges. Otherwise the battle will be resumed.

"Dowie certainly is sick. I know he eats heartily, but then a man may eat heartily and still be dying. His dying may be the result of his eating. The best thing for him to do is to die, and die quickly. Zion City with a millstone about its neck is steadily sinking.

Robes Will Not Be Worn.

"As soon as that man is gotten out of the way new factories will be launched and the city will attain financial prosperity."

Taking up the matter of wearing robes, Voliva said: "No robes are to be worn hereafter by any of the members or officers of the congregation. We are now free from this bondslavery. I just sent over to Dowie an account of $56 due on his robe. It is bad enough to wear robes, but still worse to have them unpaid for. The only possible use for them is to hide deficiencies in personal appearance."

At this moment a small boy in the audience yelled: "Dowie has bow legs."

The audience roared in laughter at the remark and the people seemed to rejoice in ridiculing their former leader. Voliva then commented on the legal aspect of the situation.

"If the cross bill which we have drawn is filed," he said, "only one thing will save Dowie from spending the rest of his days behind the bars, and that one thing is the proof of his insanity.

"I have received a letter outlining a plan to ride Deacon Peters out of town on a rail. I wouldn't want to see anything like that happen, because it would be awfully hard on the rail." Laughter again filled the tabernacle.

People Menace Peters.

After the meeting was over people gathered along the streets and near the tabernacle to discuss the situation. The people were more uneasy than ever. A large crowd went to Deacon Peters' apartments at Elijah Hospice, but the deacon had retired early.

Dowie had several sinking spells during the evening, and he was watched closely by Freeman Hammel. The "First Apostle" insisted he would hold his meeting in the tabernacle tonight. His following has increased. Elder J. H. Gay, former head of the church in Boston, has come over to his side, and predicts his ultimate triumph over his enemies.

On account of the confusion in Zion City, a score of people are leaving the town daily. The finances gradually are failing into worse straits and bankruptcy seems almost inevitable. The college has been closed for lack of funds and this week Friday the preparatory school will close. The grammar school was shut down within a few days.

The general stores only have a surplus of $23,500 on hand, and this is partially composed of Zion scrip, which may be repudiated.

The report that people are starving in Zion is unfounded. It also is denied in Zion that Mrs. Dowie was driven out of her home on Tuesday.

Lawyer Denies Dowie Is Ill.

Emil C. Wetten, Chicago attorney for Dowie, denied the deposed "first apostle" is sinking rapidly. "We have not asked a continuance of the injunction hearing on account of ill health, as the Voliva interests are trying to make the public believe," he said. "The reason the hearing was continued until next Tuesday is because Voliva has failed to serve us with a copy of his answer and with affidavits in the case." By agreement between counsel the hearing was set for May 8 in Belvidere.

Percy L. Clibborn, European financial agent for the Zion church, is expected to reach Chicago tonight. He arrived in New York yesterday and at once started west. He will confer with Voliva at Zion City.

"Dowie has become vain and perhaps a little foolish," said he. "The followers of Zion in Europe do not longer look upon him as their leader."

LOW PRICED TAILORING A THING OF THE PAST.

Many Men Now Purchase Ready-to-Wear Clothes Who Formerly Had Them Made to Measure.

Some of our smartest dressers now purchase clothes ready to put on. It's either that or the other extreme—the very fine tailor—who necessarily must ask a good figure for his products. The above illustration shows the new straight front sack introduced by Messrs. Capper & Capper of 45 and 47 Jackson Boulevard. We notice a beautiful showing of garments—imported fabrics, too—Twenty-five up to thirty-five dollars.

When a Man is Thin

In many cases, the man who is thin, gets sympathy which he neither wishes—nor perhaps deserves.

You've often heard it said, "Mr. Brown is awfully thin—I wonder what's the matter with him."

The man with adequate flesh has the advantage. People like to deal—like to associate with healthy looking, robust men.

But the most serious handicap for the thin man is when illness comes—he has no surplus flesh on which to draw.

INDICTMENTS MAY STRIKE BOND MEN

Federal Grand Jury Will Get Postoffice Report on American Reserve.

RECEIVER IS APPOINTED.

Bill Filed by Commissioner W. E. Humphrey Alleges Frauds of $1,000,000.

The next federal grand jury probably will be asked to indict the officials of the American Reserve Bond company, the $3,000,000 corporation which was thrown into the hands of a receiver by United States Circuit Judge Bethea yesterday, for fraudulent use of the mails.

Russell F. Goodwin, attorney general for the postoffice department at Washington, has issued orders to the local postoffice inspectors to hold all mail of the corporation pending further investigation.

District Attorney Morrison stated that the alleged fraudulent practices of the company have been brought to his attention.

"It seems likely that the case will come here," said Mr. Morrison. "The postoffice inspectors have spoken of having had it under investigation for some time. I can say nothing further about it at present. The next federal grand jury convenes on May 15."

Frauds of $1,000,000 Charged.

Frauds aggregating $1,000,000 are charged against the bond company in the bill for a receivership filed by United States Commissioner Wirt E. Humphrey, son of State Senator John Humphrey, and Attorney Andrew J. Hirschl of Rosenthal, Kura & Hirschl. The Western Trust and Savings bank was appointed receiver in bonds of $20,000.

Holders of bonds aggregating $50,000 notified Attorney Hirschl that they intend joining in the proceedings. It is charged that a large portion of the alleged assets of the company are practically worthless, and that the liabilities are considerably in excess of the assets. It is estimated that $1,000,000 in American Reserve bonds are held by residents of Illinois.

The filing of the bill for a receivership followed an attempt made by Vice President William J. Kress and Supervisor Harvey M. Brown of the company to secure a receiver for the assets of the company in Illinois.

Statements of Petitioner.

The bill asserts that Mr. Humphrey invested $1,011.66 and Jake Filkowits invested $141. Subsidiary companies, including the Southern Mutual Investment company of Lexington, Ky., the North American Investment company of the United States of St. Louis, and the Colonial Security company, of the same city are made parties to the suit. Mr. Humphrey, whose money was in the Southern company prior to its merger with the American Reserve, alleges that no part of his investment ever came back to him.

The complainants charge that the American Reserve is planning and operating a scheme that necessarily must be a fraud upon the public. The company purports to return the investments of its patrons, plus 5 per cent interest and an equitable portion of its surplus earnings. It is stipulated that the benefits shall be absolutely nonforfeitable after two years.

Expenses Cost 20 Per Cent.

The bill alleges that the company appropriates more than 20 per cent of its gross receipts for the purpose of paying rent, salaries, dividends, and expense of advertising. It is declared that the company has not now sufficient money to guarantee the return of the sums paid in by bondholders.

The company is accused of making false, fraudulent, and misleading promises in its advertising matter. One quotation compares banks with the American Reserve Bond company as follows:

"The banks themselves—many of them—are using the capital of their depositors in private enterprises which they dominate. In New York recently the banks received as high as 90 per cent for short time loans in Wall street—money for which the banks paid annual rent of 3 per cent. But the depositor is practically eliminated from participating in the huge banking profits.

"This is not the condition of affairs that led to the forming of the American Reserve Bond company. You take absolutely no risk. Your investment is at all times under the direct control of the state laws."

Investment in Missouri Land.

The bill states that over $500,000 has been invested in the Austin Land and Lumber company land in Washington county, Mo., its total value is said to be about $120,000. It is claimed that 17,000 acres have been sold for taxes.

The use of the name of F. H. Gade of Chicago in the advertising matter of the company is pointed to as an attempt at deceit. Numerous lawsuits against the company are referred to.

The bill prays that the various defendant companies be enjoined from disposing of any assets and asks that an accounting be had. The last prayer is that the money now in the trust fund be held to apply to the repayment of investors.

Secretary of State James A. Rose also is conducting an investigation into the affairs of the company. James W. Gullett, chief clerk in the secretary's office, and W. H. Boys, representing the attorney general, are in Chicago, engaged in the investigation. This was determined upon when the corporation failed to answer satisfactorily under oath a number of questions that were propounded by Secretary Rose.

Officers of the Corporation.

The officers of the company are said to be:

President—A. Smith Bowman.

Vice presidents—W. J. Kress and H. G. Austin.

Secretary—S. R. Warren.

Treasurer—T. B. Potter.

General counsel—Henry G. Snyder.

Mr. Hirschl said the company has engaged to float stock for other corporations when its charter does not permit it to do so. He said the Caws Pen and Ink company of New York, through William C. Brown, paid $500 to the American Reserve for the guarantee to sell its bonds.

William Sewell and Miss Ardella Davis filed suits for a receivership in the state courts in the morning. Mr. Sewell withdrew his petition when he learned of proceedings in the federal courts.

BAD PLUMBING MADE WORSE BY SETTLING OF CITY HALL.

Sanitary Inspector Hedrick Says the Health of Tenants Is Menaced by Much Escaping Gas.

Chief Sanitary Inspector Hedrick made what everybody who has had anything to do with the city hall recognized as a righteous complaint yesterday. He said he was not at all afraid the building would tumble down, but that the recent settling of it had so much disjointed and disturbed the originally faulty plumbing that the danger to the health of the people constantly in the edifice was greater than ever.

Building Commissioner Bartzen has asked a board of engineers to examine the condition of the hall and report as to whether a danger of collapse exists.

Without waiting for reports from the investigations Acting Commissioner of Public Works O'Connell ordered Barney Benson, the city wrecker, to remove the dangerous portions of the building. Part of the old wall of the county building which still clings to the city hall was thrown to the ground.

Missing Boy Found in River.

The body of John Frahler, 15 years old, who had been missing from his home, 720 Clybourn avenue, for several weeks, was found floating in the river at Halsted street last evening by the bridge tender. Apparently it had been in the water for some time. It is not known how the boy was drowned.

FIVE INDICTMENTS SAID TO HAVE BEEN VOTED.

Bankers Go Before the Grand Jury and Tell of Making Big Loans on Warehouse Receipts and Later Finding That the Grain Was Missing — Statute Provides Imprisonment in Penitentiary for from One to Ten Years for Offense.

At least five indictments charging conspiracy to defraud and obtaining money under false pretenses were voted yesterday against George S. McReynolds, the bankrupt board of trade operator, according to the postive declaration of an attaché of the state's attorney's office. The specific charge made by witnesses is that of borrowing money on receipts for grain stored in warehouses and then shipping the grain away. The amount of money involved is said to be $600,000.

The special statute under which the indictments are said to have been voted provides for a penitentiary sentence of from one to ten years in case of conviction. The statute reads:

"Whoever shall fraudulently make a warehouse receipt for goods stored and thereafter shall ship or transfer the goods without the written consent of the holder of the receipt shall be punished by imprisonment in the penitentiary for not less than one nor more than ten years."

Bankers Appear as Accusers.

The witnesses who testified against McReynolds included Ernest A. Hamill, president of the Corn Exchange National bank; E. A. Potter, president of the American Trust and Savings bank; J. I. Cooper, assistant cashier of the Illinois Trust and Savings; A. J. Peters of the Corn Exchange; Thomas C. King, assistant cashier of the Northern Trust and Savings, and Harry Shipley of the Northern Trust and Savings bank.

It is said that the bankers have refrained hitherto from broaching the McReynolds case to the state's attorney because they feared that their losses might become known. The testimony yesterday is supposed to have been the result of an agreement to the effect that all the banks should be represented in the case.

Heavy Loss in the Failure.

The failure of George S. McReynolds & Co. involved assets of about $250,000 and liabilities of about $800,000. During several years McReynolds was a partner in the firm of Carrington, Hannah & Co., grain brokers on the board of trade. In 1889 he withdrew from that firm and started in business for himself.

GIVE $30,000 TO PROTECT GARRETT INSTITUTE BOOKS.

Donations Reported by President Little —Board of Bishops of Methodist Church Meets in Evanston.

President O. J. Little of the Garrett Biblical institute at Northwestern university, announced yesterday that a gift of $20,000 had been made to the institute to supplement a gift of $10,000 made three months ago. The gifts are to provide for the building of a new fireproof addition to the present structure on the university campus for the protection of the library of Methodist literature and the museum of Christian archaeology.

The names of the donors have not been made known, although it is said the two amounts were given by different persons.

It also was announced that $10,000 has been pledged by the alumni of the institute for the endowment of two scholarships to be awarded yearly. The gifts are made in honor of the semi-centennial celebration of the founding of the institute, which will be held beginning May 5 and ending May 9.

Twenty-eight bishops attended the opening session of the semi-annual meeting of the board of bishops of the Methodist church, held at the First church in Evanston.

The Chicago Methodist Social union will hold a reception and banquet in honor of the board of bishops at the Auditorium hotel this afternoon and evening, to be followed by a rally at the Auditorium theater. Gov. J. Frank Hanly of Indiana will preside at the rally, introducing various speakers, who will consider the theme, "The Methodism of Today and Tomorrow." Bishops Foss, Warren, McCabe, McDowell, Scott, and Bashford will speak.

PASTORS LAY CORNER STONE FOR OLD PEOPLE'S HOME.

Site of Swedish Baptist Institution in Morgan Park Is Scene of Religious Ceremonies.

The laying of the corner stone of the Swedish Old People's home at Morgan Park was conducted yesterday afternoon and was witnessed by thirty visiting Swedish Baptist ministers from different parts of the United States and 200 members of local Swedish Baptist churches. The corner stone was laid by the Rev. G. Arold Hagstrom, pastor of the First Swedish Baptist church of Chicago.

The Rev. C. J. Lagergren, dean of the Swedish Theological seminary, made a short address, in which he told of the future plans toward improving the remainder of the land by the erection of additional buildings and cottages.

The edifice under construction is in the center of the residence district of Morgan Park. The home will be three stories high, and when completed will cost approximately $18,000.

Rush to Take Out Licenses.

At the close of business yesterday 316 $1,000 saloon licenses had been issued, two of which are for new saloons and two for the full year. Figures in the other license departments are correspondingly high. In two days $600,000 has been received by the city collector for license fees.

HUNTS 'ONE-LEGGED JOBS'

BUREAU OF CHARITIES TO AID CRIPPLED AND AGED MEN.

Maimed Persons Will Be Enabled to Help Themselves Through Novel Employment Bureau Established for Their Benefit—Situations in Offices and Railroad Stations Will Be Found for Those Past the "Osler Limit."

JOBS FOR ONE-LEGGED MEN.

The above inscription was pasted over one of the pigeonholes in Hugo Krause's roll top desk at the central office of the bureau of charities yesterday. Mr. Krause leaned back in his chair and contemplated the sign.

"I'm getting up a list of all the jobs that men with one leg can hold," said Mr. Krause, "and after this list has been prepared I'm going to make another list of the names of all the employers who have such jobs to offer. After this list is made I am going to make a list of all the one legged men out of jobs. The next thing to do will be to introduce the one legged man to the one legged job."

"Oslerized" to Be Aided.

The pasting of a narrow strip of paper over the pigeonhole in his desk yesterday marked the establishment by the bureau of charities of an employment bureau for the crippled and aged. Every job that can be held down by men with one leg or no legs, one arm or no arms, will be listed. So will every job which offers an opportunity to the man who has passed the Osler age limit. The plan is to find employment for the crippled and thus rid the streets of the man with the cup, and to find work for the aged in order that they will not be tempted to take the Dr. Osler cure for old age.

It was admitted at the bureau of charities that it is harder to find a job for a man with white hair than to find a job for a man without legs. For refined old men the bureau has found opportunities as office attendants for physicians, in reception rooms at large establishments, at information bureaus in the depots, and elsewhere. It is believed that old men also can find employment in coat and umbrella checking rooms at the hotels and depots. As door attendants they may also be acceptable, it has been found.

Gets Work for Legless Man.

Among the jobs for other old men, addressing, distributing dodgers, and folding and envelope stamping are said to offer congenial work. A few days ago the bureau found employment for a man without legs in a candy factory. One armed men, it was pointed out, can serve as watchmen and can find employment at suitable work in the factories.

Already 160 letters have been sent to different employers asking their cooperation in the work of finding employment for the unfortunate. "This is a splendid cause and we are hoping for good results," declared Miss Rebecca Holmes, assistant superintendent of the bureau of charities, "and it seems that the employers ought to be ready to cooperate with us in every way. We have always helped these unfortunates to find employment in individual cases, but our purpose now is to organize the work and so extend the scope of it that we will be of greater usefulness."

JEWELRY LOST AND STOLEN IS SOUGHT BY THE POLICE.

Bagpickers Believed to Have Taken Mrs. J. L. Raske's Ring—Diamonds Taken from House and Auditorium.

Jewelry, lost or stolen, is sought by several Chicago men and women.

A ragpicker who searched the garbage box at the rear of 3129 Vernon avenue, it is believed, found a diamond ring that Mrs. J. L. Raske had thrown out by mistake. The ring was given to Mrs. Raske at the time of her engagement to Mr. Raske five years ago. She removed it from her finger yesterday, and, wrapping it in tissue paper, laid it on the top of the dresser in her bedroom. Then she swept the room and threw the sweepings, rings and all, in the garbage box.

The police and the Pinkerton detective agency are seeking to recover jewelry stolen on the night of April 3 by porchclimbers from the house of Joseph Harris, 3420 Michigan avenue. The value of the jewelry is estimated at $5,000, and a reward of $500 has been offered. Among the articles taken were a pear shaped pearl stickpin valued at $2,500 and two pearl necklaces, rings, and a gold necktie fastener.

A $600 diamond ring was taken from the room of Mrs. J. W. Doane of New York at the Auditorium hotel on Sunday. She went to the baseball game on that afternoon and left the ring wrapped in a piece of tissue paper in her room. When she returned the gem was gone. The ring was a present to Mrs. Doane and bore the inscription "J. W. D. to M. V. D."

Battered pieces of gold representing between $500 and $800 worth of jewelry was recovered by Frank H. Repetto, chief of the detectives of the Auditorium hotel, from rooms occupied by Joseph Manne, 6 Institute place. Manne has been arrested, and with Emma Evans, chambermaid at the Auditorium Annex, is being held under $4,000 bonds.

POULTRY FARM IS CLOSED OUT.

Majority of Miss Mabel K. Babcock's Creditors Agree to Take Settlement Offered.

A majority of the creditors of Miss Mabel K. Babcock's north shore poultry farm, which went into insolvency on Tuesday, acceded yesterday to the plan of accepting 60 cents on the dollar in settlement for all claims. A deal was closed to place the property in the hands of Peabody, Houghteling & Co. for disposal.

THEATER FOR ART ALONE IS ASSURED

Chicagoans Raise $55,000 for an Institution Like the Thomas Orchestra.

HALL TO BE REMODELED.

Location, Dramatic Director, and Business Manager Are Selected and Trustees Named.

An institutional theater, designed to do for dramatic art in Chicago what the Thomas orchestra has done for music, now is assured. A home has been secured, a guarantee fund of $30,000 raised, and $25,000 worth of season tickets sold.

Steinway hall has been secured for the enterprise. Remodeling and enlarging operations, which will cost $50,000, are to be begun at once, and it is expected that the playhouse, which will be known as The New Theater, will be opened about Oct. 1. Victor Mapes, who has been engaged as dramatic director of the enterprise, now is searching the country for an adequate company of players.

Financially the theater will be organized on the same plan as that of the Thomas orchestra. Backing entirely sufficient to assure the success of the undertaking already has been secured, and the management of the enterprise has been placed in the hands of a board of trustees of thirty-two men, all of whom are actively interested. The present plan is to open the theater for a season of thirty weeks, presenting in that time fifteen plays, or a play each fortnight. Definite dramas have not been announced, but it is intended to cover a wide range of dramatic literature, including both classical and modern works and plays of various nations.

Plays Must Be Interesting.

The first requisite for production will be that a play shall be thoroughly interesting to the average theatergoer; plays which are purely intellectual, or which are reading rather than acting plays, will be avoided or given only as experiments. Every effort will be made to give artistic and correct productions, to gather together a well balanced and competent stock company, and to build up a permanent institution for the city.

The alterations to be made in Steinway hall will be extensive. To enlarge the entrance, which is now narrow and inconvenient, the store to the east of the present entrance will be remodeled and used as a box office and outer foyer. The approach will thus be made an easy ascent to the hall, which is a half story above the street.

In the hall itself the stage will be enlarged, with a fly loft and dressing rooms added. The seating arrangements will be altered, ten mezzanine boxes being included in the plans, and the entire house will be redecorated.

The work of reconstruction is to be carried on by Marshall & Fox, and their plans have already been drawn and accepted. When completed, the new theater will have a seating capacity of nearly 900.

Victor Mapes, dramatic director of the enterprise, studied for five years at the Sorbonne and wrote a play in French which was accepted at the Odeon. As business manager the trustees have selected Samuel P. Gerson, now manager of the Garrick in this city.

NORWEGIAN ACTORS MAY COME.

Plan Started to Bring National Theater Company of Christiania to Chicago Next Fall.

Chicagoans will have an opportunity to hear the plays of Henrik Ibsen given in the language in which they were written, if the plans of a committee of Chicago Norwegians are carried out.

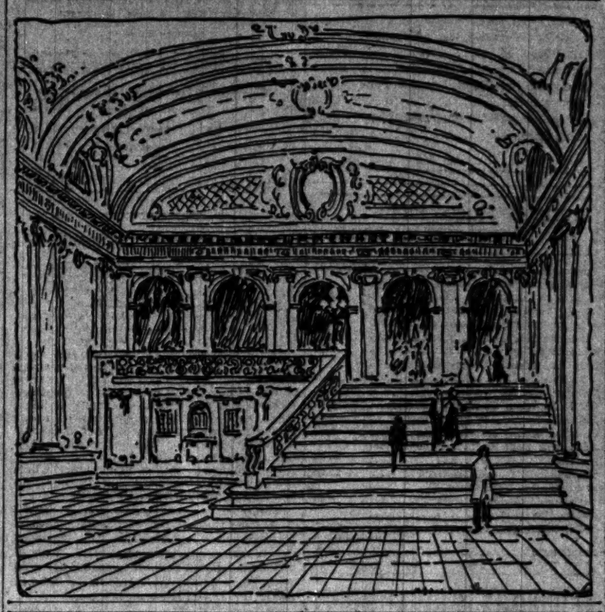

The subject was discussed at a meeting held last evening and F. Herman Gade, consul for Norway in Chicago, was authorized to invite the Norwegian National Theater company of Christiania to make a tour of the United States, provided favorable arrangements could be made. It was decided to leave the matter in the hands of Mr. Gade and the members of the coronation committee, who will present the proposition to the directors of the theater while in Norway attending the festivities.

It is planned to arrange a ten weeks' engagement for the company some time next fall.

Students to Give Amateur Play.

An amateur performance of "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" will be given by students of the Academy of Our Lady, Ninety-first and Throop streets, Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

STOCKS SLUMP, THEN RISE

WALL STREET HAS MOST EXCITING DAY SINCE 1901.

In Three Hours 1,745,000 Shares Are Dumped on the Market and Sold for Anything They Would Bring—Gilt Edge Lines Lost All the Way from Four to Twenty Points—Banking Interests Come to Rescue to Head Off a Panic.

New York, May 2.—[Special.]—The sharpest break in stocks since the San Francisco fire and in some respects the most thrilling collapse since the Northern Pacific panic on May 9, 1901, threw the stock exchange into confusion today.

The selling was on a tremendous scale, the total sales up to 1 o'clock being about 1,745,000 shares, representing the largest amount for the first three hours of business since the day of the panic in 1901. This was at the rate of nearly 3,000,000 shares for the five hour session. The record for five hours is 3,262,100 on April 30, preceding the 1901 panic.

In the last hour, however, the active stocks recovered rapidly in response to what appeared to be banking support. The rally amounted to two or three points in the general list, and sentiment seemed to be considerably improved at the close of business. The heaviest liquidation, apparently, is over.

How Stocks Tumbled.

To realize the extent of declines, it is only necessary to glance at the tables of sales. Anaconda dropped twenty points from yesterday's closing to 226; Northern Pacific 10¾ points to 170¾; Great Northern 10 points to 275; Reading 5½ points to 172; Union Pacific 4¾ points to 138½; and others had fallen to correspondingly low figures. At midday the banking interests stepped in to check what looked like an approaching panic, but it took enormous buying orders to head off the decline. The scenes on the stock exchange floor had not been paralleled since 1903, when several stock exchange firms failed in a single day, but on the whole today's proceedings were far more exciting, because the trading was on a much larger scale. Brokers scarcely realized what they were doing, to judge from appearances, and in many cases they did not bother to execute orders at given prices. They merely contracted to sell stocks for what they could get, leaving owners to be content with the result.

The suspension of Charles W. Saacke, a member of the stock exchange, was announced in the afternoon. He had been a member since October and was not regarded as a big trader. His firm is Boskowitz & Co. It was announced at the office of Boskowitz & Co. that Saacke's suspension was personal and would have no effect on that firm.

Standard Oil Hit?

Much interest centered around the stocks in which Standard Oil interests are prominent, in view of the belief that Commissioner Garfield would make his report regarding his investigation of the oil trust this week. The sharp break in Standard Oil stock yesterday and its weakness today was notable. How far the oil capitalists were selling stock today, or how far they were trying to support them, was difficult to determine.

Broker Loses; Kills Himself.

Philadelphia, Pa., May 2.—[Special.]—After losing thousands of dollars in the recent financial slump Charles Y. Carver, surviving member of the old established stock brokerage firm of Charles B. Keen & Co., one of the oldest members of the Philadelphia stock exchange, committed suicide tonight. He had bought thousands of dollars' worth of stock on margin, it is asserted, and these happened to be the stocks affected in the recent break in the market.

CITY WILL SHUT CHURCHES UNLESS LAWS ARE OBSERVED.

Commissioner Issues Fifty "Ultimatums" in Cases Where Building Ordinances Are Not Complied With.

Several churches which have lapsed into violations of the building ordinance may find their doors closed next Sunday morning and a solitary policeman in charge.

Such, at least, was the tenor of a number of "ultimatums" which Building Commissioner Bartzen issued to more than fifty churches which have fallen into bad ways, structurally speaking. One church, at Prairie avenue and Augusta street in Austin, has already been closed pending alterations in its doors, which swing the wrong way.

The First Methodist Episcopal church, Clark and Washington streets, has made some rapid changes in its interior to comply with the directions of the commissioner.

The Humboldt Park Swedish Baptist church, Cortland street and Humboldt boulevard, will have its hands full trying to get right. Saturday noon is the limit in which to place "exit" signs about the church.

St. Margaret's church, Seventy-fourth street and Coles avenue, was given until today to safeguard its rear stairs with rails and to place "exit" signs about the church. Other churches were similarly notified.

ASKS $150,000 FOR SLANDER.

Henry M. Ryan, Oak Park, Sues Men Who, He Says, Circulated Stories Against Him.

Three slander suits, in which total damages of $150,000 are asked, were filed yesterday in the Circuit court by Henry M. Ryan, a mine operator, of Oak Park. Charles Stuart Heattie, an attorney living at 1061 Washington boulevard, is sued for $25,000, Miles Finden of Oak Park for $100,000, and Richard Salter, also of Oak Park, for $25,000.

Ryan sets up in the declaration that the defendants caused to be circulated statements to the effect that he has a police record, has been known as "Cabbage" Ryan, is a "hoodlum," has been the associate of "confidence" men, and participated in their games.

After the stories were circulated two weeks ago, Ryan's wife and their two adopted children left him. Mrs. Ryan returned in a few days. Last year she was secretary of the Oak Park horse show. Mr. Ryan is a member of the Westward Ho Golf club.

SUBMARINE RAMS A TUG.

UNIQUE ACCIDENT, FIRST OF ITS KIND IN U. S. NAVY.

American Under Water Craft Porpoise, After Diving Below Surface, Comes Back with Rush and Drives Hole Through Vessel Used as a Tender—Water Pours In and Commanding Officer Heads Boat for the Shore, Beaching It Before It Sinks.

Newport, R. I., May 2.—[Special.]—The United States naval tug Nina tonight is on the beach on the east side of Narragansett bay, as a result of being rammed by the submarine torpedo boat Porpoise.

This morning the submarines Porpoise and Shark, the former in command of Lieut. C. H. Nelson, and the latter of Lieut. L. Shepley, were convoyed by the Nina to Coddington cove for submerged practice. In coming to the surface after being submerged for a run below the surface, the Porpoise struck the tug a glancing blow on the starboard side, smashing a small hole in the forward compartment, through which the water rushed furiously.

Chief Boatswain Sullivan, in command of the tug, realising the danger, started his vessel for the beach at full speed and beached it at the north end of Coddington cove, on the sandy bottom.

There was no confusion on board the submarine. As soon as the blow was felt, Lieut. Nelson started his boat below the surface again slowly to ascertain if it was free and if it was all right. Nothing was found to be the matter with the craft. It was making no water and apparently had not been damaged by the collision. As soon as the boat had got at a good distance it was brought to the surface. The Porpoise followed the Nina and as soon as the tug had grounded went alongside, as did the Shark, which was further out in the bay with the torpedo boat Vesuvius.

The Porpoise is the best known submarine boat in the world. It was the Porpoise in which President Roosevelt made his trip in Oyster bay last summer.

The carriage was dragged three blocks by the automobile, the ownership of which was not discovered by the police.

EXCUSE us for repeating a little colloquy, but it explains a principle of our business.

We were marking some suits! One of the salesmen, upon being told to mark that entire line of Suits $25, responded: "Why those Suits will bring $35 easily, and we can mark them down later, if any are left." He meant well, and was partly right, but the Suits are marked $25, and are ten dollars better than any in Chicago.

Each one of those $25 Suits will buy us a friend and customer for life.

The Sly Fox, by Meggendorfer.

All Germans and students of European publications have been familiar for years with Meggendorfer Blaetter, founded and published by Lothar Meggendorfer. It is one of the most successful in Germany. Herr Meggendorfer also has been engaged by THE TRIBUNE to contribute to its new comic supplement which begins next Sunday. His drawings will not appear weekly, as he is a slow, studious, and careful workman, but they will be worth waiting for. The full page by which he will be represented in the issue of May 6 is an excellent example of his style. There is real wit, humor, and also a moral in it.

The artists whose work is to be presented to the readers of THE TRIBUNE beginning next Sunday will be found to have in their pictures of society all the correctness, the refinement, and the realism of the best similar work in England or America, while at the same time the picture will be vitally connected with the thought. Most of the pictures presented will not be society pictures, but genuinely funny pictures which will need no words to complete the telling of the story; but where the theme is some society episode, the setting will suit the story, and the words will not be so much an indispensable explanation of the story as a supplementary comment.

SENATORS RESENT PLEA FOR FRISCO.

California Men Say Proposal for Guarantee of $200,000,000 Is Premature.

HAVE THEIR OWN PLANS.

Newlands of Nevada Asks Congress to Act; Doesn't Consult Colleagues.

Washington, D. C., May 2.—The proposal that congress assist the citizens of San Francisco in raising $200,000,000 with which to rebuild the city destroyed by earthquake and fire was made in the senate today, only to be received by the protests of the California senators.

Senator Newlands of Nevada advanced the proposition in the shape of a joint resolution asking the finance committee of the senate and the ways and means committee of the house to report on the feasibility of the government guaranteeing bonds to aid in the rehabilitation of San Francisco.

Suggests Two Plans.

The joint resolution directed the committees named to consider several plans, among them the following:

1. A guarantee of credit to San Francisco which will enable that city to secure at low rates of interest the money necessary for public works, as well as the money necessary for the restoration of the commercial, residential, and manufacturing buildings, to be loaned at fair rates of interest to property owners upon note and mortgage.

2. The organization of a great financial corporation, national or state, half of whose stock shall be taken by subscribers for cash, and half of which stock may be taken by San Francisco property owners for property conveyed, with provisions for the gradual sale of such property, the United States to invest in the stock of such corporation or to make a loan to such corporation upon the lines heretofore pursued by the national government in aid of national expositions.

Whatever plan be advised, a board of national commissioners experienced in exposition building is to be appointed by the president, with the advice and consent of the senate, to control both plans and expenditures.

Thinks $100,000,000 Enough.

Mr. Newlands said he offered the resolution without consulting with the California senators, feeling that they might be sensitive on the question of asking aid. He said he thought that as much as $250,000,000 or $300,000,000 would be necessary to accomplish the complete rehabilitation of the city. Of that he thought the insurance companies would supply $100,000,000 or $150,000,000 and private enterprises also would do much. He believed the government would not be called upon to guarantee more than $100,000,000.

"A country that can spend $200,000,000 in freeing Cuba and $300,000,000 in instructing the Filipinos in self-government, can," he said, "afford to lend its credit to the extent of $50,000,000 or $100,000,000 to help the greatest port of the Pacific coast in its hour of distress." He thought it could be done under the general welfare clause of the constitution.

California Senators Protest.

Senator Flint of California deprecated the introduction of the resolution at this time as unwise and said that the California delegation should have been consulted.

"The California delegation," he added, "hope soon to have a plan of their own for seeking relief from the government. We are asking many things from the national government," he said, "and are not so much concerned whether the millionaires shall have aid in restoring their steel blocks as that we shall receive assistance for the people who are asking bread and meat."

Speaking for himself, Mr. Perkins expressed regret that the resolution had been presented without consulting the California senators. Congress and the country had responded most generously to California's pleas for help, he said, and after referring briefly to what so far had been done said that neither the government, the state of California, nor the municipality of San Francisco had been able to formulate a request, owing to the fact that neither the state legislature nor the San Francisco council had held a session, and he was opposed to any action in advance of an official request. He had no doubt that Mr. Newlands had been actuated by generous impulses, but he felt that if he had consulted with the California senators he might have been dissuaded from presenting the resolution which he considered would have been most desirable.

Mr. Aldrich then moved the reference of the resolution to the committee on finance, and that motion prevailed without opposition.

Provides Army Buildings.

Later in the day the senate accepted an amendment to the army appropriation bill providing $1,500,000 for the erection in San Francisco of army storehouses, offices, shops, stables, sheds, power houses, quarters, and wharfs for the accommodation of four army transports. Of the amount appropriated $750,00 is made immediately available.

Mr. Perkins presented a telegraphic petition from Gov. Pardee of California, pressing for the payment of the claims of that state against the government for the settlement of California's five per cent public lands claim, amounting to about $1,000,000; the war of rebellion claims, aggregating $4,000,000, and the Indian war claims, originally $600,000. The petition was referred to the committee on claims.

NUPTIAL RACE; UNIQUE PRIZE.

Two Employes of W. C. Brown Engaged —First to Wed May Use Private Car for Honeymoon.

The Lake Shore railroad has a unique race on its hands. Strange to say, it has nothing to do with the speed of trains or the laying of rails, but it is no less interesting to the officials of the road.

The scene is laid in the office of W. C. Brown, vice president of the New York Central lines. Two of the principals are employed in his office and a third is a partner in the law firm that looks after the legal interests of the Lake Shore road. The fourth is an outsider. There must be a prize to make a race interesting, and aside from the prizes which the men expect to win through the bans of matrimony there is the future inducement of a honeymoon spent on Vice President Brown's private car for the couple which wins the race.

Edward Henson, for several years private secretary to Mr. Brown, announced his engagement the other day to Miss Elizabeth Meacham Blount, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester P. Blount, and niece of Fred M. Blount and of F. D. Meacham, member of the board of review. Then it happened that on the same day Miss Lida Howland, Mr. Brown's chief stenographer, became engaged to H. D. Howe, a partner in the law firm of Glennon, Carr & Walker, with offices in the La Salle street station.

The outcome is as yet uncertain.

BRIGGS AGAIN "NOT GUILTY."

"Jocko" Cleared of One Robbery Charge, and Has Only Three Others to Face.

"Jocko" Briggs again was found not guilty yesterday. He was on trial in Judge Ben M. Smith's court charged with robbing William Allshouse on Aug. 30, 1904.

The jury reached its verdict after twenty minutes' deliberation. Briggs' defense, as usual, was an alibi.

Three other charges of robbery remain against Briggs. The first will go to trial this morning.

ALDERMEN IN RIVAL NINES

BALL GAME WILL BE PLAYED FOR FRISCO RELIEF FUND.

Details of Contest Will Be Arranged by Members of Council and Charles Comiskey Today—Bowler's "Pitching Arm" Relied Upon by Democrats—More Money Is Added to the Local Contributions by Churches and Schools.

Despite considerable "jockeying" for coveted places, "Capt." Burns and "Capt." Zimmer succeeded yesterday in arranging the lineups for the "all star" aldermanic baseball game, to be played next week for the benefit of the San Francisco relief fund.

The time and the place will be settled with Charley Comiskey today.

The democrats are counting upon a "whirlwind" battery in the persons of Ald. Bowler and Herlihy. Bowler was a professional bicycle rider and is reputed to have an arm that will stand nine innings with ease. Just how bicycle riding will give one a "pitching arm" has not been made clear. Ald. Harding and Badenoch will be the republican battery.

The Lineup.

Republicans.	Positions.	Democrats.
Burns	First base	Zimmer
Pringle	Second base	Riley
Wendling	Shortstop	Scully
Moynihan	Third base	Kohout
Roberts	Right field	Dever
Golombiewski	Center field	Considine
Harding	Pitcher	Bowler
Badenoch	Catcher	Herlihy

The relief fund reached $933,000 yesterday. Six Christian Science churches reported collections amounting to $4,099 for members of the church in San Francisco.

Only one public school, the Jefferson, remains to be heard from. The total from the schools, with this exception, is $16,776, including contributions from the offices of the board. The Schiller and the Jirka schools each sent $45 yesterday.

Directors of the Chicago Commercial association commented with approval yesterday upon the accurate bulletins which E. P. Bicknell, their representative, had furnished them regarding the situation in the devastated city.

"We can feel assured that not a penny has been wasted or misapplied," said Chairman John G. Shedd.

Progress Reported by Bicknell.

Mr. Bicknell wired in his latest bulletin:

"Established warehouses now have twenty days' supplies on hand. Provisions and other goods arriving daily. Commissary department rapidly perfecting its organization whereby able bodied men will be put to work and sick and needy will be cared for.

"Retail stores are operating. Business being slowly resumed as money gets into circulation. Estimated 20,000 men are now at work and earning wages. Large warehouses have been secured in which goods will be stored as they arrive, to be shipped into supply depots on proper requisition. Inventory of stock now being taken. In a few days will know our needs. Meanwhile committee advises holding money for orders in near future. Will keep you advised."

Among the most attractive "benefits" which the San Francisco disaster has called forth is the joint concert by the Apollo club and the Thomas orchestra at Orchestra hall tomorrow night. The first half of the program will be purely orchestral, while for the second half 350 voices will sing Haydn's oratorio, "The Creation," under the direction of Harrison M. Wild.

The Germania club will give a concert for the relief fund at Handel hall, 40 Randolph street, this evening.

FUMES KILL TWO WORKERS IN PACKING HOUSE PLANT.

Joseph Hickisch Goes to Fix Lard Tank, Is Overcome; William Voss Tries to Help Him; Both Die.

Two men were asphyxiated in a lard condensing tank in the plant of Nelson Morris & Co. at the stockyards last night. One of them met death through his efforts to aid his comrade, who was dying in a huge reservior, the top of which is forty feet above the ground.

The dead are:

HICKISCH, JOSEPH, 5809 Union avenue, an engineer.

VOSS, WILLIAM, 1454 West Forty-ninth place; helper.

The tank is a huge covered vat with a manhole in the top and is supported on piles twenty feet high. Hickisch descended into the empty vat with a candle to fix a valve. Voss, who was watching through the manhole, saw the light go out. He climbed down the ladder to help Hickisch, and he, too, was affected by the gas.

His cries were heard by Frank Peal, who called for help from the fire department. Both of the men were dead when taken out of the tank.

Two men were crushed under falling ore in the plant of the Illinois Steel company, McHenry street and Wabansia avenue. They are Martin Wilanski, 1141 North Lincoln street, and Frank Marzerkswics, 796 Holt avenue. Wilanski's injuries are serious. Both men were taken to St. Elizabeth's hospital.

CHEAPER ANTITOXIN PROVIDED.

Memorial Institute for Infectious Diseases Now Supplying the City at Cost.

The appeal for cheaper antitoxin to save the lives of children who contract diphtheria has been answered. Dr. Heman Spalding, chief medical inspector of the city health department, hopes that it will not be long before the remedy is within the reach of even the poorest citizens. The Memorial Institute for Infectious Diseases, which was established as a memorial for the son of Harold F. McCormick, is supplying the city with antitoxin at less than half the price charged by the "antitoxin trust," as Dr. Spalding terms it.

It is hoped that it will soon be on general sale at cost price.

The city is now being supplied with 100 boxes of antitoxin, containing 3,000 units each, daily, and where the "trust" charges $5.25 for 3,000 units the city now pays only $1.50.

$200,000,000 READY TO REBUILD FRISCO

Large Sums of Money in Sight Guard the City Against Hard Times.

MOST IS INSURANCE CASH.

Big Corporations to Spend Millions in Street Railroads and Telephones.

San Francisco, Cal., May 2.—An investigation made today has demonstrated that the fear that San Francisco will suffer a period of hard times as an aftermath of the disastrous fire is unfounded. A careful estimate made by authorities competent to speak shows that within the next year there will be over $200,000,000 available for the rehabilitation of San Francisco.

The following figures made clear where this sum is to originate:

Investment of new Geary street municipal road	$ 340,000
Home Telephone company expenditures	1,000,000
Insurance losses, approximately	175,000,000
United Railroads, new constructions	9,000,000
City bonds of 1904, sum still available	17,000,000
Ocean Shore railway	1,000,000
Restoration of Pacific States Telephone company	1,000,000
Restoration of government buildings	770,000
Building of sea wall	2,000,000
Total	$207,110,000

It is expected that a large part of this money will come from eastern and foreign capitalists. In figuring the two hundred and odd million which will be available, the investigators did not take into consideration the sums that may be raised for the beautification and improvement of the city.

Another Quake; No Damage.

There was another earthquake shock last night. It was slightly felt in San Francisco, but down the peninsula as far as Palo Alto the shock was severe. No damage has been reported.

The vexatious problem of locating the new Chinatown will probably be settled to the satisfaction of the Chinese colony. It is the desire of the municipality not to harass this portion of its foreign population, and the desires of the diplomatic representatives of China will be considered. At a meeting today of Chinese diplomats and a representative of the general committee such understanding was reached.

Plans to Raise $200,000,000.

Victor H. Metcalf, secretary of commerce and labor, who is here as the personal representative of the president, will be requested to lay before President Roosevelt and the cabinet upon his return to Washington the plan proposed by former Mayor James D. Phelan of having the government guarantee a large municipal bond issue by San Francisco for the purpose of rebuilding the city.

This action, it is said, was unofficially decided upon at a conference held last night at Fort Mason between the finance committee, of which Mr. Phelan is chairman, and the mayor, at which the proposition for the rehabilitation of this city as suggested by Mr. Phelan was discussed at considerable length.

It is proposed that San Francisco shall issue municipal bonds in the sum of $200,000,000, to run a series of years, and the payment of which is to be guaranteed by the United States. The money is to be used in rebuilding the burned sections and otherwise rehabilitating the city.

In order to issue such a loan it will be necessary to amend the charter and have the legislature remove any other obstacles that may be in the way.

Architects Not Needed.

Rufus P. Jennings, secretary of the citizens' committee, said today that some misapprehension evidently existed in the east upon San Francisco's immediate need for architects, contractors, and draftsmen. The day following the earthquake Mayor Schmitz sent telegrams to a number of leading eastern cities, asking how many architects, contractors, and draftsmen were available in case they were needed. Mr. Jennings declared that the telegrams have been apparently misunderstood, as some dispatches have been received here announcing that architects were en route to this city. The mayor's telegrams, he said, merely desired information.

At a meeting of the state board of architects in this city last night the declaration was made that outside architects were not needed, and that eastern members of the profession would find it difficult to maintain themselves here at this time.

Workmen's Dinner, 10 Cents.

Mrs. Will Crocker, who has been at Burlingame since the arrival of herself and husband from New York last Saturday night, today presented an extensive restaurant project to Mayor Schmitz, which at once met his approval. Vast eating houses for the accommodation of workingmen in the burned district will be established where a nourishing meal may be had for a nominal charge of 5 or 10 cents. The first of these will be installed immediately in Union square with accommodation for 1,000. Mrs. Crocker's idea is not to start a charity, but to establish places where men who are earning their living may secure good food at noon time at cost prices.

QUAKE LEAVES GIRL STRANDED.

Adele Pahlman, Chicago City Hall Stenographer, "Homeless, Moneyless, and Almost Clothesless."

The employes of the city hall received word yesterday that Miss Adele Pahlman, who was employed as a stenographer in the office of City Statistician Hugo Grosser, escaped from the San Francisco earthquake unharmed, but is "homeless, moneyless, and almost clothesless." A letter was received from Miss Pahlman, and within an hour the stenographers in the building had raised $44.25, which will be sent to her at once. She left Chicago April 1 with her mother, who is an invalid.

Overcome by excitement following the earthquake, Oliver W. Shead, an attorney, was taken to the Garfield Park sanitarium from a Chicago and Northwestern railroad train in the afternoon.

Shead had been in San Francisco on business when the quake came. He lives in Boston.

SEES PERIL IN BABY SHOW.

DOCTOR PROTESTS AGAINST EXHIBITION OF TOMORROW.

Besides Injury Done to Helpless Children by Excitement, Noise, and Loss of Sleep, He Says, the Danger of Contagion Is Grave the City Being in Midst of an Epidemic of Scarlet Fever and to Less Degree of Diphtheria.

Chicago, May 2.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Will you allow me to enter an emphatic protest against the baby show to be held on Friday of this week?

It is proposed to gather together as many babies and young children as possible and expose them to the curious gaze of as large a throng as possible. They are to be lined up for "judging" at 10:45 a. m. and are to be on public exhibition from 1 p. m. till 7 p. m. There are to be bands of music to furnish any noise that the poor babies themselves cannot supply. For what purpose? To raise money for the suffering people of San Francisco.

The unfortunate people of San Francisco need help, indeed, but is this proposed plan either a wise or humane one? Let us see.

Program for Show Victims.

The victims of this show presumably will leave their homes as early as 10 a. m. and will not return until after 7 p. m., nine long hours of excitement, noise, and turmoil, increasing as the day wears on, still in the midst of it all, long after they ought to be at home and in bed, sound asleep for the night. When and how are these babies to have their proper food at the proper time? When the daily nap? The injurious effect of thus breaking in on the daily routine of the baby's life is too obvious to need further comment. The harm and damage done to their sensitive nervous systems by the excitement and noise of bands, other equally tired and crying babies, and a crowd of onlookers cannot be estimated. Go with the baby's doctor Saturday morning and you will get some idea of it.

Danger of Contagion.

Another grave danger to these little people is the risk of contracting contagious diseases, either mild or severe.

The health conditions at present existing in Chicago are particularly favorable for spreading contagious disease. Do the parents of proposed "exhibits" realize that we are in the midst of an epidemic of scarlet fever and that we have the usual number of cases of diphtheria? There are today fifty-four cases of scarlet fever in the special ward of the Cook county hospital. They are safe, well cared for. They will not be at the "show."

But scattered all over the city are hundreds of other cases, each one a possible focus for disseminating the disease. There have been reported to the health department during the last three weeks 109, 129, and 152 cases respectively, the last number, reached last week, being the highest weekly record since 1902.

The same is true of diphtheria, but to a less extent.

As every case of scarlet fever is a source of danger for six weeks, and as new cases are constantly occurring, it readily will be seen how many infected families there are in the city at present. With so many hundred households infected in the community, the danger of gathering together a lot of children, as it is proposed to do, is considerable.

This is not an exaggerated picture. It is a plain statement of facts and of probabilities likely to arise from these facts. And to such injurious influences and risks is it proposed to expose helpless infants and children! Who of us with babies and children of our own, and knowing these dangers, does not cry out against this wrong and injustice? How many physicians have "entered" their own children?

"Show" Unnecessary to Raise Money.

The people of Chicago do not have to resort to this iniquitous method of raising money to help the suffering in San Francisco. Freely and nobly have they responded to the cry for help, asking nothing in return for the "price of admission."

Let the parents about to expose their children pause and consider. Let the people of Chicago send the price of admission to the people of San Francisco through the proper channels, stay away from this "show," and thereby stamp their disapproval upon this vulgar, public display of what constitutes the greatest and most genuine happiness of private life.

STOCK SALE TO BE SIFTED.

Coal Roads Investigation Commission to Get Copy of Contract from Baltimore and Ohio.

Washington, D.C., May 2.—When the interstate commerce commission resumed the hearing today under the Tillman-Gillespie coal and oil resolution, C. S. Wight, manager of freight traffic for the Baltimore and Ohio, resumed his testimony. He was questioned relative to fuel coal delivered by the Baltimore and Ohio to the Reading railroad, being asked if the Fairmont Coal company had not had an advantage in the rate in fuel delivered to the Reading, and if a rate had not been made at one time on fuel coal to Chicago applicable to the Fairmont Coal company alone. He replied in the negative to both questions.

Hugh L. Bond Jr., second vice president of the Baltimore and Ohio, testified that the statement recently published that the Baltimore and Ohio had sold its stock in the Consolidation Coal company was correct.

When asked as to the purchase price of the Consolidation Coal company, Mr. Bond responded that he did not think it would be fair to say, because it was a private matter. The commission decided that the contract should be submitted to the commission, that body to determine whether the purchase price shall become a part of the record.

and continued to do so until the Birmingham concern was driven to the wall."

"What did the Duponts do to Birmingham?"

"I have forgotten how much the Birmingham people sold out for, but after they had made a losing fight and found they had been rounded up by the pool they sold out for what they could get, which, as I remember, was not much over one-third the value of their plant and good will. It was such things as these which disgusted me, so when the trust itself was actually formed, although I was still sales agent, with a salary of $1,000 a month, I pulled out so as to go into business for myself."

There was another concern at about the same time, known as the Indiana Powder company, which had its headquarters at Terre Haute. It was started by George L. Rood, who had been a salesman for the Dupont and Hazzard people, but had left their employ when the pool refused to make any contracts for services. Rood got the coal operators into his powder mill scheme. It had been the custom in coal mining for the miners to buy their powder of the operators at a certain fixed price, which is stipulated in the scale agreement. At that time the price of powder at retail to miners was $1.75 per keg.

The powder and dynamite pools organized what was called the Great Northern Supply company. It set out to supply powder to miners at retail at $1.25 per keg. This company, which was a direct creature of the pool, built magazines and started out wagons at Terre Haute, Brazil, and other towns in the Indiana coal district. They flooded the section with men who went into the unions and endeavored to persuade the miners to break their contracts with the operators.

How an Indiana Company Fared.

"As a whole the miners were pretty loyal, but after a struggle of about three years the Indiana Powder company found itself pretty well hemmed in and only able to divide the trade in its own district. Furthermore, it was obliged to meet a radical cut in prices made by this new company, which was organized to kill out the legitimate concern. The Indiana company went the same way as its Birmingham associate and in about the same time."

"Do you know the pool was behind this operation?" I asked Waddell.

"Certainly I know it," he said. "I made out most of the papers, and I still have many of the records. The black powder companies sold powder pro rata to the Great Northern Supply company. I shipped the stuff myself. I was then located in Cincinnati and had twelve states under my control. I was at the conference at which the whole plan was mapped out by my superiors, and if this matter is protected by the statute of limitations they will not take the trouble to deny it."

If this struggle, mean and cruel as it was, merely involved the crushing out of two unfortunate local powder mills, it would be bad enough, but it is evident the minute they were crushed out the price was raised at every other mill in the same territory, the operators and the miners had to pay more for their powder, and the public had to pay more for their coal. Almost at the very minute the Birmingham mill capitulated, the price of powder in that vicinity went up from 70 cents and the freight rate to $1.25 plus the freight rate. That merely was getting back to the old rate. The same thing was done in Indiana, where the wholesale price was put up to $1.25 and the retail price to the miners to $1.75.

Public Pays Expense of Warfare.

But that was not enough. It had cost the powder trust about $200,000 to buy out the Indiana plant after the life had been beaten out of it. The trust had no notion of paying for its own warfare. On Dec. 11, 1902, a meeting of the powder pool was held at the office of the Laflin and Rand Powder company in New York, and all concerns, including the newly purchased Indiana company, were represented, although there were few men actually present. At that time the annual consumption of powder in this country was approximately 4,000,000 kegs a year.

To make up for the loss in the Indiana field in a single year required an addition to price of 5 cents a keg. There was, however, the loss in the Birmingham fight, about as much more.

Price Boosted and Never Lowered.

The regular trust price of $1.25 per keg at the mill in quantity already had been restored, but the conference increased the price all over the central district 10 cents a keg, and the public was assessed $400,000 annually to pay for crushing out competition at Terre Haute and Birmingham, and that payment was continued every year, and is being being continued today.

These two operations of the powder trust are probably within the scope of statute limitations, and will not be made the subject of prosecution. I have cited them merely to show the way in which trusts work, how cruel they are, and how completely an individual operator, whether he be running a powder mill or a sausage factory, is at the mercy of the great combination.

APPROPRIATION BILLS PASSED.

House Indorses Agricultural Measure with Free Seed Amendment—Cotton "Leak" Hit.

Washington, D. C., May 2.—The house today passed the agricultural appropriation bill, with the free seed amendment, and the military academy bill. The agricultural appropriation bill carried $7,481,440. The military academy bill carried $1,063,115.

An echo of the recent scandals growing out of "leaks" affecting cotton reports in the agricultural department was created by Mr. Crumpacker of Indiana, who thought that the appropriation for collecting agricultural statistics was entirely too large. He believed that the forecasts of cotton crops made by the department promoted and fostered gambling, and, instead of aiding the cotton grower, it put the whole subject into the stock market, and he questioned whether this kind of "guessing" served any good end.

Mr. Scott of Kansas said that the accuracy of the forecast was admitted on every hand and was invaluable to both growers and manufacturers. He said that statistics showed that the forecasts for a year were but 1½ per cent in error.

DENOUNCED THE CROP REPORTS

Cotton Growers Took a Fling at the Department of Agriculture Before Adjourning.

Washington, D. C., May 2.—After denouncing the government crop reports, and especially the reports of the department of agriculture, and passing a resolution favoring a statistical cotton year running from Aug. 1 to Aug. 1 instead of Sept. 1 to Sept. 1, the international cotton conference adjourned today to reassemble next year, should it be deemed advisable by the various organizations represented to do so.

The Comfort of a True Fit and Faultless Style

We are all the time fitting new customers who have absolutely never known what shoe comfort is. They have come to believe that new shoes must mean a month of misery—all because their foot-measurement happens to be between the half-sizes. If they buy shoes that fit smoothly, they find them too tight; and if they buy shoes that are long enough they have to put up with wrinkling and slipping.

All we want is for you to try on a Regal, if you are hard to fit. No one shape can be made to fit every foot, but we can promise you not only the exact shape that fits you, but the exact size as well. The Regal is the only shoe made in quarter sizes, and that accounts for it. It makes all the difference in the world—that little quarter size.

RTISE IN THE TRIBUNE.

HEARST LAWYERS ACCUSE JEROME.

Retaliate by Charging Forgeries in Petitions Which Nominated Attorney.

GOULD BOY NEAR DEATH.

Thrown from Runaway Auto; He Fears Opening of Wound from Appendicitis Operation.

NEW YORK BUREAU CHICAGO TRIBUNE. New York, May 2.

District Attorney Jerome caused the arrest and indictment on forgery charges a few days ago of eight municipal ownership workers and notaries concerned in the preparation of petitions nominating William R. Hearst for mayor last fall. Today lawyers for Hearst's Independence league made public announcement they had had at work a corps of investigators, and as a result had found irregularities and forgeries in the petitions on which the Jerome nominators put their candidate in the field.

Hearst Attorneys Strike Back at Jerome.

"All we want to find out," said Mr. Rathbone, a lawyer associated with Clarence J. Shearn, Mr. Hearst's counsel, "is whether Jerome is going to be as anxious and prompt in prosecuting these men who committed wrongs in his own name as he was in indicting our workers on the statement of a self-confessed forger."

District Attorney Jerome promptly announced he is going to set on foot a searching investigation of the accusations brought by the Hearst lawyers, that if their charges proved true no guilty man will be permitted to escape.

Mr. Rathbone said only about 1,400 of the signatures on the Jerome petition have been investigated, and that in his opinion only about 15 per cent of these are open to question.

The Hearst investigators assert they have found hundreds of persons whose names appeared on the Jerome petitions, but who declare they never signed.

Kingdon Gould in Auto Accident.

Kingdon Gould, eldest son of George J. Gould, was badly shaken up by an automobile accident at Manasquam, N. J., late this afternoon. The only other occupant of the machine at the time of the accident was Crossvin, the driver. Young Gould was at the wheel and the machine darted down a long incline just outside Manasquam and had struck the long level stretch of road leading to Lakewood.

A short distance up the road there is a slight curve, where a heap of sand had been dumped. The right front wheel struck this sand pile and the big car skidded to the side of the road and turned a complete somersault.

Kingdon Gould was hurled thirty feet, but landed in a soft spot at the side of the road. The driver struck the roadway and was stunned. He quickly recovered.

Late tonight the automobile was towed into Lakewood. At the garage young Gould complained of a severe pain in his right side. He was operated on for appendicitis about two weeks ago and he thinks the shaking up he got today affected the wound left by the operation.

More Testimony by Mrs. Duke's Maid.

Nellie Sands, Mrs. Duke's maid, who last week gave sensational testimony against her mistress, was cross examined today in Vice Chancellor Pitney's court in Newark at the trial of the divorce suit of James B. Duke, the millionaire head of the tobacco trust.

Chauncey G. Parker, of Mrs. Duke's counsel, examined the witness.

Q.—Are you married? A.—Not yet.

Q.—But soon? A.—No.

Miss Sands was cross questioned concerning the six weeks' illness of Duke at 11 West Fifty-eighth street, during which period the witness had testified Mrs. Duke would nightly bid her husband an affectionate goodnight, go downstairs and finish the rest of the evening in the company of Maj. Huntoon.

Miss Sands testified that after she left Mrs. Duke's employ and became a waitress at the home of Mr. Duke's brother, Mr. Duke one day rang her up on the phone.

"He told me, 'Well, I have caught her [Mrs. Duke] at last,'" said the girl.

Q.—What did you say? A.—I began to cry, and said I hoped he would forgive her. He said he would never forgive her, and I cried all night.

Miss Sands said she got ten shares of the American Tobacco stock on June 1, 1905. They bring her $15 in dividends every three months.

Miss Sands' testimony was not shaken materially by cross-examination. She denied she had told any one she had been kidnaped and held prisoner in order to get her away from Mrs. Duke.

Denies Gage Will Join Theosophists.

The report that Lyman J. Gage, formerly secretary of the treasury and recently president of the United States Trust company of this city, was to join the Lotuses of the Purple Mother, Kitty Tingley's theosophist colony, at Point Loma, Cal., was denied emphatically tonight by Mr. Gage's secretary, H. S. Morrison, Gage himself being in Denver. Morrison said:

"Of course, Mr. Gage is a member of the Society for Psychical Research and, like many other thoughtful men of today, is much interested in psychical subjects. I believe he met Mrs. Tingley and thinks her a remarkable woman. He admires the work she is doing at the colony at Point Loma. But he does not believe in theosophy, so far as I know, and never had, nor has he now, any intention of joining any of Mrs. Tingley's colonies."

Rich Man's Arrest Sequel to Lottery Raid.

Following the seizure of 600,000 Honduras lottery tickets in a secret service raid on John M. Rogers' lithographing plant at Wilmington, Del., that millionaire printer and former mayoralty candidate at Wilmington today was arraigned before United States Commissioner Mahaffey and held in $1,500 bail. President Rogers waived hearing pending his trial in June on a charge of sending lottery tickets out of the state.

Considerable mystery surrounds the arrest. Chief Flynn said tonight an express driver had delivered the lottery tickets and paraphernalia to an upper west side warehouse. This man sharply was catechised by the district attorney and is believed to be a tool for prominent principals. Chief Flynn intimated a series of important arrests in this city and Philadelphia would follow that of John M. Rogers, but the aim of the secret service to keep them all will be defeated by disclosing their names prematurely.

SUES EQUITABLE AND WINS.

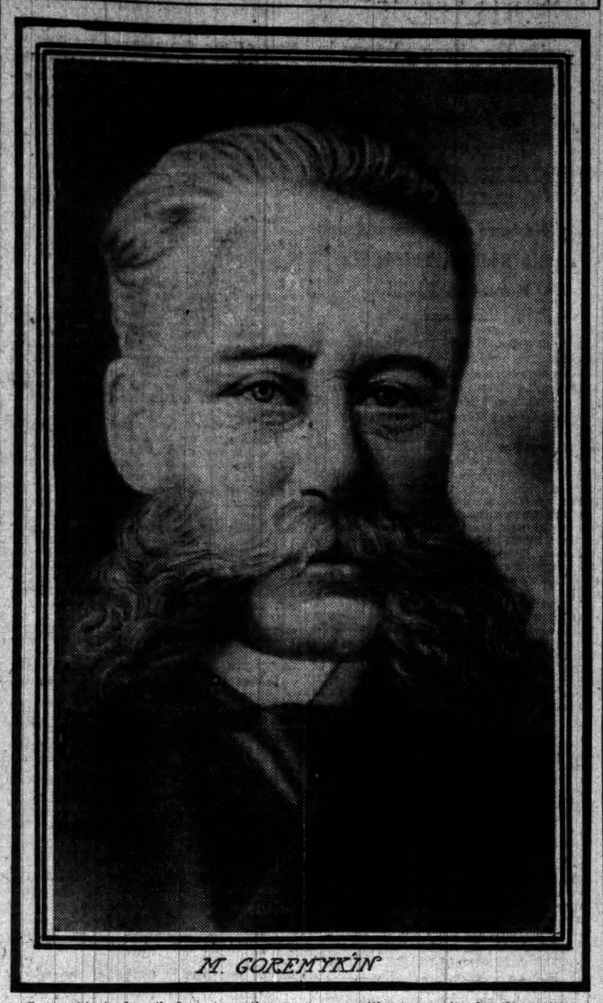

Woman Policy Holder and Share Owner Insists Money Wasted by Directors Must Be Restored.

Albany, N. Y., May 2.—The appellate division of the Supreme court today affirmed the interlocutory judgment ordered by the special term against James H. Hyde in the action brought by Mary S. Young of Saratoga Springs against the Equitable Life Assurance society and its directors.

Mrs. Young brings the action as a policy holder and as the owner of one share of stock to recover for all the sums wasted during the three years prior to 1905. Judgment is asked that they be compelled to account for the sums thus wasted and restore them to the treasury of the society.

The directors will now be compelled to join issue on the facts or allow judgment to pass against them by default.

CONTRACT IN WIFE TRADE

AGREEMENTS BY WHICH MEN EXCHANGED SPOUSES MADE PUBLIC.

Text of Formal Statements Sheds Light on Trial for Adultery Which Will Follow—Attorney Denies Any Other Action in Premises than That He Has Been Engaged to Conduct Case — Many Witnesses Summoned in Controversy.

HOCH'S NAME ON TICKET.

KANSAS GOVERNOR IS RENOMINATED WITH MACHINE SLATE.

Republican Convention Adopts Resolutions and Platform with Practical Unanimity — William Allen White Springs New Political Surprise by Charging Executive with Making Concessions to Railroad to Secure Berth for John Madden.

Governor	EDWARD W. HOCH
Lieutenant governor	WILLIAM J. FITZGERALD
Secretary of state	CHARLES E. DENTON
State auditor	JAMES M. NATION
State treasurer	MARK TULLY
Attorney general	FRED S. JACKSON
State superintendent of public instruction	E. T. FAIRCHILD

Justices of Supreme court, four year term	SILAS PORTER, CHARLES B. GRAVES
Railroad commissioners	GEORGE W. KANAVEL, FRANK RYAN, CHARLES A. RYKER
Insurance commissioner	CHARLES W. BARNES
State printer	THOMAS A. M'NEAL

Topeka, Kas., May 2.—The Kansas state republican convention today renominated Gov. Hoch, nominated the state officers who will run on his ticket, and defined its platform.

The so-called machine slate, supported by the present state administration, was successful over the reform faction led by W. R. Stubbs.

The resolution, which was adopted by the convention late in the day, reaffirms the party's pride "in the history and achievements of the national organization, and adherence to its principles." It continues:

"The wisdom of its financial policy so fiercely antagonised is now universally conceded, while its protective policy provokes controversy only between revisionists and standpatters. Under the magic of these wise policies the country has vaulted to the front rank among the nations in finance, in manufactures, in material development, and in general prosperity, while its wage earners find remuneration twice as great as under any other flag.

Approve President's Rate Campaign.

"The vigorous, able, and wise administration of President Roosevelt commands our enthusiastic approval as it has won the plaudits of our countrymen regardless of party. We especially approve his demands for the regulation of railroad rates, and commend our senator and representatives in congress for their support of this policy.

The resolutions demand the abolishment of free railway passes except to regular employés.

William Allen White Amused.

Emporia, Kas., May 2.—[Special.]—William Allen White, in the Emporia Gazette, today says: "The local politicians read the story this morning that Gov. Hoch had lent the name of the state of Kansas to the Missouri, Kansas and Texas lawsuit in the Indian territory with considerable merriment. It has been known among the local statesmen here that John Madden, the general attorney for the Missouri, Kansas and Texas in Kansas, got his place through the influence of Gov. Hoch. It is known here that Hoch personally took the matter up with the general counsel of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas at St. Louis and 'laid down on him,' as the politicians say, to appoint Madden. . . . The Santa Fé and other roads were opposed to Madden's appointment, as he would be persona non grata to the other Kansas railroads' attorneys, but suddenly their objections ceased. It was believed here that they were told the importance of the concession."

DRINK WHISKY IN "RESTROOMS."

Peoria High School Faculty Members Say Liquor Was Given Girls for "Medicinal Purposes."

Peoria, Ill., May 2.—[Special.]—Sensational disclosures that some of the girl students of the high school are addicted to the use of whisky and that the "restrooms" have been the scene of drinking bouts caused widespread consternation in school circles today. Members of the faculty have confirmed the rumors and they admit that whisky had been given to the girls for medicinal purposes.

Further tales related to some of the brightest and most attractive of the girl pupils having been found in the restroom in an intoxicated condition and a weird story was to the effect that at the annual play given for the seniors a short time ago one of the fair actresses had been unable to appear on account of being too far gone in her cups.

The matter will be called to the attention of the new school board and some action will be taken in a short time.

WITTE OUSTED BY HIS ENEMIES.

Czar Accepts Premier's Resignation, to Delight of the Reactionaries.

OLD TIME FOE HAS PLACE.

Goremykin, the Supporter of Von Plehve, Will Be Head of Cabinet.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 2.—Premier count de Witte's resignation has been accepted. His successor will be his old time enemy, M. Goremykin, privy councilor, and known as the "milk dealer."

De Witte's overthrow is accepted as a victory for the reactionaries. His friends declare he served the emperor's purpose as a barrier between him and the people during the trying months of the revolution, and now that the uprising is suppressed and the treasury again replenished the count has been ignominiously dismissed.

M. Goremykin, the new premier, is not only regarded as a reactionary but the general opinion is that he is not equal to the task of facing the coming crisis. His elevation to the premiership has created amazement. He has long been an untiring enemy of De Witte. He is largely interested in dairy farming, and, in fact, as a milk dealer supplies most of the milk used in St. Petersburg.

Man of Mediocre Ability.

M. Goremykin is considered a mediocre man, and is of insignificant appearance as well as capacity. He wears side whiskers and looks like an English butler. While for some time he has been called a liberal it was only in contrast with such men as Von Plehve and M. Sipiaguine, reactionary leaders, both of whom were assassinated. He began his career in the ministry of justice, becoming assistant minister, from which post he was called in 1895, as a protégé of the dowager empress, to become minister of the interior. The student troubles were just beginning, and Goremykin proved so lacking in energy in suppressing them that he was removed and M. Sipiaguine given his place. Sipiaguine was a victim of his own harsh energy, for he was killed by a terrorist bomb.

While Goremykin was minister of the interior he had made a report to the emperor to the effect that the stories of famine and suffering which were said to exist in certain provinces were untrue. De Witte, who then was minister of finance, thereupon produced documents to prove that the conditions in the interior were as bad as they had been represented to be. When confronted with this proof, Goremykin is said to have fallen on his knees before the emperor, to have wept, and to have begged forgiveness. The minister was so overcome that the emperor himself brought him a glass of water.

Helped Overthrow De Witte.

Goremykin, dismissed from office, nursed his hatred of De Witte. He joined the Von Plehve faction and was a part of the cabal which overthrew De Witte as minister of finance in 1903. He was rewarded with the chairmanship of the agrarian commission. When De Witte became premier he removed his old enemy from office.

The wheel of political fortunes has turned again and once more De Witte is down and Goremykin is up. De Witte, unquestionably the biggest man in public life here, goes out unwept and unsung and amid the rejoicings of the reactionists, who hate the liberals and who distrust him. Yet even today it is predicted that when the next great crisis comes the emperor will be forced to summon De Witte from his retirement.

It is reported that the Minister of the Interior Durnovo, De Witte's antagonist in the cabinet, has been dismissed and that the minister of justice, a stanch Durnovo supporter, will be retired.

Planning an Uprising.

The social democrats' convention began a secret sitting today with 122 delegates present, including not only Russians but representatives of the Polish social democrats and Jewish bund and the Letts, Caucasian, Little Russian, and Finnish organizations. Quite a number of the delegates have been arrested while on their way here.

The ostensible object of the meeting is the unification of the organizations, but the real purpose is to perfect plans for a general uprising.

The religious features of parliament will not be neglected. Like all the state institutions of "holy Russia," the Tauride palace, where parliament will assemble, has now been equipped with a profusion of ikons. These sacred pictures, before each of which burns a taper, hang in the corners of the lower house and in the various committee rooms. Most of the Russian saints, all of those who are credited with working miracles of some sort are represented. About one-third of the sixty-eight images are of Saint Nicholas the miracle worker. Besides these there are twenty portraits of the Virgin, which are supposed to have been painted by superhuman hands.

Diverging Views of Crisis.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, May 3, 3 a. m.—The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Daily Telegraph, who is a friend and admirer of Count de Witte, attacks M. Goremykin as a bureaucrat of bureaucrats, and as the high priest of pigeon holes. Heaviness, cunning, and indolence are his main characteristics. He dabbled in company promoting, for which he might have been prosecuted had it not been for the late Von Plehve, who refused to move against him. His appointment is calculated to fill the friends of Russia with greatest apprehension. Even the dull observer can discern that a fateful step has been taken and that serious consequences must be faced.

The Times St. Petersburg correspondent, on the other hand, differs widely with the correspondent of the Telegraph. He says De Witte insisted upon the immediate promulgation of new laws with the object of leaving him a free hand and depriving the douma of any initiative in matters concerning the future government of the country. The czar would not hear of the project, which he declared to be unwise and dangerous. He added:

"It is my wish that the government may be conducted in an orderly fashion and that the country have peace. This new law would only stir up conflict and compromise me before the people. We must wait until the douma has begun work and then see what changes are necessary."

Count de Witte argued vainly. The czar bluntly refused to yield to persuasion. The fact is Count de Witte discredited himself as an exponent of the art of popular government and he was disliked by the sovereign and detested by the whole court.

COMPARATIVE QUIETUDE FOLLOWS TUMULT OF MAY DAY.

City Throws Off Fear and Resumes Its Normal Aspect—Large Number of Strikers Return to Work and Isolated Disturbances Are Quelled Without Trouble by Police—Services of Troops Not Needed and Many Leave Capital.

PARIS, May 2.—Repetition of the grave disorders of yesterday failed to materialize today and by nightfall Paris almost had resumed its usual tranquillity.

The main force of the labor movement as it affects the city and the country appears to have spent itself, although detached movements continue to agitate various trades, requiring constant surveillance by the police and the continued presence in Paris of a considerable force of troops. However, the authorities, while prepared to meet any further widespread demonstration, no longer treat the movement as a serious menace to the community.

All the stores were open today and traffic by cabs, street railways, etc., was not interfered with. The cavalry and infantry have been withdrawn from the bourse, the Bank of France and other financial centers, where they had been held in readiness for eventualities.

Nevertheless, the working districts today continued in a state of evervescence, with frequent minor affrays, none, however, assuming proportions requiring the intervention of the troops, who remained under arms throughout the day at the Prince Eugene barracks in the Place de la Republique. Towards nightfall a squadron of cavalry was drawn up facing the labor exchange, as it was feared the close of the afternoon meeting of the various trades would result in another demonstration. The precaution, however, proved to be unnecessary.

Labor Element Is Divided.

The situation among the workingmen has not yet become definite. Some trades are resuming work, others are partially resuming, and still others have decided not to resume until the eight hour working day is conceded. At the prefecture of police tonight it was estimated that three-fourths of the workmen had returned to their tasks, the remaining one-fourth continuing on strike. These latter are mainly masons and stone cutters.

In the suburbs and other factory centers there were isolated conflicts between strikers and nonstrikers. At Belleville gendarmes and a platoon of cavalry dispersed strikers who were attempting to interfere with workers. A band of strikers attempted to enter a cartridge factory at Bruyeres de Sevres for the purpose of inducing workmen to quit, but they were driven off by the police. A sentry at a suburban railway crossing was fired on by some unknown person.

Disaster Averted by Chance.

The municipal laboratory's examination of the cylindrical bomb which was discovered Tuesday night at the Austerlitz viaduct shows that the missile was of an extremely dangerous description and that only an imperfect fuse prevented an explosion, the consequences of which would have been terrible. The bomb contained twenty-seven smokeless cartridges, 150 bullets imbedded in wax, and a large quantity of powder.

Several other bombs were found last night which were extremely explosive.

At Brest work has been resumed in practically all of the factories. The town is being patrolled and the manufactories are being guarded by the military. At St. Etienne strikers threaten to attack nonstriking steel workers, who, however, were protected by gendarmes. At Dunkirk the dock laborers unanimously resolved to strike. At Lyons, Marseilles, Lille, and Lorient there were no incidents worthy of mention. The various trades in those places continue on strike, but quiet generally prevails.

SEES PERIL IN THE PARKS.

JUSTICE HURLEY CALLS MEETING TO ADVOCATE REFORMS.

Magistrate Enlists Aid of Cook County Child Saving League to Correct Evils in Playgrounds, Which, He Says, Are Worse in Their Influence than Dance Halls—Lack of Proper Parental Supervision Is Claimed—Favors Registering Visitors.

Describing the small public parks and playgrounds as they are now governed as being as productive of evil as the public dance halls, Justice of the Peace Timothy D. Hurley yesterday arranged for a meeting of the Cook County Child Saving conference, at which reforms in the methods of supervision at the parks will be urged. The meeting will be held at Mark White square, Halsted and Twenty-ninth streets, on the afternoon of May 24. At the conference speeches will be made by sociological workers and the city will be called upon to provide more adequate protection for the children who depend upon the small parks for their outing.

Park Commissioner Foreman and Supt. O'Neill of the small parks will be invited to attend the conference. Justice Hurley says there is a great need for parental supervision.

Young Hoodlums Cause Trouble.

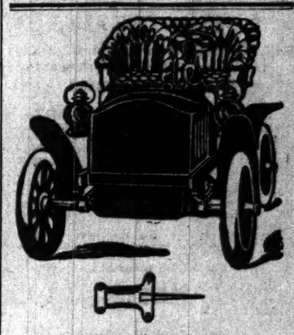

"In many respects," declared Justice Hurley yesterday, "the small parks as they are now conducted are nearly as bad as the dance halls.

"Rules and regulations must be adopted and enforced which will prevent hoodlumism in the parks. At present boys and young men who are unfit to go into the parks meet there, use abusive and offensive language, address young girls in a way that should not be allowed, and altogether behave themselves in a manner which should bring them to a justice court.

"The parks should be run on the same plan as the public schools. Parents should not allow their children to run wild at night like so many animals. While the city is spending millions for the purchase and establishment of the small parks, it would be well to spend a few thousands for their regulation. Conditions in some of the parks are appalling."

Advocates a Registry System.

"Every person who enters a park should be registered and graded. Every safeguard should be placed around the young who go into the parks. No one should be allowed to mingle with the little children there whom the parents would not invite to their homes. None who cannot conduct himself properly should be allowed the use of the parks. As a first step we intend to arouse public interest in the question of proper rules and regulations to govern the parks."

Chicago Wins Third Straight Game from St. Louis Cardinals; Score, 5 to 1.

LUNDGREN STARS ON SLAB

Tinker Benched in Fourth for Kicking, Much to Delight of Hofman's Friends.

St. Louis, Mo., May 2.—[Special.]—The Chicago Nationals made it three straight from St. Louis today, beating the cardinals by the same score as yesterday, 5 to 1, in the final game of the series here. Tonight Chance's men are fussing because it rained on Monday and kept them from making it four straight.

For two innings it was a pitchers' battle today between Lundgren and Egan, with honors even, although Carl had been in some holes and worked himself out of them. In the third the visitors broke the ice with two runs, but were unable to get any more until near the finish. Joe Tinker thought they ought to have had another in the fourth, when he was called out at the plate in an attempted double steal with Kling, but Umpire Klem said not. Before the argument was finished Tinker was on the bench, much to the delight of the friends of Hofman, whose home is here, who had come out hoping to see him get into the game—which he did right there.

The cardinals made their strongest bid in the last half of the fourth, when it looked as if they would tie up the two made by the Spuds, the way they went after Lundgren, but Carl stopped them at one run, and that was their only one. Nearing the finish the visitors took a spurt and drew away with three runs in the last two innings. These were the product of clean hitting, seven safeties being recorded off Egan in those two rounds.

Kling Starts Scoring.

There was nothing doing except pitching for two innings, but Kling started the third with a single and things happened. Lundgren sacrificed "Noisy John" to second, and he came home on Sheckard's single after Slagle had been passed. Slagle scored in a minute on Bennett's fumble of Schulte's roller.

A miscue by McBride on Tinker's grounder opened the fourth and gave Chicago another look in. Evers flied, but Kling hit safely, sending Tinker to third. Right here the Spuds blundered so badly on a double steal that both men were caught. Holmes threw to McBride, who touched Kling out at second, and then returned the ball in time to get Tinker at the plate, although the throw was high. Tinker objected to the decision so strenuously that Klem told him to take a vacation and let "Circus Solly" play.

In St. Louis' half Shannon and Arndt led off with safe hits, and Lundgren made the hole deeper by hitting Smoot, filling the sacks with none out. Beckley rolled an easy one to Steinfeldt, who fumbled it, letting Shannon score and leaving the bases full. Lundgren pulled his belt up two notches tighter and permitted Himes to pop a fly to Sheckard in short left, and McBride to raise a foul for Kling to eat, then fanned Holmes, leaving three Cardinals glued to the bases. Lundgren gave the locals no more such chances as that.

Fast Finish by Spuds.

The score remained 2 to 1 until the eighth, when Chance's men opened another bagful of bats and went after Egan hard and fast. Schulte, Chance, and Steinfeldt rapped out safe drives in the eighth, and the two Franks scored on Harry's hit. In the ninth Kling singled, Lundgren was retired, and Slagle, Sheckard, and Schulte followed with singles, which were more than enough to send Kling home with Chicago's fifth run. Score:

Notes of the Nationals' Game.

On the road tomorrow.

Slagle walked the first three times up and got one hit out of the other two times up.

Kling made four hits, one for each time at bat, and one of them was a clean two bagger.

Shannon made four hits, but he was up one more time than Kling and failed to hit the other time.

Chance saved Tinker an error by stopping a wide throw with his gloved hand in time to get Beckley at first.

Schulte made a pretty play on Arndt's foul in the first inning, getting the ball near the bleachers in right field after a hard run.

In the seventh inning Slagle doubled up Egan in neat style at third. Shannon flied to Jimmy, Egan tried to move up to third from second and was an easy out.

Chance and his men will return here one week from today for another series of three games. The Chicago team left for Pittsburg tonight, but will not play tomorrow, as they do not reach there until late in the afternoon.

GIANTS WIN IN EXTRA INNING.

Are Outbatted by Boston, but Profit by Maroney's Lack of Control—Score Is Four to Three.

Boston, Mass., May 2.—Maroney's lack of control was responsible for the defeat sustained by Boston today, New York winning 4 to 3 in ten innings. All of New York's runs came as a result of bases on balls or men being hit by wild pitches. McGraw, Bresnahan, and McGann, who were put out of the game yesterday, are under suspension for three days. Tom Loftus Badly Hurt.

Word reached Chicago yesterday that Tom Loftus was seriously injured in a runaway at Dubuque the day before. The former baseball magnate was driving a spirited horse, recently purchased, when he lost control of the animal. The carriage was overturned and Loftus was dragged some distance before freeing himself. His collar bone was broken and his body a mass of bruises, but serious complications are not anticipated.

Burkett Gets His Release.

KING CROWNS THE ATHLETES.

Final Ceremonies in Olympic Games Attract Big Crowd—Americans to Start Home on Sunday.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

ATHENS, May 2.—The Olympic games for 1906 were brought to their official close today, when the king of Greece crowned the athletes who won prizes at the Stadium. There was a big assemblage to watch the ceremonies and all the athletes were received with applause. The men from the United States received a demonstration, but the greatest reception of all was for the winner of the Marathon race, William S. Herring, the Canadian.

The athletes expressed themselves as highly delighted with the games. They will spend a short time here sightseeing and some may leave for a trip through the continent before returning home.

A majority of the men in the contingent which is bound for the United States will start for home next Sunday, May 6.

Marshall beat C. E. Tatham, 6—1, 6—2, 6—2, in the semi-final round and Gould meets Major Cooper Key, who defeated De Luze, the French amateur champion.

Tennis Court at Northwestern.

Tennis is to be taken up energetically by some of the students of Northwestern university, and last night a resolution was passed by those interested asking that a suitable tennis court be constructed.

Newmarket Stakes to Gorgos.

LONDON, May 2.—At Newmarket today the Two Thousand Guineas stakes, at one mile, was won by Gorgos, a rank outsider. Dame Agneto, a colt by Diamond Jubilee, was second, and Ramrod was third. Twelve horses started. Gorgos won a splendid race by a neck. A head separated second and third horses. Beppo, ridden by Maher, the American jockey, led most of the way, but finished fourth. The favorite, Gingalo, was never dangerous.

Pugilistic Pointers.

S. R. C.—Con Riordan died after boxing with Fitzsimmons at Syracuse, N. Y., Nov. 19, 1894.

Mike Schreck and Marvin Hart are reported in fine condition for their four round tilt, to take place at Madison Square garden tonight.

Grover Hayes, who defeated some of the best little fellows in the east, and George Williams, a husky south side boy, will clash for ten rounds at Peoria tonight.

Tommy Burns, who is matched to fight Bob Fitzsimmons before the Tuxedo club of Essington, Pa., on May 30, is expected in town from Los Angeles tomorrow.

Fred Cooley, who went to the coast to fight Al Kaufmann, writes there is a possibility of the match coming off at Oakland at an athletic entertainment for the benefit of the Frisco sufferers.

WHITE SOX LOSE IN FIRST INNING.

Detroit Makes Three Runs at the Start on Errors by the Infielders.

COUNT AT FINISH IS 5 TO 2.

Game Played in Spite of Shower and Bad Weather; Small Sum for Relief Fund.

Detroit, Mich., May 2.—[Special.]—In a game full of all kinds of baseball—good, bad, and indifferent—the White Stockings were defeated here today by the Tigers by the score of 5 to 2.

Both sides were guilty of ragged fielding, but the mistakes of the visitors were by far the more costly. Errors cut an important figure in the three runs the Tigers made in the first inning, giving them the game right there, although Armour's men backed up the wild throws of Comiskey's infield with good stick work.

Detroit's miscues, although as numerous as those of its guests, cost nothing at all, except in the fielding averages. Both of Chicago's runs were deserved by the bunching of base hits in the sixth and seventh innings.

Chicago had plenty of chances to win the game with the batting it did and the wildness of Donovan, who was laboring under the handicap of a sore shoulder, but "Wild Bill" always tightened up at critical moments. With good support Owen ought to have won, as his pitching fully deserved victory.

Rain in Third Inning.

This game was for the benefit of the San Francisco sufferers, one-half of the gross receipts being donated by the contending clubs to that fund. Bad weather kept the attendance down to 1,800. Rain was threatening all the time and during the third inning a heavy shower fell, but Umpire Connolly kept the men at their knitting.

Chicago had a good chance to score in the first inning if Rohe could have bumped out a safe hit, as there were two men on bases, but he fouled out.

Detroit got the jump on the Sox with three tallies in its half. Cobb was disposed of. But Lindsay rapped to Dundon, who made a wretched throw to first. McIntyre hit a nasty bounder, which caromed off Donohue's knee, and Lindsay raced to third. Crawford's drive to right sent Lindsay over and McIntyre galloping to third. Schaefer followed with a single to right, scoring McIntyre. Coughlin beat out a slow roller to Dundon and the pillows were all occupied. O'Leary tapped to Owen, forcing Crawford at the plate, but, in an effort to double up O'Leary at first, Sullivan hit the runner in the back and Schaefer raced home. Schmidt's long fly went to Jones.

Double Steal Is Costly.

Detroit did not do much in the succeeding four sessions, but in the sixth added two runs for good measure. Crawford was gone when Schaefer singled and Coughlin beat out an infield hit. This pair then pulled off a double steal. Chicago's infield came in and O'Leary slammed a grounder to the right of Isbell, which the big fellow barely was able to knock down and retire the batter, letting Schaefer count. Schmidt walked and Coughlin scored when Isbell made a bad throw of Donovan's roller.

Chicago did all its scoring in the sixth and seventh. Donohue cracked the sixth open with a corking double. Rohe's flied, but Hemphill's single put "Jiggs" on third, from where he registered when Dundon forced Hemphill.

O'Neill's fleetness gave him a triple when he led off in the seventh, and Isbell was there with a long fly to center, which brought in Chicago's final tally. After that the Tigers held their opponents in safety. Score:

Notes of the White Sox Game.

Owen got mixed up on the number of balls Donovan gave O'Neill in the eighth and walked off the bag, getting nipped.

Owen was the only Chicago player to draw a pass from Donovan. He walked three out of four times up. The other time he fanned.

The White Sox play here again tomorrow and leave tomorrow night for Cleveland, where they are to play on Friday and Saturday.

Cobb robbed O'Neill of a hit in the fifth on a line drive to center which Cobb first misjudged, then stabbed with one hand, jumping high in the air to pull it down.

Rohe made two stabs at Schaefer when he and Coughlin worked their double steal in the sixth. Had he been satisfied with the one stab Connolly probably would have called "Middles" out, for he slid over the bag.

Tannehill was in uniform and practiced before the game, but his ankle still is too sore to permit him to get into the game except in case of emergency. Hemphill played in left in place of Vinson, whose fielding has fallen off.

A clever piece of headwork by Hemphill saved another run against Chicago. When Schmidt tripled in the fourth Hemphill backed up Rohe at third. Jones' throw got away from Rohe and would have let Schmidt score, but Hemphill was there.

CLEVELAND DEFEATS ST. LOUIS.

Bunched Hits in the First and Sixth Innings Give Lajoie's Men a Victory by Two Runs to One.

Cleveland, O., May 2.—Cleveland bunched its hits in the first and sixth and scored twice as many runs as St. Louis, although outbatted. Niles' one hand catch of Bay's fly off the right field fence was the feature. The game was interrupted by showers. Score:

CUP RACE IS RULED OUT.

CONTEST FOR POWERS TROPHY DECLARED IRREGULAR.

Board of Appeals of the American Trotting Association Orders Pr. Won Last October Returned to the Garfield Park Driving Association—Action Settles Long Standing Controversy—Owners, Drivers, and Horses Are Expelled.

The board of appeals of the American Trotting association yesterday threw out the race of last October for the Powers cup at the Garfield park track and ordered the trophy returned to the Garfield Park Driving association. The board held that "the race was irregular and not conducted under the rules," and declared it "no race."

The case came up on an appeal by George K. Cornell, owner of Dacy, against William Reibolt, owner of the bay gelding Tatters to which the race had been awarded. Cornell claimed that there had been an irregularity in Tatters' entry for the race and also charged that one heat had been awarded to Tatters wrongly. The decision deprives Reibolt of possession of the cup and closes a wrangle that has existed from the time of the race.

McMahon's Appeal Upheld.

The board also upheld Driver Dick McMahon's appeal against the decision of the judges at Galesburg in the 2:09 pace Sept. 1 last. It was held that the judges erred in distancing Shylock and Personette, and the money was ordered divided in accordance with the summary at the end of the fifth heat, as follows: First money to Major McKinley, second to William R., third to Shylock, fourth to Personette.

The board suspended the officers of the Jackson (Mich.) association, the Washtenaw County Fair association at Ann Arbor, and the Fort Scott (Kas.) association.

List of Expulsions.

The following persons and horses were expelled: N. E. Whitney of Burnside, Ill., and R. R. Whitney of Knox, Ind.; George E. Whitney of Des Moines, Ia.; M. N. Reaves of Macon, Ga., and bay mare Evadne, alias Sarah T.; T. J. Parker of Urichsville, O., and the bay gelding Pay C., alias Prince C.; J. B. Brothers of Des Moines, Ia.; H. N. Reaves of Washington, D. C., and bay gelding L. J. K., alias Jay Lark; J. F. Hennessey of Saginaw, Mich.; Thomas and W. M. McLean of Lucknow, Ont., and bay mare Marjorie Wilkes, alias Sweetheart; A. E. Lundberg of Harper, Kan.

The following were reinstated: J. F. Cole of Breese, Ill., and chestnut mare Miss Bentley; Frank W. Foell of Storm Lake, Ia., and chestnut mare Eva Tarnes.

ACTION BY THE EASTERN BOARD.

Gatcomb's Case Against Cleveland Referred to A. T. A.—Several Horsemen Are Expelled.

New York, May 2.—The board of review of the National Trotting association today decided to refer to the American Trotting association the complaint of J. Y. Gatcomb, who has applied for damages from the Cleveland Driving Park company to cover the expenses of shipping his horses to Cleveland for a meeting which was called off an hour before the first race was to start last August.

The following men were temporarily reinstated: Frank Shank, Litchfield, O.; G. D. Rinker, Indianapolis, Ind.; P. J. Brennan, Braddock, Pa.; and George B. M. Welliver, Lockhaven, Pa.

In the case against the Binghamton Racing association and C. F. Proctor, its secretary, it was ordered that both the association and Proctor be expelled. The offense alleged was in Proctor's associating himself with an expelled member.

The following expulsions were ordered: Joseph Hennessy, Saginaw, Mich., and T. M. McClean, Toledo, O.; W. Ervin, Chicago, and George Whitney, Des Moines, Ia.; D. B. Hodge, Sterling, Ill., and Fred Steimer, Clinton, Ia.; Harry C. Meister.

TWO SEWELLS WIN STAKE RACE.

Horse and Jockey of Same Name Score in the Greenfield—Two Added Starters in Money.

New York, May 2.—[Special.]—There were four added starters in the Greenfield stakes for 2 year olds at Jamaica today and two of them finished in the money.

C. E. Rowe's Sewell, ridden by the jockey of that name, was one of these added starters and won in a smashing drive by a neck from August Belmont's Curriculum, the favorite, with Radtke up. Incidentally Sewell was backed down from 4 to 1 and the ring received a good trimming. Third money went to Fred Burlew's Royal Breeze.

Curriculum showed the way, with Campaigner, Royal Breeze, and Monfort pressing him closely to the head of the stretch. Then Curriculum and Sewell shot ahead, and in so doing pinched off Royal Breeze, which was pulled up short by O'Neill to escape a fall. It was a whipping finish and Jockey Sewell had a shade over Radtke, with Royal Breeze six lengths back. The race was run in 1:01.

The wise men apparently overlooked Phil Finch, top weight in the handicap, at a mile and a sixteenth, as he went up in the betting, while Batts, Ostrich, and Chimney Sweep all were supported by the smart players. Batts made the bulk of the running, but when Perrine cut Phil Finch loose at the head of the stretch it was easy for the New Orleans star to win by a length from Chimney Sweep, with Radtke up, in 1:49⅘.

He said: "We expect to open Douglas park June 2 for a meeting of twenty days. All improvements will be complete by that time. KENTUCKY DERBY WON BY SIR HUON

Favorite Has Easy Victory in Thirty-second Renewal at Louisville.

ELLISON ENTRY FOLLOWS.

Lady Navarre Runs Second and James Reddick Third; Six Horses in Field.

Louisville, Ky., May 2.—Striding along with machine like precision which seemed more the movement of a steam engine than a horse, Sir Huon, a Falsetto colt out of Ignite, starting for the first time as a 3 year old, won the thirty-second Kentucky Derby today.

Always the favorite in the betting, Sir Huon, owned by George J. Long of Louisville, won with apparent ease, while the Ellison entry, Lady Navarre and James Reddick, finished second and third. Hyperion II., Debar, and Velours were the other starters.

It was the opening day of the spring meeting of the new Louisville Jockey club, and between 25,000 and 30,000 people packed the inclosure. The time of the big race, 2:08⅘, was considered good for the track, which was a trifle slow after heavy showers during the night.

The betting on the Derby was the heaviest ever known, all the starters except Velours finding good support. As good as 6 to 5 could be had on Sir Huon at the opening, but he was backed to 4 to 5 and remained at that figure. The Ellison entry carried a lot of money at odds ranging from 8 to 5 to 2 to 1. Debar was quoted at 4 to 1, Hyperion II., 10 to 1, and Velours, 30 to 1.

Hyperion II. Sets Pace.

The field was sent away almost immediately to a fair start, with James Reddick in the lead, but he drew back behind Lady Navarre, which ranged alongside Sir Huon. Passing the grand stand Hyperion II. was out in front and going as if he had seen a ghost. Sir Huon was slipping along easily two and a half lengths behind the leader, with Lady Navarre and James Reddick hanging to his flanks.

These positions were maintained until half a mile of the journey had been accomplished. Between the half mile pole and the head of the stretch Sir Huon, half a length in front, was challenged successively by Lady Navarre and James Reddick, but the favorite, beautifully rated, strode serenely along in his chosen position, and they could not pass him.

Sir Huon Never Extended.

Straightening out for the run home, James Reddick popped his nose up alongside for a second, then made place for Lady Navarre. At the same instant Troxler opened the throttle on the favorite and moved away easily, Lady Navarre's white starred face bobbing at his flank. The favorite continued to draw slowly away and, with the Ellison entry at his heels during the final sixteenth, passed under the wire a winner by a length and a half and apparently holding something in reserve. James Reddick was two lengths behind his stable mate.

Lady Navarre ran a game, true race, and if she did not show quite her usual finishing speed it was due to Hyperion's early pacemaking. Hyperion with a better judged ride probably would have given the leaders considerable trouble. The Derby had a guaranteed value of $5,000 to the winner.

Three favorites, a second choice, and an outsider won the other events.

TOM M'GRATH TAKES THE STAKE.

Wins the Feature at Montgomery Park—Broomhandle Makes a Poor Showing.

Memphis, Tenn., May 2.—[Special.]—Today's races were run between showers and over a sloppy track. The Tennessee Brewing stakes at seven furlongs was won by the 3 year old Tom McGrath, which was let in at 91 pounds. Charley Ellison's Lady Ellison, 20 to 1, was second, and the Texas pony, Macy Jr., 25 to 1, was third, beaten only a head for place.

The Montgomery handicap winner, Broomhandle, opened equal favorite with Tom McGrath. The latter, however, got the wise play. Broomhandle had little to do with the running and finished unplaced.

SEEKS CONTEST WITH CORNELL

Michigan Faculty Athletic Board Releases Chicago from Contract and Asks for Eastern Game.

Ann Arbor, Mich., May 2.—[Special.]—Michigan's faculty board of athletic control this afternoon voted to release Chicago from its contract to play football with Michigan on Ferry field next Nov. 17. It also authorized Director Baird to open negotiations with Cornell for a football game on that date. Thus Michigan turns east for its biggest contest of the season in the king of all sports. Illinois is the only big western eleven likely to be played by Michigan. It is thought here that Michigan's chances of securing a game with Cornell are good. The board of control turned down Chicago's proposition to transfer the conference track meet from Shepard field, Northwestern, to Marshall field.

Judge Beer By Its True Worth

Progressive Men and Women Consider It a Means to National Temperance.

We have recently published a number of articles on the food value of beer, the importance of the brewing industries as a factor in our national wealth, our national revenues, and the use of beer itself as a means to temperance and sobriety.

We believe that sooner or later beer will be recognized at its true worth, as a food beverage of splendid tonic effect and high nourishing value. Noted men and women of this country are already alive to the situation, and besides Miss Phoebe Cousins and Dr. Joseph Feisler of Northwestern University, many others of note give their endorsement to beer as a means to national temperance.

Miss Cousins, for a quarter of a century the most eminent woman suffrage advocate in the West, said in a recent interview: "There never will be a law that will compel prohibition, and the sensible thing for the Women's Christian Temperance Union to do is to aid in the substitution of mild, nourishing drinks like beer, which seldom produce drunkenness. A prominent army officer who served in the Southwest, operated canteens at three different posts. He made the canteens so acceptable to the soldiers, who found beer satisfying their demands, that he actually ran all the low dives of the surrounding neighborhood out of business."

Pabst Beer meets all the demands for a mild, healthful, refreshing beverage such as Miss Cousins suggests. It is made of the exclusive Pabst eight-day malt, choicest hops and pure water. Eight-day malt, which is the only perfect malt, gives Pabst Beer its superior food value and richness. Strong in nourishment the body requires, it is refreshing and satisfying.

Perfect in age, purity and strength, absolutely clean and containing only three and one-half per cent of alcohol, Pabst Beer is the ideal temperance beverage. No other is so healthful.

TERRIBLE ITCHING SCALP HUMOR

Badly Affected With Sores and Crusts—Extended Down Behind the Ears—Some Years Later Painful and Itching Pustules Broke Out on Lower Part of Body—Son Also Affected.

A TRIPLE CURE BY CUTICURA REMEDIES

"About ten years ago my scalp became badly affected with sore and itching humors, crusts, etc., and extending down behind the ears. My hair came out in places also. I was greatly troubled; understood it was eczema. Tried various remedies, so called, without effect. Saw your Cuticura advertisement, and got them at once. Applied them as to directions, etc., and after two weeks, I think, of use, was clear as a whistle.

"I have to state also that late last fall, October and November, 1904, I was suddenly afflicted with a bad eruption, painful and itching pustules over the lower part of the body. I suffered dreadfully. In two months, under the skilful treatment of my doctor, conjoined with Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment, I found myself cured.

"Six years ago my son was laid up with a severe cold, a hard cough, and finally painful eruption all over the body. I procured the Cuticura Remedies as soon as possible, and after his faithful use of same was as well as ever in two weeks, as well as I can recall. He has never had a return of the illness, as far as I know.

"I have always been pleased to commend the Cuticura Remedies, and testify as to their efficacy. I am a veteran of the late Civil War, '61-'65, between seventy and eighty years of age. Yours truly, H. M. F. Weiss, Rosemond, Christian Co., Ill., Aug. 31, 1905."

AIMS TO COMBINE ELECTRIC PLANTS

Commonwealth Company Offers Amended Ordinance to Council Committee.

ASKS BROADER POWERS.

Aldermen Listen to Argument and Adjourn Till Next Wednesday.

At the first meeting of the new council committee on gas, oil, and electric light yesterday afternoon the aldermen were asked to sanction the consolidation of the Commonwealth Electric company with any other electric company or companies in Cook county.

The committee took up the electric rates ordinance where the old committee left off, and General Counsel William G. Beale for the company submitted a redrafted measure including several amendments suggested at the City club's meeting and several new demands which the corporation makes of the city. The old council having failed to pass the ordinance, the company has now enlarged its demands.

Statement by Mr. Beale.

"I have taken the liberty of broadening the section relating to the consolidation of the Edison and Commonwealth companies," said Mr. Beale. "The ordinance as reported to the old council by the old committee provided for the consolidation of those two companies only. But the officers of the companies have changed their minds in the meantime. I shall be perfectly frank about it, as there is nothing to conceal. It has occurred to the men I represent that some time they may wish to consolidate the North Shore Electric company with the Commonwealth company. The North Shore company operates in Evanston and other north shore suburbs, and in Oak Park. Many of those interested in the Edison and Commonwealth companies are interested in the North Shore company.

May Wish to Buy Current.

"It may happen that the Commonwealth company will wish to buy electricity from the North Shore company for distribution in Rogers Park and Austin instead of establishing stations in those quarters of the city. Or in the future Evanston and Oak Park may consolidate with Chicago, in which case it might be advisable to consolidate the companies. The gas people, I believe, got into some trouble with the city by purchasing gas from the Evanston company, and, therefore, although I think we have the right anyway, we thought it better to have some understanding put in the ordinances. If we want to buy current, why should the city object so long as we pay compensation on the sales?"

The amendment submitted by the company provides for the "consolidation of the property, business, and franchises of said Commonwealth Electric company with the property, business, and franchises of any other company or companies now or hereafter producing or supplying electricity for lighting, heating, or power purposes within Cook county. The consolidated company shall pay the same compensation now paid by the Commonwealth company and current may be purchased outside and sold inside the city."

Larger Discount for Prompt Pay.

Mr. Beale also submitted an amendment providing for the extension of the 1 cent kilowat hour discount for prompt payment of bills to the secondary rates. The application to the primary rates only made a trivial discount, he said, which would not induce prompt settlement. The City club amendment was also read. It provides, as in the gas ordinance, that after the expiration of five years nothing shall prevent the city from making new rates for another period. Mr. Beale wants the reservation included that the company does not necessarily concede the power of the city to regulate rates, the law being considered unconstitutional by many lawyers.

Chairman Young suggested the incorporation of a provision that the company should not discriminate between consumers taking current under identical conditions.

"I'm willing to agree to that," replied Mr. Beale.

The various amendments will be considered further at a meeting of the committee next Wednesday.

REAL ESTATE BOARD TO OPEN PUBLIC AUCTION MARKET.

Chicago Land Will Be Sold Under the Hammer by the Plans of the Organization.

An important step was taken by the real estate board yesterday at its monthly meeting in deciding to inaugurate the public auction sale of real estate under the auspices of the board. Details of the plan were carefully worked out by the call board committee, but the final action by the board has been postponed for some time, with the purpose of carefully considering the matter. It is urged in its behalf that it has been a pronounced success in New York and it is thought it will afford a market for certain classes of real estate which have been exceedingly difficult to move.

No definite time has been set for putting it into operation, this having been left to the call board committee.

A committee is to be appointed to attend the dinner of the Commercial association, to be held May 17, when the question of a deep waterway from Chicago to the gulf is to be discussed. The speakers are to be E. C. Ellis of Missouri and Joseph Ramsdell of Louisiana.

The board also accepted an invitation from the Commercial association to attend an informal dinner to be given to representatives of the real estate business.

E. A. Cummings, chairman of the committee which raised funds for the San Francisco sufferers, reported the total contribution from members and real estate men outside of the board was $5,505.

It was voted to close the office of members of the board at 1 o'clock on Saturday during June, July, August, and September.

DELAY IN TRACTION FIGHT

COURT UNABLE TO HEAR SUIT TO VOID LEASES, SET FOR TODAY.

Govin and Lawyers from New York Who Control Union Property Reach City and Will Try to Persuade Underlying Interests to Postpone Litigation Until There Is Something to Fight Over—Council Committee to Meet This Afternoon.

Interests controlling the Union Traction company arrived here from New York yesterday prepared to fight the application of the underlying companies for a voiding of the leases, the case being set for today, only to find Judge Grosscup was sick and would be unable to hear it. So the matter has gone over a week.

The New Yorkers can enjoy a vacation for that time, and, incidentally, spend it in an endeavor to persuade the representatives of the underlying companies to postpone their suit.

Those who came were R. R. Govin, representing the controlling interest in Union Traction stock; Julien T. Davies, his attorney; and Harry F. Taft, a brother of the secretary of war, attorney for independent owners of Union Traction preferred stock. Mr. Govin and Mr. Taft practically speak for the entire property.

Nothing Now to Fight Over.

"It looks to me and to all of us foolish for the representatives of the West and North Chicago companies to press their claims, whatever they may be, at this time," said Mr. Govin last night. "Just now there is nothing worth fighting over.

"It would seem to be the wiser way for all of us to get together and try to give some value to the property.

"The entire thing looks suicidal, but I understand the other side intends to prosecute its suits, and if they do, whichever side wins will not have anything to show as the result of victory."

Asked as to the reports that he had come here with a view of making a settlement with the city, Mr. Govin said: "We came here simply to try to fix up this trouble between the Union Traction and the North and West Side companies."

Must Have a Definite Grant.

On the question of a settlement with the city Mr. Govin said he was not in a position to talk intelligently, as the matter was not in shape to be intelligently considered.

"On general principles," said he, "it would be a difficult matter to finance any street car proposition unless there was a grant for a definite period. You can't sell call bonds."

The council committee on local transportation is to meet this afternoon. The business before it is the consideration of the recent letter of the mayor to Chairman Werno setting forth "Dr." Fisher's latest ideas as to how the traction question ought to be settled. It had been supposed the representatives of the companies would be invited to answer the propositions in the letter, but Chairman Werno said yesterday he thought it would be better for the committee to talk over the letter first and invite the street car men in afterwards.

YOU can buy Health Insurance now.

Several good "Accident" Companies sell it.

Sixty dollars per year will bring you $25.00 per week, for every week you are Sick.

But, your time alone may be worth far more than that.

And $200 per week might not pay for your suffering.

That's why "Cascaret" Insurance which prevents Sickness, is worth ten times as much money as other "Health" Insurance.

Yet "Cascaret Insurance" will cost you less than Ten Cents a week.

That gives you a "Vest Pocket" Pox to carry constantly.

"Indigestion" means food eaten but only partially digested.

"Constipation" means food retained in the body undigested too long, till it decays.

It then supplies the poisons of decay to the system, in place of the nourishment it might have supplied.

Isn't that a tremendous handicap worth insuring against?

What does it cost to Cure Constipation or Indigestion, with their train of small and great ills, and to Insure against a return of them?

Not so very much.

One 10 cent box of Cascarets per week, at most, perhaps half that.

One candy tablet night and morning, taken regularly for a short time, is warranted to cure the worst case of Constipation or Indigestion that walks the earth.

* * *

One tablet taken whenever you suspect you need it will insure you against 90 per cent of all other ills likely to attack you.

Because 90 per cent of these ills begin in the Bowels, or exist through poor Nutrition.

Cascarets don't purge, don't weaken, don't irritate, nor upset your stomach.

No,—they act into Exercise on the Bowels, instead.

They stimulate the Bowel-Muscles to contract and propel the Food naturally past the little valves that mix Digestive Juices with Food.

They strengthen these Bowel-Muscles by exercising them.

* * *

The time to take a Cascaret is the very minute you suspect you need one.

—When your tongue is coated a little.

—When your breath is not above suspicion.

—When your head feels dull, dizzy, or achy.

—When you have eaten too heartily, or too rapidly.

—When you have drunk more than was good for your digestion.

—When you have a touch of Heartburn, Gas-belching, Acid-rising-in-throat, or a Coming-on-Cold.

GRAFT AT PALO ALTO.

It is fortunate that Mrs. Stanford was not alive to see the buildings intended as a memorial to her son crumble away as a result of dishonest contractors. It has been proven since the earthquake that what was supposed to be solid masonry was a shell filled with rubble. Half the money spent for the erection of buildings meant to last forever was stolen. The model chosen for the buildings of the Leland Stanford Jr. university was the mission type, which has withstood earthquakes for centuries. The missionaries saw that their churches and monasteries were honestly constructed. No adequate supervision was exercised at Palo Alto, and the first severe shock made the buildings crumble. It has been stated that even without an earthquake the disintegration of the mortar would have soon brought the buildings down.

Stealing from the public is odious. It is possible that dishonest officials salve their consciences with the thought that the loss is not felt by any one person, but is so diffused over the community that what is a great gain for one is made up of unnoticed trifles taken from all. But in the Palo Alto case the loss is irreparable. There was not merely theft but wanton destruction. There is no fund from which the damage can be repaired. There is no person living to whom these memorial buildings are the first care. The loss is not merely the three millions that were stolen but the three that were wasted in unstable buildings. A builder's greed has injured this and future generations.

If there is any moral it is that public buildings of all kinds have to be protected from the dishonesty of builders and the inefficiency of trustees. A man may be an excellent person to plan a course of study and be totally incompetent to judge of masonry. A common council or a county board filled with all the other civic virtues may not be able to detect fraud in work of construction. It has been proved recently in Chicago that men may be officials of a church and yet guilty of criminal neglect of ordinary precautions in building a church. Men who would not knowingly injure a fellow man cheerfully take upon themselves the responsibility of violating the building ordinances. If they have also a smooth, dishonest contractor to deal with it is only through the mysterious intervention of Providence that more disasters do not occur. There is hardly any office in the community which calls for greater zeal than that of building commissioner. And in communities where there is no such official, or a careless one, it is the highest duty of trustees of public funds of all kinds to see that full value is given in building structures for public use.

NOMINATE ALDERMEN BY PETITION.

Senate bill No. 5 is now pending in the house at Springfield. It provides for party primary nominations for city officers. Its most important feature, however, consists of the amendment, adopted in the senate on motion of Senator Parker, exempting aldermanic nominations from the operation of party primaries. That amendment provides that "there shall be no party nominations for the office of aldermen; . . . that all nominations for aldermen shall be by petition, as provided for by the laws of Illinois."

This amendment embodies a principle which ought to be incorporated into any primary law for local offices. It is clearly recognized by persons interested in improving the quality of elected municipal officials that the party method of making nominations constitutes one great hindrance in the way of such improvement. It tends to confine nominations to men who can secure the O. K. of the party "leaders." Men who cannot secure that label know it would be useless to try for a party nomination, and they know that to run as an independent against party nominees is to suffer a serious handicap. The number of independent candidates is thus few, and the number elected much fewer.

The road to municipal office should be made broader and smoother instead of narrower and more difficult. Able men will rarely decline opportunities for private occupation in order to make a race, prejudiced at the start, for public office. The system of party nominations hedges about the pathway to the city council and prejudices the city in its competition for able aldermen.

The same objection may also be urged against the final clause of the amendment—the clause prescribing that the nominations by petition shall be made "as prescribed by the laws of Illinois." According to these laws the candidate must file a petition signed by 5 per cent of the electorate. Such a petition has little or no significance when secured, and the necessity of securing it imposes a burden which would discourage more good men than bad men from becoming candidates. A provision for the nomination of aldermen solely by petition, and preferably by one with only a nominal list of signers, would be a marked improvement over the plan of party nominations, and should be included in any law on the subject of nominations for city offices.

AN IMPUDENT PROPOSAL.

The request of certain property owners in San Francisco for the use of the national credit in rebuilding to the extent of $200,000,000 is indefensible and impudent. The populist farmers of the south and west appealed to the government for loans in the day of their distress and met a prompt refusal. No one dreamed that the solid men of San Francisco would copy after them.

It is not intended that the money, if obtained, shall be used for the relief of physical suffering—to feed the hungry, to clothe the naked, or to shelter the homeless. It is a request that money be advanced to owners of city real estate to enable them to rebuild. Every man who has real estate security for a loan must be considered, from the point of view of the average citizen, a capitalist. The man who has such security and wishes to improve his property can obtain money on some terms. The terms may seem to him unreasonable. He may consider the rate of interest too high. He may desire greatly to borrow from the government at a rate much below the market rate. In that respect the owner of San Francisco real estate is no different from other men who wish to borrow money and have security to offer.

There is no man borrowing money at the current rate of 5 per cent from a bank who would not like to borrow from the government at 2 or 3 per cent if possible. There is no man engaged in building in New York, Boston, or Chicago who would not be pleased to get cheap money from the government with which to carry on his enterprises.

In what respect do the San Francisco capitalists who wish to get money at about half the current rate differ from the ordinary man who has security to offer? Every man who has collateral for a loan must be considered in a certain sense a capitalist. The need of the San Francisco capitalist may be greater, but the need of any owner of real estate in that city is not one that appeals to the public imagination. Even if the land is incumbered and there is no equity left in it, the situation of the owner is not desperate. His need may be greater than it was before the earthquake and the fire, but relatively to the necessities of millions of his fellow citizens in all parts of the country it is not great.

The proposal that the national government shall lend money on real estate security in San Francisco will eventually produce two results. In the first place, it will cause a reaction in public sentiment against the people who make the demand and excite a feeling that some of them are attempting to impose upon the charitable impulses of the people.

In the second place, if the request were to be granted it would establish a precedent that would tend to throw the doors of the treasury wide open to all kinds of borrowers on all kinds of terms. It certainly would revive the demand set out in the Ocala platform of the populists that the government should make loans on farm lands and farm products. The farmers would ask why the government should not make loans to them if it did to owners of city lots in San Francisco. If the movement were successful the credit of the government would be so strained as to be affected seriously. No encouragement should be given to the idea that the government should be the generous mortgage banker for its citizens. It should not loan on farms or on city lots.

Manifestly the real estate speculators in San Francisco have permitted their desires to run away with their judgment. They should stop to reflect upon the inevitable consequences of pressing their demands. Congress should not listen to an appeal of this nature, no matter how importunate it may become. There is no precedent for it. There is no good reason for it. Nothing of the kind was even hinted at in the case of Chicago or of any other city suffering from a great calamity. There is no likelihood that it will be listened to patiently now, no matter how earnestly it may be pressed.

FRANCE IS SAFE.

The authorities of Paris are worthy of praise for the way in which they handled a difficult situation during the last few days. It had become evident that political agitators had resolved to seize upon the demonstration of workingmen in favor of an eight hour day to create disorder. If the government had not proved able to control the situation it might have meant the doom of the republic. The men now in power in France have shown themselves at different times sincere friends of the laboring classes, never more so than when they prevented them from being used as means to a revolution which would have harmed the workingmen more than any other class of citizens.

Among the movements ready to profit by any weakness on the part of the authorities was the monarchist agitation, whether tending toward the establishment of a kingdom or an empire. There was a time when the empire meant peace, but now, after thirty-five years of republican government, the republic is the established order. The empire would mean general confusion. It would mean the attachment of France more closely than ever to the fortunes of the autocracy in Russia. It would mean war, for only a blaze of military glory is lacking to the satisfaction of Frenchmen, and Gen. Bonaparte would soon be forced to attempt to remedy that lack. The kingdom would mean plunder far exceeding any financial scandals which may have smirched the record of the republic. It would mean undoing all that has been done in the direction of separating church and state and making all men equal before the law.

The greatest peril to the republic threatened from the men to whom the republic is too conservative. There are the communists who would like to found a government in which the artisans of the city would dominate the vast region which is not Paris but is France. The interests of the cultivators and the inhabitants of the small towns would be sacrificed to the loud voiced leaders of the communist agitation. Then there are the anarchists, who wish to destroy all government, and the rowdies, who hope to profit by any kind of disorder. All these classes have reason to be disappointed by the firmness which the government displayed.

There was much harshness displayed by the police and soldiery. Acts which under other circumstances would have been legitimate had to be prevented. It was hard for the trade unions to realize that their innocent demonstrations were made dangerous to the state by the readiness of the mob element to take advantage of them. It is to be hoped that the men who were kept by force from doing what they believed they had a right to do will realize that the government took the only course to preserve the workingmen from the bloodshed and loss which would have accompanied a revolution. The resumption of work by great numbers of them indicates that they do realize it. The republic is the workingman's friend. He could not have forgiven himself if his protest against existing conditions had been made the pretext for making those conditions tenfold worse. It has been proved that the republic is strong enough to meet all emergencies.

THE POWERS OF THE COUNCIL.

There is one point which the charter convention should make clear in its draft of a new charter. That is the authority possessed by the council over the heads of city departments, and the manner in which it shall be exercised.

The council has twice ordered the commissioner of public works to grant a permit to the Union Traction company to put up trolley poles and wires on parts of Blue Island avenue. No attention was paid to the first order given some weeks ago. The second order, entered up this week, has been referred by the mayor to the invaluable Mr. Fisher for an opinion as to the expediency of compliance. There are reasons why the partial trolleyizing of Blue Island avenue should not be delayed. The viaduct which the cable cars go over is rickety and perhaps unsafe. Even if in good condition it should be removed because it obstructs and delays the elevation of the Burlington tracks. These reasons may not appeal to Mr. Fisher and he may tell the commissioner of public works to refuse to obey the order. If so, the council will be unable to punish him for his disobedience.

There are some council orders which clearly are illegal and should not be obeyed. Orders directing a suspension of general ordinances, such as the building ordinance, for the benefit of an individual come under that head. The Blue Island avenue order does not, but it is not certain whether the mayor has the right to veto it or whether it is only a suggestion to a head of a department which he can obey or disobey, as he chooses.

There should be no doubt about a matter of this kind. If it is necessary to pass an ordinance instead of an order it should be known. The charter convention should not overlook the subject. There should be no uncertainty as to the extent of the authority of the council over the heads of departments. At present it does not seem to possess so much as it ought to. A unanimous council says a certain proper and desirable thing should be done, and a subordinate says he will not do it. Where does the authority rest in the last analysis? With the "special counsel" or with the city council?

Even in the north there is a feeling that "Marching Through Georgia" has been slightly overworked.

Also it appears upon investigation that the people along the line of march have not called for an encore.

There is not the slightest doubt that Gov. Hoch of Kansas is in for an exceedingly lively and picturesque campaign.

With the recollection of the teamsters' strike fresh in their minds, the people will insist that the structural ironworkers confine their striking operations as far as possible to the building line and permit the streets to be used for necessary traffic.

Besides, Gov. Hoch asserts in the most positive manner that the kissing incident has been greatly exaggerated, and the lady herself concedes that she strongly objected.

The movement for a "2 cent world postage" has failed. The world must have suspected it was a Yankee trick of some kind.

At this stage of affairs it would be eminently fitting for Poet Laureate Howard S. Taylor to evolve an epic describing the Hon. Carter H. Harrison as another patient, brave, far seeing man who knew how to "bide his time."

The trouble with the old city hall building seems to be that it misses the moral support of the old county building.

The field, meanwhile, is open for any other ambitious woman desirous of building up a large business in the strictly fresh egg line.

This year, likewise, the National Baseball league is seen to consist of the New York Giants and a few clubs that also play.

History will record the circumstance that the Hon. Edward F. Dunne of Chicago was an excellent judge of the Circuit court.

Now comes Dr. Gladden, who profoundly regrets to report that the stories scraped together by the muck rakers are "mainly truth." Probably the doctor has a magazine article in type that any other statement might contradict.

A nearer acquaintance with the Filipinos has convinced Mr. Bryan that immediate independence would be a little too speedy for them. Do you notice how this "ultimate" idea seems to be growing?

It will be expected of the Kansas kissers, anyhow, that they stand together this year.

Still, it might have been worse. Suppose the drivers of the moving vans had gone on a strike!

IN A MINOR KEY.

Tragedy in Real Life.

The pitiless landlord dunned the gifted tragedian for the rent of his room, which was six months in arrears.

The gifted tragedian tore his hair.

"That's rent, all right," said the pitiless landlord, with a sarcastic smile, "but it won't apply on your account."

Badly Shaken Up.

"Great Scott, old man! When did you get back from the Pacific coast, and what bunged you up like that? Were you in the earthquake?"

"Yes, but that didn't leave any mark on me. I got these bumps a few days later, when I was in Tacoma. I carelessly spoke of 'Mount Rainier.'"

Had Tried That Plan.

"Yes, this is a fine umbrella. I thought I had lost it the other day, though, when I left it in an elevated railway car, but I called at the 'lost and found' department the next morning, and it was there."

"It worked better in your case than it did in mine. I was caught in a shower yesterday morning, and I had left my umbrella at home. I dropped in at that office to see if I couldn't get one. They told me one had been found, but sixteen men had been there trying to get it."

Historical Oversight.

Benedict Arnold had just learned that he was accused of treason.

"So!" he exclaimed. "The man with the muck rake has got around to me, has he? Well, what's the use of my saying anything? No man is safe from the 10 cent magazines these days. They're even talking about the treason of the senate."

Believing, however, that the necessity for action of some kind was imperative, he hastened to make his getaway.

Partly Remembered It.

Teacher—"Marcus Aurelius was one of the greatest pagans that ever lived. Remember that, Tommy."

Tommy (at home a few hours later)—"Markasaw Reelius was the biggest pig that ever lived, mamma. Teacher says so."

LETTER OF MARQUISE DE FONTENOY

Copyright: 1906: By the Marquise de Fontenoy

England's future queen while in Egypt was the recipient of a compliment for which there is only one precedent—namely: that paid to Empress Eugénie by the old Khedive Ismail six and thirty years ago. On that occasion—it was at the time of the inauguration of the Suez canal—Ismail caused a fine carriage road to be constructed from Cairo all the way out to the pyramids and the sphinx of Gizeh, so that the empress might be able to drive to the foot of the pyramids, instead of being compelled to make the trip on horse or donkey back.

The road, nearly eleven miles in length, exists to this day, has been used, since 1870, by many thousands of American tourists, and is now equipped with a trolley line, which enables the run to be made in about an hour, instead of taking the greater part of the day.

In honor of the visit of the princess of Wales a carriage road was constructed from Bedrasheen to the pyramids and ruins at Sakkara, and the prince and princess were thus able to drive the whole way in khedivial carriages, instead of being compelled to make the journey on donkeys or camels. It is hardly necessary to add that the construction of the road vastly impressed the natives with the importance and rank of the princess. Fortunately the roadway will remain, and will prove as great a boon to generations of American visitors to Egypt as the road built for Empress Eugénie.

Although cowardice is exceedingly rare among the officers of the Japanese army, nearly all of whom belong to the Samurai, yet there are some instances, all the more noteworthy by reason of their rarity. Thus, in the great prison of Omuta, the most despised of all convicts are a couple of former officers, a major and a colonel, undergoing life imprisonment there for cowardice under fire. They are confined in separate cages, exposed not only to wind and weather but also to the contempt of all visitors, and as an illustration of the fate reserved for cowards.

After their conviction, they were accorded the opportunity of committing hara-kiri, that is to say, of committing suicide by disemboweling themselves. But, to the profound disgust of their fellow countrymen, they declined to avail themselves of the privilege.

It may be added that none are so severe in the condemnation of cowardice on the part of the Samurai as the common people. Thus, during the recent war between Japan and Russia, whenever the men of a regiment considered that any one of their officers had betrayed signs of fear, or had wavered in bravery, he would be secretly visited on the following night by a deputation of his noncommissioned officers and privates, who would notify the delinquent commander that they were not satisfied with his conduct in action, and that, for the honor of the regiment, he must do justice to himself, that is to say, commit suicide, intimating that if he lacked the courage to kill himself, the members of the delegation would be perfectly ready to assist him in the matter.

To this may be attributed the fact that every now and again Japanese officers were found in the morning in their tents, stone dead and disemboweled.

Old Lord Dynevor, who, in spite of his seventy odd years, is the most persistent of globe trotters, and who managed to escape from the earthquake at San Francisco, with the loss of nothing but his high hat, is the chief of one of the old Welsh families, and is descended from a half sister of King Arthur of round table celebrity. He has a beautiful old place, near Llandilo, in South Wales, known as Dynevor castle, where he lives with his two unmarried daughters.

The elder, the Hon. Gladys Rice, was engaged to be married to the eldest son of that fine old Welsh baronet, Sir John Llewellyn. All preparations had been made for the wedding when, a few days previous to the date on which it was to have taken place, young Llewellyn was found dead in the woods of Pennllegare, shot through the heart. The circumstances of his death have always remained shrouded in a good deal of mystery, for, although he started out from the house in the morning in the best of spirits with a party of friends, he seems to have drifted away from them, and was away from the rest of the party when he received his death wound; whether from his own hand or from that of another, no one has ever been able to tell. He was not only good looking but also a distinguished athlete, having been a member of the Oxford university eight and likewise of the university cricket eleven.

The recent death of Prince William of Schaumburg-Lippe at Nachod, in Bohemia, recalls to mind a characteristic incident which occurred during the congress of German princes at Frankfort in 1863. At one of the grand entertainments given by the senate at the then free city of Frankfort, the metropolis of the German empire as then constituted, all the sovereigns and princes present were assembled in a reserved salon engaged in animated conversation and in the absorption of refreshments.

Suddenly, with one exception, they rose to their feet and advanced to meet a small and insignificant looking man who had just entered the room. The prince who had remained seated was Adolph of Schaumburg-Lippe.

"Who is that fellow about whom you are making all that fuss?" he growled to the elector of Hesse.

"Why, don't you know him?" replied the latter. "It's Baron Rothschild. Let me make you acquainted with him. Surely you do not want to be the only one here who does not extend a gracious welcome to him?"

"And why not?" retorted Prince Adolph. "What do I care about the fellow? I don't owe him anything," and he kept his seat, declining even to permit the baron to be presented to him.

He was the only one of all the kings, grand dukes, electors, and sovereign princes present who could afford thus to show his independence, every one of the others being indebted to the baron, either as regards their personal fortune or the finance of the nation over which they ruled. It was owing to this attitude that Prince Adolph used to be known to the day of his death as the richest prince in all Germany, not because of the size of his personal fortune, which was relatively moderate, but because he had no debts, and could, therefore, afford to be independent and free from any subserviency to the greatest plutocratic power of the present age.

Inasmuch as several branches of the Hobart family, of which Lord Buckinghamshire is the chief, have been settled in this country since the latter part of the seventeenth century, notably in Massachusetts, it may be of interest to state that the earl, who is a man of 45, has just had a son and heir born to him who will bear the courtesy title of Lord Hobart, and who will be "the last of the Hampdens," only in the sense that he is the last born descendant of the patriot John Hampden. The latter had two daughters. One of them married Sir John Hobart, third baronet of his line. Her son, Sir Henry Hobart, was killed in a duel, and it was his son who was created earl of Buckinghamshire by King George II. Hampden house, the family place in Buckinghamshire, is full of relics and souvenirs of John Hampden, the patriot, to whom the place formerly belonged.

Among the principal treasures is the old family bible of Oliver Cromwell, in which all sorts of records are inscribed in his own hand. Oliver Cromwell was often a guest at Hampden house in the days of John Hampden, who not only shared his political opinions but was also one of his near and dear relatives. The mansion is a quaint old place, and, while the more modern portion belongs to the period of that King Charles I. whose illegal levy of ship money John Hampden refused to obey, the oldest part dates back to the times of King John and of Magna Charta.

Business Test.

"I say, Jones, what do you think of this simplified spelling business?"

"Most economic thing I ever struck."

"How do you make that out?"

"Why, since there's been so much made of it by Carnegie and the college professors, I have discharged my stenographer and write all my letters myself."—Baltimore American.

Already Punished.

The slum sociologist looked properly supercilious.

"My good woman," he asked, "do you believe in the whipping post for wife beaters?"

"Naw," said the muscular matron, "but I believe in the hospital for any wife beater that tackles me."—Brooklyn Eagle.

NEWS OF THE THEATERS.

The Vaudeville Look.

Did you ever chance to notice the vaudeville look? It is an expression of countenance worn at times by the audience in a vaudeville theater, and it is different from any other expression in the world. You may visit every other kind of amusement place—you may see anything from a Shakspearean tragedy or an Ibsen problem play to the frothiest of musical comedies or the wildest of rip roaring melodramas—but nowhere will you encounter such an expression.

The vaudeville look is unique. It has no fellow in theater, church, college, or council chamber. It is a wonderful blend of stolid, solemn, patient endurance, and a resignation which has in it no trace of resentment, no sign of restlessness, no hint of weariness. It contains no suggestion of the possibility that the individual behind the expression is bored. And it is too blank even to seem true indifference. It suggests rather complete mental inactivity—not an absence of mind power, but that all mentality is in a state of absolute involition and relaxation.

The vaudeville look is in evidence when a poor act is being given. And it is the resultant product of the poor acts that are to be found in every program. The patrons of the vaudeville theaters usually are people who have the "continuous" habit—people who go week after week to vaudeville, and find in it their only source of entertainment. Here in Chicago it is estimated that the patronage of the houses devoted to the better class of this kind of amusement amounts to over 100,000 a week. These people are accustomed to having to "sit through" a number of poor acts in order to reach a few good ones. And it is the enduring of these "fillers" on the bill that creates the "vaudeville look." The patron buys his ticket with the knowledge that he will have to take a certain amount of uninteresting entertainment, and therefore he feels no resentment in his soul when he encounters it.

In fact, it is a question if he would not feel that he had been cheated if he should have placed before him a bill which was snappy and amusing from start to finish. He would feel that he had been overworked—that he had been deprived of his rightful periods of mental relaxation and torpidity. As it is, he sits back and complacently vegetates throughout four or five dull numbers, and thus is able to come up fresh and keen when anything really alive and appealing is offered him.

Over at the Majestic yesterday afternoon the vaudeville look was working overtime for a goodly part of the performance. I arrived just as the letter C was appearing on the proscenium announcement boards and the program showed that "Williams and Melbourne, banjo and vocal entertainers," were occupying the stage. A man dressed in an audible black and white check, the noisiness of which was accentuated by the wearing of scarlet socks and by having scarlet braid on the suit, came forward and murmured something about the people who resided in the gorgeous mansion painted on the backdrop and ended by saying that he would favor the audience with a few banjo selections. His favor consisted of several popular melodies plunked out to the accompaniment of the orchestra. When he had finished favoring, a woman gowned in a salmony pink and sagey green combination advanced, read a letter filled with slang, and, having been hugged by the red edged black and white check, indulged in a few pleasantries with the hugger, and then consented to favor him and the audience with a vocal selection. What that voice would have been had not a nose been its abiding place is unknowable, but certain it is that knives could not have been sharper or nails harder than was the tone production in which that kind intentioned young woman indulged. There were more pleasantries, more nasal emission, and, finally, a lot of tedious jokes and some awkward dancing and the act was ended. The vaudeville look was solid as a graven image when the curtain closed and letter C changed to D. "Lamont's Cockatoos" was the number. A timid youth, dressed in evening dress, put some medium sized cockatoos through a series of tricks which told of patient training. It was a gentle, peaceful act and the vaudeville look lightened slightly, but by no means disappeared.

Letter E came into view, a pistol shot was fired, and an abbreviated specimen of femininity attired in cowgirl costume dashed on the stage and sang a song in unintelligible text out of the left corner of her mouth. As she finished her western warble she removed her gloves, vanished behind the scenes, and a moment later came forward attired in a plaid suit, wore a diminutive straw bonnet, and carried a tiny parasol. This time she played the rural maid and continued to warble, but her words were no more understandable than at first, and the locale of the tone emission was in nowise changed. The vaudeville look deepened again.

Letter F brought four negro music makers—two women and two men. They played saxophones, gave a quartet on harp, violin, and bells, none of which was exactly agreed as to pitch, sang to piano accompaniment, and ended by giving an imitation of a "coon band." The vaudeville look grew fainter and showed some signs of disappearing.

Letter G flashed, and on the stage came a youth who played the piano by slapping the keys, and to the rapid music he coaxed forth a blond man and a fluffy headed woman danced clog dances until the vaudeville look was wiped off the face of a goodly portion of the audience. It was good dancing of its kind if any one likes the kind.

Letter H appeared, and produced Count de Butz and brother, who proceeded to do some remarkable bicycle riding. In fact, their act was so good and contained so much that was surprising that the vaudeville look took a vacation and everybody woke up and enjoyed it. Letter I coaxed back the vaudeville look a little, for the act consisted of singing by a "soubrette with the operatic voice" and a "dancing comedian." The soubrette really possessed a good voice, although the soprano part in the trio from the last act of Gounod's "Faust" rather stretched it beyond its legal limits, and the comedian wrapped a table cover around his manly form more successfully than he sang.

When letter J glowed out on the boards Edna Wallace Hopper came to the fore. She looked a bit weary, did the petite Edna, and her voice, never notable for its strength, seemed a wee bit weaker than usual. But she was gracious and graceful as ever, and sang several songs with much of her old time charm and taste. A male quartet in one of the upper boxes joined in the chorus of two of her selections and the vaudeville look went wholly out of sight. The little songstress had pleased and roused her audience.

Letter K came next and Julie Ring and Roland Sargent played a noisy comedy entitled "A Quiet Life" in noisy fashion. It consisted of a quarrel between a young married couple and ended with a Peter Pan appeal to the audience by the man, who asked some one to vouch for his future good behavior. A "Yes" was expected, but a "No" was received and the playlet ended in a shout of laughter from all concerned. The vaudeville look had vanished. Letter L resulted in Nat Haines, who began his nonsensical chatter by guying the people who got up to leave, and ended by having the audience in roars of laughter. His fun making was not always choice and it was not invariably free from a hint of coarseness, but it tickled the audience just where the audience liked to be tickled and the vaudeville look was in permanent retirement when the recorder of its fluctuations quietly took his hat and stole out before Mr. Haines could comment on the fact.

Elgar Conducts "Apostles."

Cincinnati, O., May 2.—Sir Edward Elgar, who was knighted by King Edward because of his achievements as a composer, conducted in person his oratorio, "The Apostles," which constituted the second evening's program in the seventeenth Cincinnati May musical festival tonight. This was Sir Edward's first appearance in America as conductor, making this production a notable one.

The soloists were Mrs. Corinne Rider Kelsey of England, soprano; Miss Janet Spencer, alto; Mr. John Coates of England, tenor; and Messrs. Charles W. Clark, Ffrangcon Davies, and Herbert Witherspoon, bassos.

The presence of musicians and music lovers from all parts of the country added to the interest in the performance. The English director wielded the baton with skill and power, the week's personal contact in rehearsal with both chorus and orchestra having given ample opportunity to carry out his own reading of his composition.

A TRIP TO EUROPE IN AN ARM CHAIR

BY CORA ROCHE HOWLAND.

Munich is not to be visited in the usual tourist manner. To rush from one attraction to another, and then declare you had seen the place would be ridiculous. One must become acquainted with the city as with a person of character, by slow and certain processes of affection and respect. Munich has a spirit supremely personal to those who know her well.

There is much to smile at here, and many a light hearted folly to laugh with, but there is a grand seriousness, too, that you catch sight of again and again, just as you get occasional glimpses of the higher peaks of the neighboring Alps. These you behold only when the wind is right, or when a thunder shower has clarified the upper air.

One Bavarian king after another has lavished his wealth upon Munich. An early ruler started the great art collections for which the city is famous, later monarchs added to these, acquiring sculpture also. King Ludwig encouraged music, becoming the patron of Wagner, and what he represented; all who have ruled within the last hundred years have sought to increase the city's architectural magnificence. The result justifies their expenditure of thought and money. Munich is unique among the cities. She charms you in a way peculiarly her own. She is German at the core, yet externally most cosmopolitan. In her streets and galleries you find art forms of many lands. Yes, the same is true of other cities, but somehow she wears her borrowed plumage with a difference, familiarly, so that it seems to be an appropriate embellishment of her attire.

For example, she has copied the Loggia dei Lanzi of Florence, and her royal residence is a replica of the Pitti palace. The open arcades of the postoffice contain modern paintings done in Pompeian style. Her art galleries hold masterpieces of Murillo, Rubens, Perugini, and the best from the Flemish and Netherland schools. In the Glyptothek, an Ionic building on the Königsplatz, there are the famous Ægina marbles, which formerly decorated the pediment of Minerva's temple, built by the Æginetans.

When Lewis I. wished to build the Siegesthor, or gate of victory, in token of the valor of the Bavarian troops, he took the arch to Constantine at Rome for his model, adapting it to Munich's individual need by crowning it with an enormous figure of Bavaria that stands in a quadriga drawn by bronze lions. The reliefs upon its sides show victories of Bavaria.

Yet all these borrowings have become nationalized successfully. They belong to Munich. They are dominated all by the enormous figure of Bavaria which stands above the city's hall of fame, as a mighty woman, whom the tutelary lion of the kingdom guards.

If you have time to visit but one gallery in Munich, besides taking in the Glyptothek—which, translated, means "repository of sculpture"—it should be the old Pinakothek, that celebrated "repository of painting," made up of three important collections united. As early as the sixteenth century the Bavarian princes showed a cultivated taste in art. Elector Maximilian I. admired Dürer exceedingly, and secured fine specimens of his work at Nuremberg. In 1805 these were supplemented by the Dusseldorf gallery—founded by the electors of the Palatinate—which was brought to Munich at this time to prevent its being carried off to Paris. Henceforth Bavaria claimed it as her inheritance from the Palatinate.

The Boisseree collection, rescued by brothers of the name, and their friend, Bertram, from the churches and monasteries of Cologne, which were suppressed at this same period, also were added. The Wallerstein group was acquired some twenty years later; and since then several valuable works have been purchased from Italy. Notable in the gallery are Dürer's "Four Apostles," sometimes called the "Four Temperaments"; Murillo's "Beggar Boys," Rembrandt's "Descent from the Cross," and a representative group of Rubens' paintings which show the wide scope of his genius. There also are paintings of Holbein and Franz Hals, and many other pictures of great artistic and intrinsic value.

Today Munich is an art center of importance. Her new Pinakothek has a fine collection of modern masters. Many artists live here. It is a great headquarters of work of a humorous character. Some of the best comic artists of Germany are residents of Munich, several of whom are to contribute regularly henceforth to the special comic supplement of The Chicago Sunday Tribune. Their work is celebrated throughout the world for its excellence of technique, its originality, and the sprightliness and good nature of its humor.

One part of Munich's charm is that, most versatile of cities, she is all things to all men. You get here what you come for, whatever that may be. Any member of our party who hails from Milwaukee or Cincinnati will feel at home immediately for obvious reasons. He who loves music, who knows the difference between the singing quality of a Guarnerius and the crisp and brilliant tone of a Stradivarius without being told will enjoy in Munich the musical atmosphere in which his heart delights. The artist can get the north light he prefers to work in; the scholar has plenty of dusty archives to dig in—especially if he is interested in ecclesiastical literature; and the dreamer can buy tobacco to burn.

The energetic tourist who isn't happy unless he is dashing by leagues of painted canvas will have an ideal opportunity for an artistic sprint. And those of us who like to sit at a café table and idly watch the crowd go by, while we drink lemonade through a straw, have come to the right place in coming to Munich.

This is not half the story. Gustatory pleasures invite all tastes. There are vegetarian restaurants for those who eschew meat; there are French restaurants, and Viennese, a bodega Española; there are Bavarian osterias in plenty; there is even an automatic restaurant for those who like to press a button and get electric service on the spot. If you want Hungarian wines you go to Michel's on the Rosen strasse; there are Spanish wines at the continental bodega; there is an American bar where strange concoctions, with a headache in the bottom of every glass, are served under names which may be familiar to some of you. For those who take malt beverages for their health, because the doctor says it's good for them—and for others who make no apologies—there are "bierkellers" ad libitum and terraced gardens, lined with green trees planted in green tubs, where whole families come and listen to concerts and drink each other's health in foaming steins.

All of you, even the teetotalers, must visit the famous Hofbräuhaus in the Pratzl, where the Kaiser Wilhelm always comes when he visits Munich, and stands in line with common men, rinsing out his earthen mug himself and waiting for his turn to have it filled. Afterwards he sits down with his attendant princes at a rough deal table and drinks the royal brew of the ancient dynasty of Wittelsach, eating with it slices of wurst and schwarzbrod which he purchases from a perambulating vender.

The appearance of the place has been changed from its earlier dismal aspect. A new building has been put up, a handsome affair, with frescoes on its walls. But the beer is the same that has been made in the royal brewery for three centuries, after the recipe of the famous brewer, Degernberg, a recipe that has been kept a state secret of the house of Bavaria for the last 300 years.

There are no waiters or waitresses. Whoever visits the place must wait on himself. In May, and at the festival of Corpus Christi, when the famous "bock" is served, great crowds come to drink at the Hofbrauhaus.

Munich is irresistible, I warn you. It goes to your head, even though you continue discreetly to sip lemonade through a straw. Italy was merry, Vienna was gay, but Munich is jolly. Lean and hungry faces do not reproach you from every side because of your own well being. Indeed, an American girl of the national tall, slim build feels positively meager when she walks beside a typical German maiden. By contrast she is as light and airy as a sylph. No wonder that she's looked upon as frivolous in a place where avoirdupois is synonymous with dignity.

The American girl in Munich is one of the joys of the place. She comes here to study music and art and learn German, sometimes actually, often merely ostensibly. She teaches the inhabitants a little, but they teach her rather more. When she first arrives and discovers that all the magnificent officers in gorgeous uniforms, the tightest of jackets, and swords that clank sonorously are ready to stare at her as if she were a Circassian beauty escaped from a side show, her self-esteem goes up like mercury in August. But when she meets one of these same Apollos on a narrow sidewalk and with one strong sweep of his arm he shoves her into the street so not to get his own boots dirty, her pride goes down like mercury in December.

It is to the credit of Miss Columbia that she never finds her proper place as a mere woman when she is in a German community. She never becomes reconciled to seeing members of her sex as human pack horses, especially if beside a peasant woman who carries an enormous load upon her back there walks a husky husband, her legal master, who saunters along smoking, unincumbered. An American matron has no use for the German husband who lets his wife tote the baby while he swings his cane carelessly, staring at every pretty woman that he meets.

The crowd in Munich streets is varied. There are long haired musicians mixed in with ordinary citizens, and artists dressed like old masters, to whose distinction they aspire. Students pass in groups, every society having its particular color of cap. Some of the men show livid scars upon their cheeks, from wounds received in duels. Here are generals and colonels in full uniform, with smart mustaches which are trained to turn up at the ends like the kaiser's. You may take it for granted that that policeman over there, with the close, round visored cap upon his head, has a miniature library of note books in his inside pocket, in which he writes down all the personal information about citizens that he happens to hear upon his rounds.

O, the multiplicity of things you have to learn when you come into Germany! There are rules about everything. You are not allowed to get into a street car when all the seats are full. This is different from Italy, where you are permitted to ride under such circumstances provided you will pay the railway company double fare for inconveniencing the other passengers. Women are lucky, because they do not have to learn the elaborate etiquette of bowing, which diverts us so much by its variety and formality when we are on the promenade.

By a man's bow you know his status, and also the social position of the one to whom he bows. It is amusing to see the same men bow to each other time and time again as they meet on the promenade, and every time with exactly the same precision. We note also that the men have the privilege of bowing first to the women, who appear to be charmed by the gracious attention.

Most interesting of all, considering the place, there is a fixed etiquette in regard to drinking beer. An American magazine writer explained this fully to us not long ago. When in Germany he found that there were regular formulas of words to be used under special circumstances. For instance, when a German wishes to drink with a friend, he says "Prosit," and looks him in the eye. Provided the friend is thirsty he says: "I come immediately," and proceeds to suit the action to the word. If he isn't quite ready, however, he says: "I come soon," and takes his time about it, being careful not to forget with whom it is that he is due to "come."

So far as we can observe there is not any such agony of formality among the cabbies in the Max Joseph platz, to whom a small maid in blue apron brings great earthen mugs of foaming liquid, dripping it on the pavement as she tries to carry six to ten mugs in a band. They drink their "bloom" and "all that hangs thereto" without comment, but with an appreciation undisguised. Then they put their empty mugs on the window sills of the neighboring houses for the little blue dressed girl to gather up when she comes back. And we are left guessing how many enthusiastic German adjectives they would need to express adequately their deep content.

The Best.

She (indignantly)—"Stop, sir! You shall not kiss me again! How rude you are! Don't you know any better?"

He (cheerily)—"I haven't kissed every girl in town, it is true, but as far as I have gone I certainly don't know any better."—Watson's Magazine.

STARS SEE PUPILS PLAY.

MISS JULIA MARLOWE AND E. H. SOTHERN VISIT STUDIO.

Three Performances Given by Students of Miss Anna Morgan's School, One by Miss Laurence Alma-Tadema, Daughter of English Painter — Actor and Actress Offer Advice, Latter Urging Loose Clothing for Rehearsals.

Pupils of Miss Anna Morgan's school of dramatic art were given an opportunity to display their histrionic talent before two stars of the professional stage yesterday afternoon.

Miss Julia Marlowe and E. H. Sothern visited the studio in the Fine Arts building and were given a reception by Miss Morgan and her pupils. The pupils presented three one act plays, one of which "The Silent Voice," by Miss Laurence Alma-Tadema, daughter of the English artist, Sir Lawrence Alma-Tadema, was produced for the first time in America.

Gives Advice on Rehearsing.

Both Miss Marlowe and Mr. Sothern addressed the students briefly. Miss Marlowe took advantage of the occasion to drop a few hints to the young women as to the best kind of clothes to wear while rehearsing.

"You should wear only loose wrappers or dresses," said she. "I also find it a good rule not to wear corsets while rehearsing. You cannot do good work when tightly laced in a corset."

The other plays given were "La Rhapsody," an original sketch by J. M. Sunderland, a pupil, and one scene from "Sunset," by Jerome K. Jerome, in which Miss Ruth Dillon and Miss Dorothy Glover took the leading parts.

Miss Alma-Tadema Wins Praise.

The "hit" of the occasion was the work of Miss Alma-Tadema. In this work also the pupils scored their greatest success of the afternoon in the expressed opinion of Miss Marlowe and Mr. Sothern.

Other members of the casts were Miss Agnes Garger of Budapest, Miss Carolyn Carr, Miss Dora Mitchell, Miss Mabel Matheson, Miss Virginia Brooks, Miss Mabel Johnson, Miss Irene Schooley, Miss Bertha Johnson, Miss Muriel Culbertson, Charles Lait, and J. M. Sunderland.

LAFAYETTE STATUE DELAY DISCUSSED BY F. W. PECK.

He Says Time Is Not More than Usually Taken for Works of the Sort—Fund Carefully Administered.

Ferdinand W. Peck of Chicago, in discussing the Lafayette monument yesterday, said:

"I am glad to correct any misapprehension that may have arisen from recently published statements on this subject and the fund in connection therewith. I do not believe any public trust of a similar nature ever has been more conscientiously administered.

"The idea of presenting a monument of Lafayette to France in connection with the participation of the United States at the Paris exposition of 1900 was conceived by Robert J. Thompson of Chicago, now secretary of the commission. He presented his idea to me soon after I was appointed commissioner general to the exposition. The movement was approved by President McKinley, and, with his approval, I thereupon appointed a commission, consisting of William B. Allison, United States senator; William R. Day, ex-secretary of state; the Rev. Edward Everett Hale, Archbishop John Ireland, Melville E. Stone, A. H. Revell of Chicago, Charles G. Dawes, E. A. Potter, president of the American Trust and Savings bank, Chicago; Dr. W. T. Harris, United States commisioner of education; Ferdinand W. Peck, Robert J. Thompson, Frank Thompson, John W. Mackay, Charles A. Coiller, the last three of whom since have died.

"Charles G. Dawes was appointed first treasurer of the fund. He resigned that office while he was controller of the currency. E. A. Potter of Chicago then was appointed treasurer.

"Paul Bartlett was selected as the sculptor.

"Mr. Thompson, the active secretary, was the only member of the commission who received any compensation, which was moderate for the service rendered. He organized a movement in every state of the union for the collection of pennies from the school children, the results of which reached over $40,000. This being deemed insufficient, congress appropriated $25,000 for the purchase of silver, which was coined into Lafayette memorial dollars, which were disposed of at a premium, so that the proceeds netted nearly three times the original cost to the government.

"All liabilities have been paid to date, including the sculptor, the architects for the construction of the pedestal, and all incidental expenses connected with the collection of the fund, etc., and there still is remaining in the hands of the treasurer about $55,000, which is deposited in the American Trust and Savings bank and the Central Trust company of Chicago. Interest has been and is being paid by these banks on the funds. There will be remaining, after the contract is fulfilled with the sculptor, and for construction, a sum approximating $20,000, which will be used for some public purpose to be determined by the commission.

"The temporary replica of the monument, made of staff, was unveiled July 4, 1900, in Paris, in the presence of thousands of Americans, and was a conspicuous feature of that year in strengthening the relations of the United States and France.

"Criticism has been made of the delay in completing the permanent statue, which can be answered by the statement that the monument is likely to be completed before the average time for works of a similar nature, either in Europe or in this country. St. Gaudens occupies from five to ten years on his great works; many foreign sculptors more than fifteen years, and we are informed the work of the Logan statue in Chicago covered a period of about ten years. It is probable that no great equestrian statue in the world has been done by a renowned sculptor in less than five years.

"The officials of the French republic, representing their department of public works, assure our commission that the time has not been unreasonable, and they frequently and recently have expressed their satisfaction, and have urged that there be no haste in completion that might impair the great artistic result sought for. Our state department is informed fully of all the facts in a recent communication from me.

"I might add that the amount of the contribution by the school children still is unpaid, as the government appropriation, explained above, has more than covered the entire cost of the undertaking during its history.

"I think every member of the commission will confirm the above statement."

This means much, because our Regular prices are much less than most people think and a whole lot less than most people have already spent in experiments before coming to us. This puts the great skill of the Woodbury Institute within the means of the humblest person.

It means the brightening of many lives darkened by some hideous facial blemish or deformity that causes embarrassment and humiliation. It means better positions, more pay and more attentions. Nobody wants the society of the horribly disfigured.

Ever notice how fine looking are the majority of clerks in a Bank? The Bank does not do it—the Banker picks them out because of their appearance.

Saving the Public Cigar Money

We have had repeated occasion during the past few months to call public attention to the combined reduction in cigar cost and improvement in cigar quality which American Cigar Company methods have accomplished.

A prominent example was in the cigar which, at 5c, gave everything that had ever been given by any 3-for-25c. cigar in the days before "▲" (Triangle A) methods had been perfected.

GEO. W. CHILDS CABINETS

THE "TRIANGLE A" MERIT MARK

Stands for Honest Cigar Values

We now present a new demonstration of the power of these new, scientific, cost-saving processes in the

HEAVY SELLING IN STOCKS

VOLUME OF BUSINESS FOR DAY NEARLY 2,500,000 SHARES.

Many Shares Traded In Heavily Touch New Low Record for Year—At the Close Prices Rally to Best of Day—Amalgamated Copper, Anaconda, Union Pacific, and Reading Features—Call Money Gets Up to 12 Per Cent, Then Slips Back to 7.

[BY A SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.]

NEW YORK, May 2.—[Special.]—Extremely heavy selling was the feature of the stock market today, the volume of business reaching 2,445,000 shares. Within a few minutes after trading began many stocks touched new low records for the year. Anaconda lost 14 points. At the close prices rallied to the best of the day.

At first the interest centered in the half dozen stocks which have been the market leaders for some time. Anaconda, which closed last night at 246, opened at 234, and immediately sold at 232, a loss of 14 points. Northern Pacific, which closed yesterday at 190, opened at 188, and on a "running sale" sold at 186, 185, then back to 186 and 187. Reading's first sale was only ⅛ below yesterday at 117¾, but selling soon broke out in this stock, forcing the price down to 115½, on 10,000 shares. Amalgamated Copper opened at 99⅞ to 99, as compared with 100⅝ at the close yesterday, and Union Pacific, which ended yesterday at 142¾, first appeared today at 142, 141¾, 140.

IN THE BOSTON MONEY MARKET.

Boston, Mass., May 2.—[Special.]—There was no feature of the stock market today worth mentioning. All classes of stock—copper, industrial, traction, and railroad—went the same way. [illegible]

IN FOREIGN MONEY MARKET.

LONDON, May 2.—Money hardened today and was in good demand, principally for the [illegible] settlement. Discounts were firm, owing to the uncertainty regarding the American gold [illegible], which caused further talk of a probable advance tomorrow of the Bank of England's rate of discount.

Trading on the stock exchange opened dull. The break in Americans caused an unsettled feeling, while dear money and the political outlook were responsible for a general decline, particularly in consols. Americans opened with a sharp decline and then reacted to over parity, but gave way during the afternoon on poor New York advices and closed weak. Foreigners, with the exception of new Russians, were dull. Kaffirs were [illegible]. Japanese Imperial 6s of 1904 were quoted at 101¼.

BERLIN, May 2.—Trading on the bourse today was dull, due to realizations. The weekly statement of the Imperial Bank of Germany shows the following changes: Cash in hand decreased .... [illegible] Treasury notes increased .... [illegible] Other securities increased .... [illegible] Notes in circulation increased .... [illegible]

PARIS, May 2.—The tone on the bourse today was undecided and prices closed heavy. Russian Imperial 4s were quoted at 84.15 and Russian bonds of 1904 at 509.00.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 2.—The acceptance of Witte's resignation as premier was not known on the bourse today, which was quiet. Prices were unchanged. Imperial 4s closed at [illegible]; new 5s at [illegible].

BEAR AT HELM IN WHEAT.

WEATHER AND WEAK STOCKS WORK FOR PRICE DECLINE.

Favorable Reports on Crop Conditions and Drooping of Wall Street Values Prompt Selling by Longs and Shorts—Speculative Enthusiasm at Low Ebb—Slight Changes in Corn and Oats—Sharp Declines in Hog Products.

Weather and weakness in stocks warped bullish endeavor in the wheat market yesterday. Climatological conditions in the northwest and the southwest figured as an enlarged ace of trumps in the hand of the bear, who played that card strongly enough to cause a decline of ⅝@¾c for the July and ¾c for the September. The May, meagerly dealt in, wound up unchanged, after flitting about within the range of ⅜c. Longs and the more confident shorts swung against the new crop months, using most glowing reports from the winter sections as their deadliest ammunition. General speculative enthusiasm was dampened by the sorry drooping of values in Wall street, and largely as a result the trade in the pit was confined to narrow bounds. The final prices were 78⅝c for May, 78½@⅝c for July, and 77⅝c for September.

Starting a little lower, the market soon drifted into the doldrums, with bears displaying the stronger confidence. The pressure early, however, was not pronounced, and any sort of a demand found response in prices. The July touched 79¼c, the previous close, on buying by two or three houses that appear to attach importance to the recent reports of damage to the growing plant in Kansas, Missouri, and southern Illinois, but this demand soon was overshadowed by selling on the beginning of a deluge of the most favorable crop reports—reports that were in direct contradiction to the bullish advices recently sent out from the west. Duluth and Minneapolis had combined receipts of 212 cars, compared to 108 the corresponding day last year. Winnipeg again loomed up as a big receiver, and total primaries—246,000 bu—figured 12,000 bu more than those of a year ago. Minneapolis stocks showed a decrease of 325,000 bu for four days, the showing for three days being a decrease of 375,000 bu. Liverpool was a shade higher, largely on local conditions, other leading foreign markets being inclined to weakness. Minneapolis reported deliveries of about 5,000,000 bu on contracts to date, following with word that the flour output there last week decreased 84,000 brls.

Corn in Narrow Bounds.

Corn, in which sentiment was mixed because of the labor troubles on the lakes, moved within narrow bounds, closing 1-16c higher for May and ¼c lower for July and September. Many in the trade figured that the navigation tieup would be beneficial to the local market if continued for a "reasonable" length of time, holding that the scarcity of stocks in the east will cause the distributers there to take Chicago grain on the basis of all-rail rates while the vessel traffic is impaired. A few boats were reported loading here, but Buffalo wired that a complete tieup existed there. The demand at the local sample tables was good, with prices ¼@½c higher. Several prominent shippers, short, were mentioned among the best bidders. The market lost some of its early firmness on selling by local longs, and on the weakness in wheat and stocks. Receipts here were only 94 cars, 12 under the estimate. Primary arrivals aggregated 554,000 bu, or 434,000 bu in excess of those of a year ago. There were generous rains in the belt, but bears builded up some hope on the prediction of clearer skies.

Little Change in Oats.

Oats ruled fairly strong in the face of the weakness in wheat, the trade being light as a whole. Final prices showed unchanged for May and 1-16@⅛c lower for the other months. Northwestern shorts were buyers of the May, the leading long interest being reported the best seller of that month, and a moderate unloader of the September. Some of the local cash concerns bought in the May and resold the July. Enormous cancellations of warehouse receipts were made—300,000 bu, but all of these were not sold. The largest sales, it was said, were made to go east reported to net 32¼c Chicago. Cash sales at the local tables were fairly large, prices being firm. Local receipts were 111 cars, or 10 more than estimated, shipments here being 138,000 bu. Exports from the seaboard were heavy at 464,000 bu, totaling almost 1,000,000 bu for two days.

Hog Products Break Sharply.

Hog products had a sharp break on the marketing of long stuff by speculative traders, the sales being principally of lard, in which good profits were taken. Packers and scattered shorts took the stuff. Receipts of hogs at the yards were 26,000, or about 4,000 under the estimate, and prices there were weaker. The principal western points reported hog arrivals largely in excess of those of a year ago. Shipments of meats hence were 4,389,000 lbs, compared to 1,138,000 lbs a year ago, those of lard totaling 2,060,000 lbs, against 624,000 lbs the same day in 1905. Some of the selling in the pit was prompted by the registrar's monthly report, which showed 46,000 tcs of lard here, against about 35,000 tcs expected. However, the stocks of the product are well under those of a year ago. Final prices showed declines of 12½@17½c for pork, 10¼@12½c for lard, and 2½@7½c for ribs.

Rye Market Is Quiet.

Rye was quiet and dull. A sale of 5,000 bu on the basis of 59c in store was reported. Receipts were 1 car. No. 2 was nominally 59c in store. No. 3 sold at 60c; May sold at 59c.

Barley was steady, with trade restricted. Offerings were light. For feed barley there was a good inquiry. Malting was quoted 43@49c; screenings, 30@39½c; feed, 40@41c. Receipts were 13 cars.

Flaxseed was unchanged. No. 1 was quoted at $1.09¼; No. 1 northwestern, $1.13½; May, $1.11¼.

Timothy seed ruled strong and higher. Contract spot was quoted $3.25; country lots, $2.00@3.00.

Clover was dull and unchanged. May delivery was $11.25; country lots, $7.00@9.75.

INTERESTING TRADE GOSSIP ON 'CHANGE.

Cash wheat was quiet, with a moderate demand from millers. Sales were 87,000 bu, including a lot of choice No. 1 northern at 3c over May in store. No. 2 red was held at 8@9c over May, No. 2 hard 2c under May, No. 2 northern offered at 2c over May. Outside cash markets were steady. Kansas City said wheat in the sample market was slow sale, but unchanged. No. 1 northern was in fair request, 2½@3c over May; No. 2 was 1½c over May. New York wired that there was but little inquiry for anything but small lots of corn and oats. Cash corn here was scarce and there was a scramble for the small floating supply. Prices were steady to ½c higher. Oats were in good request, with offerings liberal. The market was unchanged to ¼c higher. Sales here were 135,000 bu corn, 370,000 bu oats, and 5,000 bu rye. The seaboard reported sales of 64,000 bu wheat, 120,000 bu corn, and 150,000 bu oats.

Crop news was mainly favorable, but reports from western Kansas seemed to corroborate damage claims so far as they apply to that section. It was claimed that sixteen counties in the western half of the state would not average half a crop. These same counties last year raised 40 per cent of the Kansas crop, according to these reports. From southern Kansas, Oklahoma, and a number of points in the Ohio valley optimistic reports were received. The condition of wheat in Oklahoma was said to be practically perfect. Capt. J. M. Philipps wrote from his home at Newton, Kas., that the wheat in that state did not look as well as he expected it would, and that he thought the government's estimate as to condition was about right. Corn planting, he said, was about two weeks late, and that oats looked the most promising of anything.

The price of memberships yesterday reached the lowest point in many months, two being bought in by the board at $2,500 net to the seller. This was $300 less than the last transaction was made at and was $1,300 less than the high point reached last March. It was reported that memberships were offered yesterday at $2,300 net to the buyers.

The Northwestern Miller said: "Minneapolis flour output last week decreased 84,575 brls. This made the quantity turned out a small one. Total was 192,755 brls, against 154,475 brls in 1905, and 180,630 in 1904. Considerably larger capacity is in operation this week, and the output promises to approximate 270,000 brls. In the corresponding week last year it was 169,410 brls. Minneapolis mills experienced a pretty dull flour trade last week. Their sales seem to have been the lightest for some time. Buying was limited and only to meet the most urgent necessities. It is hard to convince buyers that it would pay to stock up at present prices, and they are drawing flour to a considerable extent from mills on old contracts. This tends to bring in shipping directions, and last week millers reported the instructions to have come in more freely."

There was general selling of July wheat by the pit crowd, led by Fricdman, Champlin, Lake, O'Brien, and Lindman, in the early part of the session. Rankin was the leading buyer at the outset, holding the market temporarily. A number of traders who were the leading buyers on Tuesday turned sellers yesterday. On the break Kneeland bought moderately, steadying the market. In the latter part of the day profit taking by shorts, with buying by the Northern Grain company, which took 200,000 bu July, and cash houses, turned the market and caused a sharp recovery.

Country millers in the northwest were said to have taken delivery of about 2,000,000 bu May wheat at Minneapolis. Several commission houses in Minneapolis took wheat for them and it is already ordered out. About 1,500,000 bu were delivered after the close of the Minneapolis market on Tuesday, making about 5,300,000 bu May wheat delivered in that market, including 30,000 bu yesterday.

Closing prices for wheat in foreign markets were: Liverpool, unchanged to ⅛d higher; Paris, ¼c lower to ¼c higher; Antwerp unchanged; Berlin, ⅜c lower; Budapest, ⅜c lower.

The indemnity contract plan of trade insurance has been formally approved by the directors, and the proposed amendment was posted for ballot yesterday.

Acceptances of corn and oats were light and there seemed to be no indications of any improvement in offerings of either cereal from the country.

The proposed amendments to the rules regulating the details of the provision trade were voted on yesterday and were all adopted.

Deliveries were 40,000 bu wheat, 15,000 bu corn, and 20,000 bu oats. Bartlett-Frazier-Carrington took in the wheat and oats.

Hately Bros. estimated the world's stock of lard May 1 at 229,616 tcs, against 243,643 tcs April 1, and 330,965 tcs May 1, 1905.

Estimated receipts for today are: Wheat, 9 cars; corn, 185 cars; oats, 114 cars; rye, 3 cars; barley, 2 cars; hogs, 24,000.

Locally no change was reported. No. 1 foundry, northern, is quoted at $18.75@19.00; No. 2 foundry, northern, at $18.25@18.50; No. 1 foundry, southern, at $18.25@18.50; and No. 2 foundry, southern, at $17.75@18.00.

Antimony—The local market is much more active and stronger. Cookson's is offered at 22½@23½c, Halletts at 22¼@23¼c, Japanese none here; other brands, 22@23c. In the London market Halletts is £5 higher at £105, and ordinary brands are £5 higher at £105.

Butter—Steady, unchanged; receipts, 7,234 pkgs. Philadelphia weak and lower; extra western creamery, 21c; extra nearby prints, 23c.

Eggs—Easy; receipts, 41,289 cases. State, Pennsylvania, and nearby fancy, selected, white, 19c; do choice, 18@18½c; do mixed fancy, 18c; western extra firsts, 17c; do seconds, 15@15½c; southerns, 11½@16c.

MARKET IN HOGS RULES WEAK.

While the run of hogs yesterday was not as strong as had been anticipated, the market failed to show particular strength. Many sellers thought there would be 30,000 new arrivals at least, but the run was only 26,000. Prices opened steady on a demand from the speculators, but weakened until the low mark of the session was about 5c under that of the previous day. The cattle market had a better tone to it and sheep and lambs showed good gains.

IN THE FINANCIAL WORLD.

ADVICES FROM NEW YORK ARE FOR LOWER PRICES.

Liquidation of Last Three Days Improves Situation and Shows How Small Is Interest of Public in the Market—Annual Report of Bethlehem Steel Corporation—Colorado Fuel and Iron Company Issue of Securities Underwritten.

Local advices from New York regarding the market position of certain large interests are that the latter see little, if anything, on the bull side at this time. They expect rallies, but a gradually lower tendency of prices.

The liquidation of the last three days has materially improved the situation, and it demonstrates how small has been the public interest in the market. It is the pools which have furnished the stocks, and no clear announcement has been made yet as to what started the selling.

The action of St. Paul on Tuesday apparently bore out the hint that the present opportunity might have been availed of by the Standard Oil interests to cause an amount of liquidation which would not only help the money market but would make stocks cheap. The selling in St. Paul could be credited to two accounts—one the desire of the principal owners of that property to break the stock market by making it a leader in the downward movement. The other theory was that the company was selling treasury stock. While it is admitted that this is a bad time to seek to put out securities, still it might be more profitable for the company to sell in the open market than to ask shareholders to subscribe.

Locally there was a feeling of distinct relief at the close of the session. Margins had been called freely, and they were for good accounts. The recovery in prices gave hopefulness and suggested that money might be a little easier because of the sustained liquidation. The money market has been unsatisfactory since last December, and the stock market is from 20 to 30 points lower. The latter constitutes a stiff decline, and may tend to discourage bull operations, for, while the largest holders of securities have not parted with them at this time, still there has been noted but little investment buying and no large absorption by interests usually bullish.

Fail to Convert Bonds.

Practically $1,000,000 of the 4 per cent convertible bonds of the Union Pacific remained unconverted on April 30, the last day on which they could be exchanged for stock. The bonds may now be called at 102-½. But prior to May 1 they could have been converted into Union Pacific stock selling at 142. On each bond, therefore, something like $420 has been lost in the way of premiums.

NEWS OF THE RAILWAYS.

ROCK ISLAND SYSTEM FINDS SUPPLY OF FUEL OIL.

It Is in Indian Territory and Oklahoma and Will Be Used on Locomotives of Southwestern Lines—Illinois Central and Southern Railway to Build a Grain Elevator at Nashville—A. C. Bird's Leave of Absence Extended for Another Six Months.

The Rock Island system for the last two years has been conducting extensive investigations in the oil beds of the Indian and Oklahoma territories, with a view to getting cheap fuel for its locomotives. The country prospected has been within a reasonable distance of the existing southwest lines of the Rock Island, and in a territory where there are already producing oil wells.

The work has resulted in the discovery of a practically undeveloped field about 150 miles long and 20 miles wide, which gives evidence of affording an abundant supply of high grade fuel oil. It is said to be the intention of the railroad officials to secure control of a sufficient portion of this field to insure an ample supply of fuel oil for the use of the locomotives of the Rock Island southwestern lines.

The Rock Island has been handicapped by the fact that no fields of high grade coal are near to the southwestern lines, and it is largely owing to the long haul of the coal from the place of production that it has cost more a ton than on any other portion of the system.

In addition to the oil supply, which gives evidence not only of abundance but in places of such quality as probably to be of greater value for refining than for fuel, there appear to be asphalt deposits worthy of development. more extended prospecting, which will require considerable time, is expected to demonstrate the actual value of the oil field, which will determine whether or not the Rock Island will equip the locomotives on its southwest lines for burning fuel oil.

New Elevator for Nashville.

It has been announced by the Illinois Central that, together with the Southern railway, it has incorporated a company at Nashville, Tenn., to be known as the Nashville Terminal company, the chief purpose of which is to build a grain elevator. It is intended to handle the grain business of the southeast and the Carolinas.
